JAP GUNS PERIL U. S. LIVES

IRISH CANDIDATE AND AID KILLED ON EVE OF VOTE

Cosgrave-De Valera Fight Is Close.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, Feb. 14.—Patrick Reynolds, government candidate for reelection to the Free State parliament, and Sergt. McGeehan, a detective, were shot and killed at Foxfield in County Leitrim today.

WM. T. COSGRAVE.

The murders occurred when Reynolds, accompanied by McGeehan, called at a house to ask for votes. The occupant of the house, Joseph Leddy, a former royal Irish constabulary pensioner, is reported suddenly to have produced a double barreled gun and fatally shot both of his callers. Leddy was arrested and charged with murder.

Reynolds Popular.

Reynolds, who was popular in the district, was an enthusiastic supporter of the government. Both he and McGeehan testified yesterday at an inquest into the death of James Vaugh, Republican leader. Both men said that Vaugh, contrary to Republican charges, had been treated in a kindly manner by civic guards during his detention just before his death.

Although the killings are thought to have no political significance, they stirred tremendous excitement in Ireland on the eve of the election to be held on Tuesday.

Cosgrave Has Back to Wall.

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

DUBLIN, Feb. 14.—The Cosgrave government in Ireland is fighting with its back to the wall this week-end to keep the Free State on the path of economic coöperation with the British empire.

With only two days left before the election, even the government's spokesmen expect no more than a victory by the narrowest of margins.

In President Cosgrave's eyes, at least, defeat by Eamon de Valera, Fianna Fail leader, would mean the end of the orderly government which Ireland won at such cost during the years of "the trouble."

Old Régime Unpopular.

Cosgrave's greatest handicap is that he has held office uninterruptedly for more than nine years, ever since the Free State was established on the shaky foundation of the Anglo-Irish treaty. Since then, by common consent, he has achieved miracles, but by now he is on the defensive. His cabinet of young men, most of them under 40, has become the old régime and, like most old régimes, is unpopular.

Today, for example, the president was booed and howled at by thousands of De Valera supporters, who invaded a great government meeting here. The objectors kept up a ceaseless din throughout Mr. Cosgrave's speech, and every cry of "Up De Valera" was wildly cheered.

During the past five years Cosgrave has had a working majority in the Dail Eireann, but it could hardly be called comfortable. The government's 63 votes in the Dail were increased by 16 Independents, while De Valera's 55 had the support of 10 Labor party members. Any pronounced reaction at this election would cause an overturn.

Stresses British Tariff.

Cosgrave is making a great play with the British tariff, which suddenly gave the Irish farmers a 10 per cent advantage over Danish and other foreign competitors. He promises continuance of the present policy of trade and coöperation with Great Britain.

But such appeals have no attractions for the young men of Ireland, who are unquestionably backing De Valera. The latter tells them he will renounce the oath of allegiance to the king, cut adrift from the British empire economically, repudiate the land annuities which the Irish farmers owe to their British landlords, and, above all, do away with "the old gang."

Such issues arouse emotions and enthusiasms strangely like those Adolf Hitler, National Socialist leader, is spreading through Germany. Whether De Valera would carry out all his pledges is beside the point. His campaign issues are as much a menace to the Cosgrave government as their counterparts are to Chancellor Bruening's in Germany.

STATES RECEIVE U. S. HANDOUTS OF 200 MILLION

14 Get More Than They Pay In.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—The species of federal paternalism known as federal aid to the states cost the taxpayers $219,162,574 during the last fiscal year, according to figures presented in both houses of congress last week.

The purposes for which Uncle Sam poured out this money were:

Total	$2,430,148,742	$219,162,574

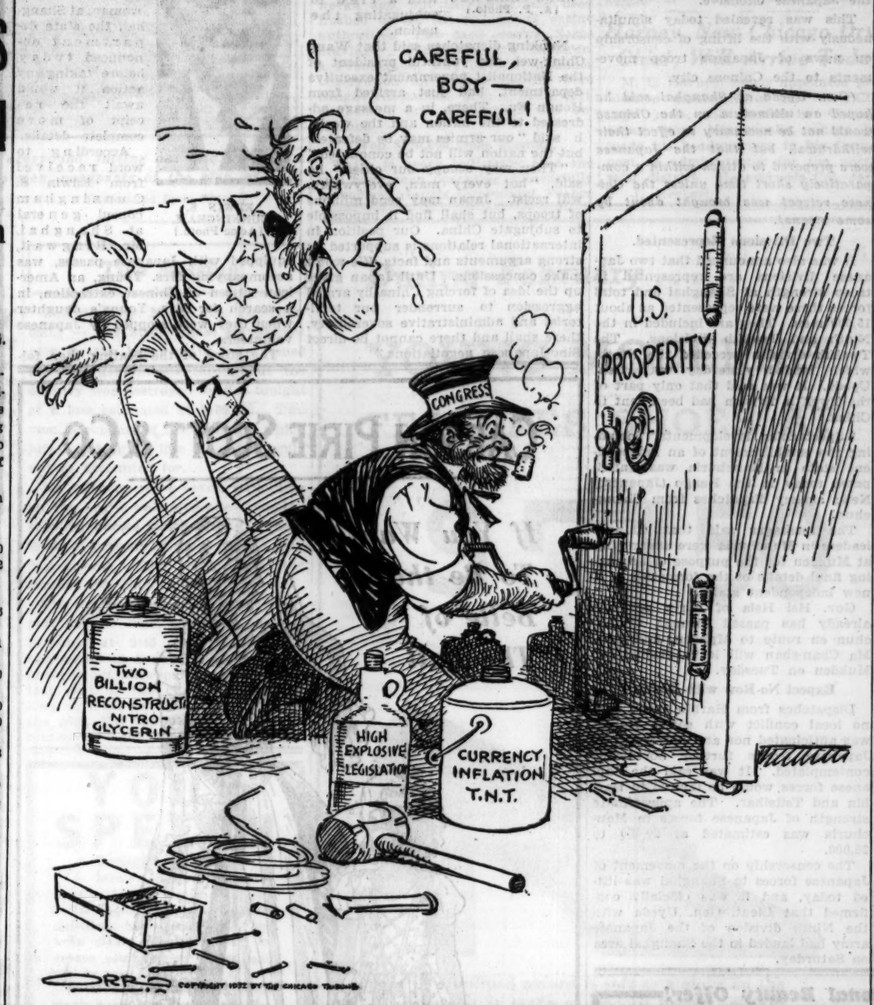
Illinois paid nearly 23 times as much toward the support of the federal government in internal revenue alone as it received from Washington in federal aid. New York paid 74; North Carolina more than 50 times as much.

"Backward" States Profit.

Most of the states which received more in federal aid than they contributed toward the support of the central government are what former Senator Joseph R. Grundy of Pennsylvania called the "backward" states.

Despite the drive for economy and the agitation for the abolition of paternalistic activities, virtually no reduction of the amount of federal aid has been made up to date in this congress.

LOST THE COMBINATION—GOING TO BLOW IT OPEN



Woman Soars 4 Miles in Oil Burning Plane

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Ruth Nichols, society aviatrix, today flew Clarence Chamberlin's Flying Furnace to a new altitude record, on the basis of an unofficial reading of her altimeter. When she landed it registered 21,300 feet, while Chamberlin's official record for the Diesel motored craft was 19,363 feet.

Miss Nichols took off at 4:15 p. m. from Floyd Bennett airport and landed an hour and one minute later after an exciting flight.

Two Cylinders Blow Out.

She encountered temperatures of 15 degrees below zero, she said, and at 20,000 feet two of her cylinders blew out. At that height, too, she was forced to the use of her oxygen tank.

In addition to the sealed barograph, which was taken from the plane at once to be sent to Washington for official calibration, Miss Nichols had three altimeters, two of which went out of commission in the upper atmosphere. The unofficial reading was taken from the third altimeter.

Despite her crippled engine and the fact that she had no brakes, she made a perfect landing and announced she had enjoyed the flight. She circled over Flushing most of the time.

Her unofficial altimeter reading was greater than that of Chamberlin after his flight and it was believed the official calibration would establish the new record for planes of this type.

Burns Furnace Oil.

Chamberlin was present as her technical advisor, and gave last-minute instructions as she stepped into the cockpit, wearing a heavy flying suit, lined boots, and a purple scarf wound about her head instead of a helmet.

The plane carried 15 gallons of furnace oil, and one tank of oxygen. The regular wheels were changed for smaller, lighter ones before the flight.

Miss Nichols holds several records and has reached an altitude of 28,743 feet in a gasoline plane.

HITLER IS MADE GERMAN CITIZEN, NEWSPAPER SAYS

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The newspaper Montag Morgen said it was reliably informed today that Minister of Interior Dietrich Klagges of Brunswick, a National Socialist, had automatically conferred citizenship on Adolf Hitler by appointing him professor of applied pedagogy at Brunswick Technical university.

Hitler, who was born in Austria but fought for Germany during the war previously was reported to have been made a citizen by appointment as police commissioner of a small town in Thuringia. His headquarters in Munich scoffed at the report.

SHATTERS SPEED RECORDS FOR ELECTRIC TRAIN

Chicago and Milwaukee were brought closer together last night with the inauguration of a new schedule which cuts five minutes off the regular running time of the 8 o'clock express of the Chicago, North Shore and Milwaukee Electric railroad. The trip from Milwaukee to Chicago was made in one hour and forty minutes.

The old schedule required one hour and forty-five minutes, and it is believed the running time established last night is a new high record for electric interurban speed in this country. The distance between the Chicago and Milwaukee terminals is 87.19 miles. Including stops, the average speed of the express last night was 52.3 miles per hour, according to John R. Blackhall, general manager of the North Shore line. Seventy-four miles of the trip was made at an average speed of 85.3 miles, he said.

"In establishing this new record for high speed service, the North Shore line is attempting to meet the growing public demand for the fastest transportation consistent with safety and comfort," said Mr. Blackhall.

Frankenstein Is Kidnaped; Help! Police!

"I want to report a kidnaping," he said.

"When? Where? Who was it?" demanded the sergeant.

"It was last night, on La Salle street, in front of the city hall," said De Carl. "A bunch of drunks did it. They grabbed him out of the rumble seat of my brother Sam's car."

"Grabbed who?"

"They grabbed Frankenstein."

"Say!" exclaimed the sergeant. "Are you trying to kid me?"

"No," expostulated De Carl. "Frankenstein was a tailor's dummy. I went to a dance at a hotel and I took him along for the girls who were wall flowers to dance with. They had a great time with him, and then when my brother was taking him home some drunks grabbed him out of the rumble seat."

"Well, if he was only a dummy, what are you so excited about?" asked Sergt. McCarthy.

"It was like this," said De Carl. "I didn't have any clothes to fit him, so I put my uncle's best suit on him. If I don't get him back I'll have to buy uncle a new suit."

BANDIT JONES FINDS OUT WHY HE'S IN HOSPITAL

Ernest Jones, 25 years old, 2533 Merrimac avenue, and a companion, identity known only to Jones, decided to become robbers last night. They had a pistol and the first victim they picked on was Calvin Martin, landscape gardener at the Dunning institution.

It was found that Martin had no money, so Jones and his friend tossed him out of his car at 6500 Belmont avenue and drove to a filling station at 7642 Addison street. There they took $30 from Roger Eastman, the attendant. Jones' companion pocketed the money and climbed into the car.

"You should ask," said one of the policemen who took him there. "You were careless with your pistol and so Mr. Eastman, who knew you had been drinking moonshine, grabbed a shovel and hit you over the head with it. Then he took your pistol and shot four times at your friend, who got away. You will notice, if you look carefully, that you have been scalded, too. That was because Mr. Eastman, in a hurry to slug you with his shovel, kicked over a bucket of hot water and you fell in it."

League Learns There's a War at Shanghai

BY JAY ALLEN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GENEVA, Feb. 14.—The league of nations today received its final report from its Shanghai investigating commission and learned thereby that a war is going on in the far east.

COUNT CIANO. [A. P. Photo.]

"Since Feb. 3 a state of open war has existed and a pretense at a truce has been abandoned," said a five page telegram sent by the commission of consuls, headed by the Italian, Count Galeazzo Ciano, Premier Mussolini's son-in-law.

The league learned even more than the obvious fact that there is a war. What it learned will bring developments at the council meeting called for Tuesday if the smaller powers represented at the horseshoe table win their point.

Enough for Clear Idea.

They claim that there is enough evidence in the two reports for the council to have a clear idea of what happened. At Friday's session the powers least anxious to commit the league—England and France—held there was nothing that the council could do about the conflict in China as long as the final report was not received. Now it is in.

If the council still decides it it not in position to produce some platonic observation on the war between two league members, then the Chinese will go ahead and have the assembly called in the hopes of finding enough countries which feel that this is a matter on which the league might collapse.

Today's report by the Shanghai commission began on Jan. 29, where the first report left off. It is not clear as to who was responsible for breaking the truce on Feb. 2.

"It must be noted in relation to any question of a breach of the truce," the report said, "that a complete truce never really existed and also that in the absence of foreign observers on the fighting line it was impossible to establish which side should be held responsible for breaking the truce."

Find Japanese Aggressors.

"... state of war exists," the consuls said. "The offensive is entirely in the hands of the Japanese who have declared that their object is to capture the Woosung fortress and drive all the Chinese troops a considerable distance from Shanghai."

The report referred to "numerous excesses committed by Japanese marines and reservists probably actuated by a spirit of revenge; a reign of terror resulted."

One Macaberesque detail was adduced, that "owing to the large number of Chinese believed arrested and of whom no trace can be found, the municipal council asked the consular body to approach the Japanese authorities with a view to an inquiry.

Many Chinese Missing.

"The number of Chinese still unaccounted for is very large. The municipal police have already collected details on about 100 cases. The Japanese authorities are greatly concerned over excesses committed by their nationals and a considerable number of undesirables have been deported to Japan."

This statement was made by Dr. Lester E. Siemon of Cleveland at the annual conference of the Homeopathic congress, held yesterday at the Palmer house.

SHELLS DROP ON BARRICADES OF CIVILIAN CORPS

BULLETIN.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 (Monday).—(AP)—American and British members of the international settlement volunteer corps patrolling the northern boundaries of the settlement received a baptism of fire today when a number of Japanese shells fell within their positions. The volunteers withdrew, but soon returned and began strengthening their barricades. The shells were part of a Japanese bombardment of Chinese positions. Japanese airplanes bombed Chapei for an hour just before noon.

BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Feb. 15 (Monday).—Kenkichi Yoshizawa, Japanese foreign minister, today requested the ambassadors of the United States, Great Britain and France to meet with him at 4 o'clock this afternoon to discuss the question of effecting a withdrawal of Chinese troops to a reasonable distance from Shanghai.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 [Monday].—The Japanese general staff played its trump card here yesterday and last night when they landed 12,000 soldiers of the Ninth division and marched them to billets within the international settlement.

The troops were landed from nine transports. Six more troop ships, carrying 10,000 men, are within the harbor waiting berthing space alongside the swarming jetties. Despite feeble and futile protests from the Chinese government, the Shanghai municipal council, Great Britain, France, and the United States, the Japanese troops disembarked on the jetties within the gates of the settlement.

Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, commander of all the Japanese land forces, also established his headquarters within the settlement.

Renew Peace Efforts.

Meanwhile many individuals, foreigners and Chinese alike, are working at more or less cross purposes in the direction of a peaceful solution of the Shanghai conflict, but little hope is held for immediate success.

The Yangtzepoo area, where most of Shanghai's industrial works are located and where the United States government owns a valuable plot of land on which it is intended to build a new government building to house the consulate and other American government offices, now has become the latest Japanese military camp.

The streets are congested with long lines of Japanese infantry marching to their billets. Artillery, ranging from the light mountain type batteries to heavy howitzers, tanks, armored cars, and all kinds of subsidiary equipment go rumbling by.

Opinion differs as to the actual number of men Japan is landing. Lieut. Gen. Uyeda today merely replied to an inquiry by saying:

"I'm commander of an imperial army division."

35,000 Japanese Troops.

Reports from Tokio, however, indicate that two divisions, including the Kurume and Kanazawa divisions, have been sent. Military observers estimate Japan has 35,000 troops at Shanghai.

Due to the destruction of the ancient type guns at the Woosung forts, the Japanese were able to enter Shanghai harbor without a single opposing shot being fired at them from the Chinese side, although Japanese warships, stationed within the breakwater where the Whangpoo estuary joins the Yangtze, put up a showy bombardment of the Chinese positions which appeared more for the purpose of impressing the arriving Japanese troops than damaging the Chinese.

Apparently due to the desire of both sides to take a fresh breath in preparation for future developments little fighting occurred along the 14 mile battle line between Shanghai and the Woosung fortress.

Clash at Race Course.

There was a minor clash this afternoon when detachments of Chinese and Japanese troops battled for positions near Shanghai's Kingwan race course. The Chinese succeeded in holding a portion, including the grandstand, while the Japanese won control of a section used by the jockey club.

Between 9 and 10 o'clock last night

a battery, supposedly Japanese, fired a dozen shells which landed along the edge of Soochow creek. The creek is guarded by American marines, but no marines were wounded and this morning they exhibited a small heap of fragments from shells which are being examined in order to determine whether they were from Chinese or Japanese guns.

The majority of the new Japanese troops are youthful and apparently are carefully selected men. The equipment includes an unusually large amount of supplies. Mongolian ponies and mules have been brought along to carry the so-called mountain artillery across the difficult Yangtze valley terrain.

All Up to Chinese.

American Minister Nelson T. Johnson, who spent many hours yesterday interviewing delegations of pleading Chinese, today expressed the hope for a peaceful adjustment of the crisis. He said that everything depends on the attitude of the Chinese 19th route army and whether it intends to fight what now appears to be a losing battle or voluntarily retires from Shanghai and let the Japanese take the city over.

That the Japanese army intends to engage in an early offensive is indicated by officers' statements as well as by the character of equipment which was landed yesterday. The Japanese forces now includes a carrier pigeon detachment which the Japanese use for dispatch purposes when detachments advance long distances from their base.

Mr. Johnson admitted there is a possibility that Shanghai is likely to experience a serious food shortage in the event that the Japanese throw lines about the city. Such action would stop Chinese canal traffic carrying foodstuffs to a normal population of 3,500,000 which now has probably increased to 4,000,000 due to the arrival of war refugees.

Will Fight to Last Man.

Although the American minister has conversed with numerous Chinese, including delegations representing the Shanghai Chamber of Commerce and officials of the national government, he said that it is impossible yet to determine the Chinese intentions. He stated that practically all the Chinese were high in their praises of the bravery of the Chinese troops. The Chinese leaders also declared a determination to fight to the last man and the last trench against the Japanese invasion.

Ready for Attack.

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

SHANGHAI, Feb. 15 [Monday].—A battle that would make hostilities around Shanghai during the last three weeks look like a mere skirmish appeared inevitable today as both Chinese and Japanese massed troops and more troops all along the Chapei-Woosung battle front.

The coming of bloodshed on a large scale appeared all the more certain as feverish efforts of neutral mediators to avoid it met with failure at every turn.

Although the Japanese completed landing of soldiers from seven transports at Woosung and in the international settlement yesterday, large gangs of stevedores were still busy early today unloading equipment obviously intended for "a big push."

Troops "Safety Measure."

The latest word from the Japanese officially as to their intentions on the Chapei-Woosung battle front was contradictory. Early Sunday Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, commander of all the Japanese land forces, denied that a big Japanese offensive was at hand and explained that the sole object in coming to Shanghai of large troop forces was to make the place safe. He added that he still hoped for peaceful settlement involving voluntary withdrawal of the Chinese "a safe distance."

Late last night Rear Admiral Shimada, commanding the naval forces of the Japanese, used his doubled fist to emphasize his views. He saw correspondents aboard the flagship and said that in view of the Chinese attitude it probably would be necessary to "strike them out."

The admiral intimated that if the Chinese troops did not voluntarily withdraw the Japanese would drive them back perhaps 30 miles from the boundaries of the international settlement. A narrower zone, he pointed out, would make possible surprise forays from the Chinese, thus endangering the safety of Japanese in Shanghai.

A trip along the Woosung end of the Chapai-Woosung line indicated that the Japanese forces were distributing their strength further inland. Many of the troops which landed yesterday had been sent toward Klangwan between Woosung and Shanghai.

Chinese Firmly Entrenched.

SHANGHAI, Feb. 14.—Reports that the Japanese had captured Liuho, a Yangtze river town twenty miles from Shanghai, proved baseless after an investigation. Instead of Japanese being there the Chinese were found to be in possession with 10,000 men of the 8th division, the Nanking gendarmerie, under Gen. Koo Tso-Tung, who arrived at Liuho on Saturday, are busily constructing more than a three mile trench system facing the Yangtze, with field artillery pieces mounted and additional defenses prepared facing the land flank toward Woosung.

An automobile trip from Jessfield park, fringing Chapei, thence to Liuho, revealed many secondary defense lines of barbed wire, trenches and sandbags at intervals along the entire twenty miles, all tightly held by the 19th route army.

The concentration of Chinese troops in the Shanghai delta region is enormous. The soldiers are scattered along the defense lines in very small groups in order not to afford conspicuous airplane targets.

The roads in this area continue to present a melancholy spectacle with thousands of refugees from Chapei and other portions of Shanghai trudging through the snow and rain carrying immense burdens of personal effects with the only refugees riding using wheelbarrows, the army apparently using vehicles of all other descriptions.

At Liuho a fleet of more than 1,000 fishing boats has been organized for defense against expected Japanese landing parties. These hardy fishermen have long been equipped with rifles and revolvers to protect themselves against pirates and are now expecting to use the weapons against the Japanese.

150 SHANGHAI SCOUTS, OF 20 NATIONALITIES, BUSY DAY AND NIGHT

SHANGHAI, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The Boy Scout motto, "Do a good turn daily," might as well be "Do a hundred good turns daily," so far as Boy Scouts of Shanghai are concerned during the present emergency.

When the Sino-Japanese hostilities began some three weeks ago the Scouts were among the first to volunteer their services to the Shanghai volunteer corps.

Since then they have been busy day and night serving as messengers, guides, clerks, telephone operators, and orderlies, and doing light patrol duty. They have also assisted in the relief of suffering refugees.

The local Scout council consisting of 150 boys is unique in as much as it includes 20 nationalities. The 25 American Scouts are in the midst of activities, being concentrated in the municipal building, where they are provided with living quarters.

GET OUT OR WE'LL ATTACK! JAPAN TO WARN CHINA

General Is Expected to Present Ultimatum.

TOKIO, Feb. 15 [Monday].—(AP)—Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, commander of the Japanese land forces at Shanghai, was expected to present an ultimatum to the Chinese shortly, demanding withdrawal, and, if he were refused, to launch an early renewal of the Japanese offensive.

This was revealed today simultaneously with the lifting of censorship on news of Japanese troop movements to the Chinese city.

(Gen. Uyeda at Shanghai said he hoped an ultimatum on the Chinese would not be necessary to effect their withdrawal, but that the Japanese were prepared to attack within a comparatively short time unless the Chinese retreat was brought about by some means).

Two Divisions Represented.

It was also announced that two Japanese divisions are represented in troop strength at Shanghai and total forces there were represented as about 15,000 men. They are included in the Ninth and Twelfth divisions. The Twelfth division preceded the Ninth, which landed yesterday with Gen. Uyeda. It was said that only part of the Twelfth division had been sent to China.

"Spectacular developments," including the establishment of an independent state in Manchuria was anticipated today in the Rengo (Japanese) News agency dispatches from Changchun.

The messages said that Chinese leaders in Manchuria were assembling at Mukden for the purpose of arranging final details of the formation of a new independent state.

Gov. Hsi Hsia of Kirin province already has passed through Changchun en route to Mpkden, and Gen. Ma Chan-shan will leave Harbin for Mukden on Tuesday.

Dispatches from Harbin today said no local conflict with soviet Russia was anticipated nor any movement of Japanese troops further northward contemplated. It was said the Japanese forces would be limited to Harbin and Tsitsihar. The approximate strength of Japanese forces in Manchuria was estimated at 20,000 to 25,000.

The censorship on the movement of Japanese forces to Shanghai was lifted today, and it was officially confirmed that Lieut. Gen. Uyeda with the Ninth division of the Japanese army had landed in the Shanghai area on Saturday.

'YIELD NO GROUND TO JAPANESE,' CHINESE NATIONALISTS PLEAD

The central executive committee of the party sent an urgent telegram to the execu-Yuan and the military council declaring that the Japanese proposal to demilitarize the "principal ports" of China was made with a view to subjugating the nation.

Nanking dispatches said that Wang Ching-wei, the youthful president of the Nationalist government executive department, had just arrived from Honan Fu. There, in a message addressed to the nation and the world, h said "our armies may be defeated, but the nation will not be conquered."

"They may occupy our cities," he said, "but every man, everywhere, will resist. Japan may send millions of troops, but shall find it impossible to subjugate China. Our position in international relations is supported by strong arguments and facts. We won't make concessions. Until Japan gives up the idea of forcing China by armed aggression to surrender our territorial and administrative sovereignty, there shall and there cannot be direct Sino-Japanese negotiations."

HOLD UP ACTION ON BEATING OF VICE CONSUL

Washington Gets Official Report of Attack.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Following the receipt of an official report on the beating of American Vice Consul Arthur R. Ringwalt and Mrs. L. Young, an American woman, at Shanghai, the state department announced today before taking any action it would await the receipt of more complete details.

According to word received from Edwin S. Cunningham consul general at Shanghai, Mr. Ringwalt, equipped with Japanese passes, was accompanying Mrs. Young, an American citizen of Chinese extraction, in a search for Mrs. Young's daughter when they were stopped by Japanese volunteers.

The story of the beating then followed in the words of Vice Consul Ringwalt's report to the consul general:

"I was able to convince them of the nature of my mission. I had more difficulty in reminding them that, while Mrs. Young is reported to be of the Chinese race, she was an American citizen. Eventually, however, we were allowed to pass and were furnished an escort of Japanese volunteers both of whom spoke English.

"A few hundred feet farther we were again stopped by another group of volunteers who rushed up to us waving clubs. I again very patiently attempted to explain to them the circumstances of my mission, but the presence of the woman seemed to infuriate them. One volunteer seized her by one arm and one by the other while a third commenced to strike her. On my attempting to interfere their wrath was transferred to me and I sustained a few minor bruises at their hands and at the same time had to submit to the humiliation of being searched, apparently for firearms.

Japanese Marines Present.

"Two more Japanese marines were present at this time. I continued to request that I be permitted to visit Mrs. Young's home and was finally allowed to do so. I found that the building had been broken into and deserted and everything of value removed or destroyed."

"Consul General Cunningham filed a protest with the Japanese consul general," the state department said.

URGE INSURANCE FOR UNEMPLOYED IN SIX STATES

Commission Is Named by Governors' Report.

Boston, Mass., Feb. 14.—(AP)—A specific form of insurance against unemployment has been recommended, it was announced today, by an interstate commission of unemployment insurance representing the governors of Massachusetts, New York, Ohio, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and Connecticut.

Made public by Gov. Ely, the commission's recommendations, nine in number, follow:

1. The compulsory establishment of state-wide systems of unemployment reserves.

2. The payment by each employer of a contribution amounting to 2 per cent of his pay roll.

Maximum Benefit Rate.

3. The payments made by each employer shall constitute the unemployment reserve of his firm and shall be so treated in the accounts.

4. The maximum rate of benefit shall be 50 per cent of an employé's wage, or $10 a week, whichever is lower; and the maximum period of benefit shall be ten weeks within any twelve months. Employés who suffer unemployment by reason of short time employment shall be eligible for benefits whenever their week's wages are less than 60 per cent of their overage weekly wage, but the benefit for part unemployment shall not exceed the difference between the wage actually received and 60 per cent of the employé's average weekly wage. In no case, however, shall the benefit of a part time employé exceed $10 a week.

5. The financial responsibility of an employer shall be strictly limited by the amount of Boston unemployment reserve.

The Employer's Contribution.

6. When the accumulated reserve per employé shall exceed $50 the employer's contribution shall be reduced to 1 per cent of his pay roll; and when the reserve has reached $75 he shall make no further contributions to the fund until the reserve again falls below $75 per employé.

7. The state shall act as the custodian, investor and disbursing agent of the reserve funds.

8. The state shall take prompt steps to extend its public employment service.

9. The unemployment authority shall create stabilization agencies.

GERMAN NAZIS AND COMMUNISTS FIGHT; 1 KILLED

HAMBURG, Germany, Feb. 14.—(AP)—One man was shot and killed today in a skirmish between national Socialists and communists while the former were attempting to post bills in a communist district here. Forty were arrested.

Labor Party Offers Support.

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Germany's Republicans, including the social Democrats who embrace the bulk of the laboring class, indicated at a national conference today that President Paul von Hindenburg would have their support if he agreed to become a candidate for reëlection.

Although leaders of various Republican organizations criticized Chancellor Heinrich Bruening for what they termed laxity toward the Nazis [Fascists] of Adolf Hitler, they praised Von Hindenburg for impartiality and loyalty to the constitution.

New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—The nation-wide campaign to obtain jobs for 1,000,000 unemployed planned for the last six weeks by the American Legion in coöperation with the American Federation of Labor, the National Association of Advertisers, and other organizations represented in the national employment commission will begin tomorrow.

H. L. STEVENS JR. [H. and E. Photo.]

Committees in more than 7,000 towns and cities, supported by more than 10,000 posts of the American Legion and 30,000 unions affiliated with the A. F. of L. will coöperate in the campaign. It is planned to have 1,000,000 unemployed placed in jobs within the next thirty days.

The campaign will be under the general direction of Henry L. Stevens, national commander of the American Legion.

The campaign has the support of President Hoover, President William Green of the American Federation of Labor, and a group of the nation's leading church, fraternal, and civic bodies.

Magazines and publications commanding total circulation of 35,000,000 will coöperate in the drive, as will nearly sixty prominent national radio advertisers, who have agreed to contribute thirty seconds of their time on the air daily.

CHAS. DICKINSON, AGED 73, PLANS PACIFIC FLIGHT

Wilmington, Del., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Charles Dickinson, 73 years old, of Chicago, believed to be the oldest airplane pilot in the world, is negotiating with the Bellanca Airplane corporation for the purchase of a plane in which he plans to fly from Seattle, Wash., to Tokio, Japan, before May of this year to win a $25,000 prize offered by a Seattle corporation. Dickinson flew here in a plane of an air transport company and, after inspection of a plane, went to Washington, D. C., by air. He is expected back this week to complete negotiations.

CAPTIVE HOLDS TO HIS STORY IN BOND MYSTERY

Oscar Mohr, who described himself as a New York bond salesman, continued to maintain yesterday that he did not know $41,000 in bonds found in his room at the Palmer house on Friday were stolen or even that they were bonds. His only explanation was that a mysterious stranger knocked on his door and asked him to keep the package containing the securities.

The policemen who went to arrest him because he had a 19 year old model, Sally Wilson, with him in violation of the proprieties, related that they heard him talking on the telephone and saying: "Yes, I've got them here," which convinced the policemen that he was talking about the bonds.

Another development in the case was the arrest of Arthur Rosenburg, 37 years old, 1331 Carmen avenue, who went to the hotel room on Thursday evening to visit Mohr. Rosenburg, who admitted he once served a term in Leavenworth penitentiary for violating the bankruptcy laws, denied that he knew anything about the stolen bonds. He and Mohr are both being held while the New York police are investigating the circumstances surrounding the theft of the bonds. They are to be arraigned before Judge Prystalski of the Criminal court today. Sally Wilson, charged with disorderly conduct, was released on bonds.

Two Missing

Atlantic City, N. J., Feb. 14.—[Special.] — The Steeplechase amusement pier on the board walk here famed for two generations throughout the country was destroyed by fire tonight at a loss estimated at $500,000. Two men, occupants of the structure which jutted a block out into the ocean, could not be accounted for.

An offshore wind saved structures on the board walk opposite from the shooting flames which attracted thousands of persons of the week-end holiday crowds. The pier is near the Strand and Hadden Hall hotels.

The fire was discovered in the front part of the high one story wooden building at 9:45 o'clock. Firemen, summoned on a general alarm which brought out all apparatus in the central part of the city, attempted to keep it from sweeping the length of the pier, but the flames got beyond control and the structure collapsed.

WIN $45,000 ON RIVIERA WITH MARKED CARDS

Slickers Trim Casino, but Are Caught Later.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

CANNES, France, Feb. 14.—The municipal casino of Cannes, which is "one of the snootiest" on the Riviera, has been nicked to the tune of $45,000 by the hoary racket of using cards with bent or slotted corners, it was learned today.

The gambling "coup" was executed in an hour of brief sittings some three weeks ago, but the affair had been hushed up at the request of casino authorities. Two card sharps, Serge Stavinsky, a Russian, and Gallardo, a Frenchman, who have been under observation for over a month, were caught red-handed with a thick deck and that's how the racket was unearthed.

Won $120,000 from Woman.

There is every indication that the two have been operating successfully at various resorts throughout France for the last two or three years. The gambling squad of the surete generale, which has been investigating their activities, believes that they won $120,000 from a wealthy American woman, Mrs. Falk, at Biarritz last September. In that case, however, the swindlers were outsmarted as Mrs. Falk paid her gambling debt by check and then instructed the bank not to honor the check, claiming that she had been "robbed."

Gallardo and Stavinsky also excited the suspicion of Deauville and Monte Carlo by their consistent winnings at baccarat.

Outwit "Crook-Proof" Machinery.

The most amazing feature of the case was that the two were able to outwit the elaborate "crook-proof" security machinery of the Riviera casins with methods as crude as marking cards. The mystery became even deeper when it was learned that the cards are locked up each night in the casino safe to prevent any tampering.

There was some suspicion of collusion and the detective who has been shadowing the pair for a month and eventually catching them, has been provisionally suspended on the nominal charge of "unprofessional conduct."

DISCUSS LOWER COUNTY PENSION RATE TO MOTHERS

Cut in Nursing Expense Is Also on Program.

Further savings of county funds were in prospect yesterday as 3,800 county employés planned a meeting of protest against a 20 per cent wage reduction. A downward revision of the appropriations for nursing, mothers' pensions and child placing was under discussion between President Emmett Whealan of the county board, Mayor Cermak, and others.

EMMETT WHEALAN

It was announced the county board might seek authority from the legislature to defer adopting the budget until June 15 to give time for a Supreme court decision on the tax ruling of County Judge Jarecki, so the commissioners may get a definite idea of the 1932 revenue before they decide on 1932 expenditures.

Hunt Added Economies.

As both the city and county were under the necessity of reducing expenses by 20 per cent the officials have sought economies other than the reduction of wages. One of the first items to be discussed was the cost of nursing at the county hospital.

This nursing expense increased from $400,000 in 1922 to about $1,200,000, according to the commissioners. This increase was attributed to the fact that during prosperous years there was a shortage of student nurses at the county hospital and a consequent need of hiring more graduate nurses. Also the working hours have been shortened and the teaching hours lengthened to attract more student nurse applications in the prosperous era.

Today, however, conditions are changed, it is said, and because of unemployment conditions more girls are ready to go into training. As the costs of nursing mounted while employment was plentiful, they should go down sharply now, according to opinions expressed yesterday.

Consider Mothers' Pensions.

It was stated that there are now 2,100 women receiving mothers' pensions amounting to over $1,200,000 a year, and that more than that number are on the waiting list. The pension is $25 for the first child and $15 for each other child, up to $85 per month. The present average is $55 a month. Emergency relief fund leaders have fixed the sum of $39 per month per family as sufficient to meet present needs, because of reduced rents and lowered costs of living.

The county commissioners were considering a new scale which would provide a greater number of women with pensions at a lower rate. At present, it was explained, those on the "waiting list" get only fuel, shoes and one basket of food per month from the county. If more of those dependents can be cared for by the county the state commission will be able to spread its relief over a greater number of families, it was suggested.

Pension Law Is Cited.

According to Joseph L. Moss, director of the county bureau of public welfare, a mother, to be eligible to a county pension, must be a widow; a deserted wife, or the wife of a man permanently incapacitated, and a resident of Cook county for at least three years. If, however, her husband died, deserted her or became disabled while they were legal residents elsewhere, the mother can never become eligible to the pension in Cook county, regardless of how long she has lived here.

All dependent children must be under 16 years of age. It must be shown that unless the pension is received the children will have to be sent to some public institution, and it must further be shown that no near relatives exist, who might be compelled to provide sustenance.

Look Into Boarding Costs.

The county's financing of children put in private homes rather than in institutions was also considered in the light of the $39 per month estimate of the emergency fund. The sum of $25 per month for the maintenance of a girl and $20 for a boy was regarded as out of proportion if an entire family could be helped through their period for $39 a month.

With the above possible revisions in mind and with other economies, the commissioners say they hope to keep expenses down to minimum this year. The brunt of the program of economies already adopted officially by the board falls on the 3,800 employés of the county. The employés expect to have their protests heard at a meeting of the board next Saturday when the commissioners plan to act on the draft of its 1932 budget.

Asks Voice for Employés.

When the present plan of reducing salaries by 20 per cent during the remaining nine months of the year, through the deduction of six days' pay each month, was proposed by Commissioner Walter La Buy, he suggested that the employés be allowed to voice their opinions on the question.

Other members of the board overrode his plan that a vote be allowed on the following five plans: A definite salary cut, pay suspensions for six weeks, graduated salary reductions, job cuts, and the 20 per cent plan.

The union labor employés of the county been have counted out of the proposed pay cut, refusing to modify the authorized union scale. At the conference yesterday means were discussed for putting the union help on the same basis as the other workers in salary reductions.

GERMANY SPURNS FRENCH OFFER OF INCREASED ARMS

Reich Minister Shows Agent the Door.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Feb. 14.—A French offer to permit expansion of German armaments to 80 per cent of the strength of other countries was revealed today by Gottfried Treviranus, reich minister of transportation, in addressing American students here.

Treviranus stated that he received a visit from an agent of the Schneider-Creusot munitions works, who conveyed the offer on condition that Germany purchase armaments from France.

Treviranus said his reply was, "My friend, there is the door. We do not want war."

Sort Disarm Schemes.

GENEVA, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Efforts to sort diverse schemes for disarming the world into an acceptable code were ahead of the international arms conference as it began its third week today.

Fourteen speakers, mostly from the smaller nations, remained to be heard before the beginning of detailed technical discussions. With the preliminary talks out of the way, the conference will split up toward the end of the week into commissions dealing directly with land, sea and air armaments.

But first it will hear Wednesday from Rudolf Nadolny, German ambassador to Turkey, the German program for gradual disarmament as called for by the Versailles treaty which disarmed Germany.

Turkey On Program Today.

The directorate of the conference tomorrow will begin examining and codifying the various disarmament proposals already presented. It will then refer them to the appropriate commission.

Meanwhile several of the principal delegates have returned home to report to their governments, expecting to return in time to hear Ambassador Nadolny present the Germon plan in detail. Chief among them are Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, and Dino Grandi, foreign minister of Italy.

The first speaker tomorrow will be Tewfik Rushdi Bey, Turkish foreign minister. Delegates of several small nations not among the fourteen scheduled to speak this week may deliver brief addresses, as officials of the league of nations, which prides itself as representing the "little fellows," have beseeched them to make themselves heard.

POLITICIANS EYE 37TH WARD RACE OF T. J. CROWE

Many Candidates May Split Vote.

Politicians eyed with interest yesterday the list of candidates for Democratic committeeman in the 37th ward, where T. J. Crowe, recently sentenced to five years imprisonment in the Sanitary district graft conspiracy case, has fourteen nominal opponents in his campaign for reëlection as party leader in his ward.

Since one of his opponents is his son-in-law, Don R. Joyce, another is Attorney John F. Higgins, who represented Crowe in the graft trial, and a third is Thomas D. Garry, who called Crowe "a big loogan" from the witness stand, but whose testimony was regarded as favorable to the former sanitary board president, observers hazarded that some of the opposition is only nominal. The real purpose of the bevy of candidates, they believe, is to split the anti-Crowe vote.

Party leaders may strip Crowe of power over patronage in his ward even if he is elected to the county central committee, it was pointed out. This would be done by excluding him from the managing committee of the Democratic party in the county, and appointing another man to represent the 37th ward in that group. The managing committee handles questions of patronage and most other party affairs which the statutes do not place specifically under the jurisdiction of the larger and unwieldly county central committee. That action has been taken frequently in the past as a measure of discipline against ward committeemen of whom the party organization did not approve.

AUDITOR NELSON ON TRIAL TODAY FOR CONSPIRACY

The trial of State Auditor Oscar Nelson, who is charged with conspiracy in connection with the closing of the Waukegan State bank last June, is to begin this morning at Woodstock.

State's Attorney A. V. Smith consented to a delay in the start of the trial last Tuesday in the hope that an agreement could be reached with the depositors of the closed institution for the opening of a new bank. That matter is still hanging fire. Mr. Nelson has demanded a vindication, either by a nol prosse or by trial.

The case of George Woodruff, former vice chairman of the National Bank of the Republic, Chicago, and Norman O. Geyer, former president of the Waukegan State bank, who were indicted with the state auditor, is set for Feb. 23 at Woodstock.

RELIEF MILLIONS TO BE SHARED BY COUNTY BOARD

May Replace Charities in Feeding Unemployed.

Edward L. Ryerson, Jr., president of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, will confer with the finance committee of the Cook county board today on the amount of state money to be allocated to the county for charity work. The conference may result in the county receiving a large share of the $18,500,000 recently authorized by the legislature, for distribution under the supervision of the Emergency Relief Commission of Illinois, recently appointed by Gov. Emmerson. One report last night was that as much as $15,000,000 will be asked.

Mr. Ryerson has been discussing the situation with Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, for several days, it became known yesterday. As a result of the conferences the county may take over all responsibility for the unemployed and the organized charities, now operating agents of the Joint Emergency Relief fund, may go back to ordinary charity work, their function before the depression brought the great unemployment problem. These are the Jewish charities, the Catholic charities, the United charities, and the Salvation army.

Miss Sears Takes Action.

Mr. Ryerson was invited to come before the finance committee by Commissioner Amelia Sears, a trained social worker, for the purpose of telling the county what it must do to obtain a part of the state fund.

Under the new law rushed through the legislature along with the $18,500,000 appropriation, no county can secure charity money without first making a request to the state relief commission, of which Mr. Ryerson is chairman. Other members include Samuel Insull Jr., Edward A. Cudahy, Victor A. Olander of the Illinois Federation of Labor, Col. A. A. Sprague, commissioner of public works; Omar H. Wright of Belvidere, and Arthur Eidman of Belvidere.

In connection with the report that the county is to be made the big cog in the relief situation it was pointed out that the county had a bill in the legislature to authorize the issuance of $5,000,000 in bonds for poor relief. This was withdrawn, Mr. Whealan said yesterday, when assurance was given that the state relief fund would aid the county.

"If the decision is made to allot us a large share of the sum authorized by the legislature, we will make every attempt to distribute it properly with the aid and under the supervision of the emergency relief fund," said Mr. Whealan yesterday.

Sales Campaign on.

It is hoped to complete the sale of the $18,500,000 state warrants this week. Subscriptions amounting to $5,000,000 were taken in five days' work last week, leaving $12,000,000 to be disposed of in the "$2,000,000 a day drive." The help of banks and bond houses has been enlisted and 200 solicitors will be at work today selling the warrants under the direction of Frank M. Gordon, co-chairman of the division in charge of sales by security houses.

President Robert Maynard Hutchison of the University of Chicago is directing the sales campaign among professional men and L. J. Trees heads the trades and industries division.

"We are making our drive this week to get the conservative investors and money hoarders to see the advantage of these notes," Mr. Gordon said yesterday. "Our salesmen, who work without compensation, are instructed to put the proposition up to their prospects strictly on a business basis."

Michael L. Igoe, candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, made an appeal for support of the warrants sale yesterday by radio, using the time alloted him for a political speech. "It seems to me that any person with available funds is doing himself an injustice if he fails to take advantage of the opportunity for perfectly safe investment offered by these notes," he said.

13 MILLION BAIN BANK CRASH UP TO JURY TODAY

Prosecutor Raber Has Voluminous Evidence.

Special Prosecutor Edwin J. Raber will go before the grand jury today and ask for indictments of at least six persons in connection with the crash of the twelve Bain banks last June. The banks held more than thirteen millions in deposits made by 150,000 depositors.

Prosecutor Raber, who has spent nine weeks compiling evidence from the records of the banks, says he expects to disclose a gigantic fraud in the operation of the banks.

John Bain, an immigrant plumber from Scotland 35 years ago, was founder of the banks. His sons, John H. Bain and Robert A. Bain, and his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, were officials in the chain. These last three were once named in true bills charging conspiracy to defraud the public, but the bills were withheld at the request of Mr. Raber, who declared that a more thorough investigation of the banks was necessary.

Large Volume of Evidence.

Three truckloads of papers and records are ready for inspection by the grand jury. State's Attorney Swanson announced that he expected indictments to be returned quickly by the jury.

Raber says he will show that Bain, his family, and his companies owed the 12 banks a total of $2,135,000 on unsecured personal notes and worthless securities. Other officials and directors of the banks owed another $4,500,000 to the banks when they closed, it was stated. In addition to these loans the Bain family collected some $100,000 a year in salaries as officers of the bank, the investigation has shown.

Auditors Will Testify.

Most of this evidence will be presented to the grand jury by auditors and accountants who have studied records of the banks. Mr. Raber would not say whether or not John Bain, his sons, and others who directed the banks would be called as witnesses.

The two Bain sons and Fisher, the son-in-law, spent nine days in the county jail from Dec. 1 to Dec. 10, 1931, when they were unable to raise a heavy bond set on charges of embezzlement, operating a confidence game, and obtaining money under false pretenses. They were released on order of the state Supreme court, which held that Circuit Judge Michael Feinberg had exceeded his powers in committing them.

COLD WAVE HITS EUROPE; VENICE CANALS FROZEN

LONDON, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Intense cold prevailed throughout most of Europe over the week-end with temperatures as low as 25 degrees below zero Fahrenheit in the Balkans. Several deaths were reported from northern Italy. Temperatures were rising in both the British Isles and France, where a cold snap caused several deaths and disrupted communications last week.

Ice jammed many of the canals of Venice and gondolas were imprisoned. Four aged and destitute persons were frozen to death in other parts of northern Italy where a temperature of 15 degrees below zero was reported in some parts.

At Sarajevo, Jugo-Slavia, the temperature was 25 below. Eggs burst with cold, and milk froze in the Belgrade market. The Danube was filled with ice floes stopping navigation. The cold wave lingered in central Spain with snow and ice in various cities. Many football matches were suspended.

'WAR' TO DECIDE WINNER OF 'WAR' RAGES IN HAWAII

Seasick Soldiers Are the Only Casualties.

HONOLULU, Feb. 14.—(AP)—A seasick enemy has landed upon the Hawaiian islands. The feigned warfare of the annual army-navy maneuvers is over. The umpires will decide who won.

The enemy couldn't have set foot upon the "Paradise of the Pacific" if the defenders had used bullets, instead of flares—so goes the chorus of officers of the defense, who will expound their views at a review of the gigantic game next week.

And the seasick soldiers who climbed gingerly out of landing boats Friday, theoretically to fight to the death with the defenders, but actually to be welcomed to Hawaii, were recovering from a week of seeing nothing but water—and that through a porthole.

Who Won the War?

The war ended yesterday. But the battle of who won the war goes merrily on. It was almost a draw. The umpires—high officers of the army and navy—will ponder the question mathematically and then settle the question, theoretically.

Ostensibly the maneuvers consisted of an attempt by an expedition from the United States—the blue fleet—to recapture the islands from an invader who had seized them. That was the way the officers who designed the problem put it. Actually it was to determine with what success the present defenses of the islands could withstand an invasion by an enemy fleet.

The United States battle fleet, consisting of 62 vessels, took part in the attack. It included the aircraft carriers Saratoga and Lexington, nine battleships, four cruisers, 25 destroyers, submarines, miscellaneous craft and two transports. They carried some 23,000 officers and men besides 600 marines and 600 soldiers.

Planes Treat Natives.

On the other side—the black defenders—were about 15,000 men and 750 officers, the nominal strength of the army here, assisted by 1,500 officers and men of the navy. The attackers had 200 airplanes, the defenders 104.

For six days the attackers maneuvered outside the range of the coast guns. They sent airplanes on bombing missions, theoretically doing much damage and actually giving the natives a treat. They established an air base 200 miles from Honolulu at Hilo on the island of Hawaii.

But at every turn the defenders were busy. First they hid their planes when the enemy airmen came over. Then they sneaked out and bombed the enemy at Hilo. They patrolled the island all night. Submarines slipped out from their base and harmlessly torpedoed the enemy aircraft carriers.

Soldiers Return Thanks.

The enemy came ashore on Friday. As the battle raged officers of opposing forces greeted each other. The soldiers mopped their brows and returned thanks for solid ground underfoot. After an hour of such bloody warfare, the umpires called it a day and got ready for their own battle.

During the maneuvers the army airmen flew more than 26,000 miles, most of it over water and much at night. There was only one forced landing and no injuries. Navy aircraft made two forced landings without injuries. The army and navy each lost one plane at sea.

In defense of the island the aviators, outnumbered two to one, their officers said, demonstrated the increased efficiency of airplanes operating from land bases over those functioning from sea bases. They pointed out that the land planes can operate from many different fields and carry much heavier loads on bombing expeditions.

There was another demonstration, theoretically less important. The army doesn't like to get its feet wet. When the attackers were landing on the beach from small boats Friday the soldiers were inclined to follow one another over the bow of the boat, leaping onto dry land.

U. S. EXPENSES IN PHILIPPINES DEBATED ISSUE

Independence Action Is Due Soon.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—With bills calling for Philippine independence pending before a senate committee and due to be acted upon shortly, one of the topics of controversy between the pro and the anti-independence factions is the cost of the islands to the United States.

It is said on the one hand that they cost the United States nothing and on the other that they represent an annual outlay of some $20,000,000. Both statements are true, and the choice of which one to accept depends upon whether the investigator holds that the Philippines are a valuable military outpost, or whether he is a member of that group which believes that any outlying possession constitutes a temptation to a rival nation and therefore should be relinquished.

The civil administration of the Philippine government, including the salaries of the governor and other American officials, costs the United States nothing. To that extent the islands are self-supporting.

Twenty Millions Annually.

For its military and naval establishments and for other minor public services in the islands, the United States does make appropriations and these total in round numbers about $20,000,000 a year. The cost of maintaining the 6,500 Philippine scouts is $9,375,000 annually; the cost of the 550 officers and 4,000 enlisted men of the regular army usually garrisoned in the Philippines approximates $4,000,000, and the maintenance of the naval base at Vavite, with its personnel and exclusive of that portion of the Asiatic fleet in Philippine waters, was $6,381,056 in 1931.

It is commonly accepted that should the Philippines be granted their independence the same forces now urging both the independence movement and the curtailment of military and naval expenditures would seize upon the occasion to press for the abolition of the forces guarding the islands.

Most prominent of the independence measures now under discussion before the senate committee on insular affairs are the Hawes-Cutting bill and the Vandenberg bill.

Provides Partial Independence.

The former provides for immediate partial independence with a native plebiscite on complete independence at the end of five years, and for a severance of American control within two years following an affirmative native vote.

The twin influences behind the Hawes-Cutting bill are apparent in its provisions. It is the "high minded" element which inserted the provision that the constitution of the potential new nation must provide for a republican government. The strong pressure from American commercial and agricultural sources, chiefly the sugar and dairy interest, is seen in the clause which would make American tariffs applicable to Philippine sugar, cocoanut oil, and rope fibers during the probationary period; while on other products the tariff would not commence until the announcement of complete independence.

In the Vandenberg bill complete independence could not be achieved by the islands in less than twenty years. Tariff and immigration regulations would be applied progressively, and it would be left to the islands to determine how quickly they wished to progress through the various stages.

MYSTERIOUSLY SHOT IN HEEL.

Charles Gramer, 34 years old, 3311 Mospratt street, reported to the police last night that he had been shot in the left heel at 48th and Elizabeth streets. He said he did not see the man who shot him.

SHOWDOWN DUE THIS WEEK ON TAX COLLECTION

Leaders Confer to Reach Date Agreement.

When the legislature convenes tomorrow for what may be its final week of special session it will have three propositions to dispose of, the one of paramount interest being the tax "funding" program contained in bills which passed the house last week and are now pending in the senate. Cutting the costs of government and putting teeth in the personal property tax laws are other subjects.

Much activity on the funding question prevailed in Chicago during the week-end ...nd will continue today at a noon meeting in the Chicago club. An effort will be made there to bring opposing interests together on amendments to the funding bills which would put the 1930 taxes in collection earlier than the Oct. 1 date now provided.

Kelly to Attend Meeting.

D. F. Kelly, Corporation Counsel Sexton and attorneys and legislators who discussed the matter on Friday and Saturday will come together again to try to agree on a first collection date, when under the present plan 50 per cent of the 1930 taxes would be due. This date may be set as May 1, July 1, or perhaps as early as April 15. Nathan William MacChesney, adviser of the Chicago Real Estate board which is advocating the funding plan, has been opposed to changing the October date.

The remaining half of the 1930 bills would be collected in equal parts on Jan. 1, 1933, and April 1, 1933, under the terms of the bills. The city and county administrations, however, are certain they cannot continue the functions of government until October without tax money.

Seek Action on Personalty.

Although no definite program has been agreed on in the conferences, the opinion of many of the conferees is that the first step necessary is an order for a reassessment of 1930 personal property, partly to convince real estate taxpayers that a real effort is being made to put personalty on the tax books.

One of the funding bills would give this authority to the state tax commission. There is the additonal legislative approval of a resolution introduced by Minority Leader Igoe in the house and passed unanimously. This resolution called on the governor to order the tax commission to bring about the reassessment. It is believed such a resolution would also pass the senate.

Teachers Oppose Delay.

A week-end conference of unpaid school teachers with their attorney, Allan Carter, resulted in the adoption of resolutions protesting against any delay in the collection of taxes. This will be brought to the attention of the senate.

The funding bills also have the opposition of the Civic federation. This was made known in a statement signed by Clayton Mark, president, and Douglas Sutherland, secretary of the federation.

In the statement the bills were assailed as "a menace to the continuance of orderly government."

"Their enactment," the statement went on, "will prevent the restoration of public credit in this community and undo the work thus far laboriously performed by legislators and citizens."

Similar criticism was offered by John O. Rees, director of the joint commission on real estate valuation.

"The deliberate delay in any effort to collect any 1930 taxes until late in 1932 will cause a default upon all bonds and interest of all local governments which fall due before the latter part of the year," Mr. Rees said. "The time when an effort will be made to collect 1930 taxes and retire 1930 tax warrants will be extended deliberately nearly a year beyond the time when the purchasers had reason to expect that they would be paid.

"This deliberate and complete disregard of the rights and interests of parties who have loaned money to the local governments will injure, if not destroy, any prospects of selling further bonds or tax warrants."

NORTHWESTERN OPENS SEARCH FOR CLASS OF "CHILD WONDERS"

Northwestern university wants to add half a dozen boy or girl wonders to its student body. President Walter Dill Scott announced yesterday that he had sent letters to high school principals, asking them for the names of pupils from 13 to 15 years old who are ready to meet university entrance requirements.

It is planned to give these precocious students a special program of study. A number of them are sought because of a plan to have them live together, furnishing each other with the stimulus of coöperation and competition with equals which has been lacking in the past with "child wonders" who enrolled alone in the university.

By "precocious," President Scott said, is implied a student with an intelligence quota higher than 130, or with a record of youthful attainments. In the latter category he cited such historical characters as Benjamin Franklin, "publisher of a newspaper at 17"; Napoleon, "known as the 'little mathematician' at 8 and a leader at 14"; James Watt, "interested in higher mathematics at 6 and who began experimenting with steam at 15," and George Washington, "a professional surveyor at 15."

PIERCE-ARROW

TWELVES

PRICED AS LOW AS

$3295

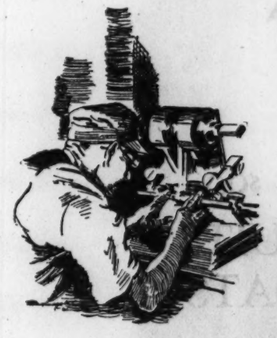
AT BUFFALO

THE PRICE is important only as it represents a new fine car value . . . in a new and ultra-modern type car.

That this car has twelve cylinders, with a capacity of 140 and 150 horsepower, is significant when coupled with the Pierce-Arrow identity . . . which means master performance, assured by the finest engineering skill and manufacturing processes known to modern motor cars.

As a single example: There are more hours of actual labor . . . incomparably fine hand-craftsmanship . . . represented in the Pierce-Arrow engine alone, than in the entire structure of most cars.

And the price attractions of the present Twelves reflect precisely the lowered present-day costs of all its extraordinarily fine materials.



Where hand-craftsmanship still endures

In the great Pierce-Arrow plants at Buffalo, New York, there is precision apparatus more delicate than the seismographs which record distant earth tremors . . . presided over by master craftsmen, whose skilled hands express Pierce-Arrow in each operation.

REPUBLICAN WETS OFFER FUNDS TO HELP DEMOCRATS

G. O. P. Warned to Give Up Prohibition.

N. B. Burton, local secretary of the Republican Citizens Committee Against National Prohibition, announced yesterday that his organization had persuaded wet Chicago Republicans, prospective contributors to the Democratic national campaign fund, to withhold $300,000 in donations until the G. O. P. national committee makes known its policy toward prohibition.

He indicated that these donors intended to present and would present their money to the Democratic national committee if the Republicans maintain a bone dry stand. Also, he added, the movement among former stanch Republican contributors to demand a change in the prohibition law is spreading all over the country.

Cites Telegram to Fess.

To prove his point, Mr. Burton made public a copy of a telegram which Raymond Pitcairn, director of the citizens' committee, sent to Senator Simeon D. Fess, chairman of the Republican national committee. This telegram related that from reliable sources Mr. Pitcairn had learned that Arthur Curtiss James of New York, possibly the largest holder of railway securities in the United States, had given $50,000 to the Coolidge campaign chest in 1934 and was giving his contribution this year to the Democrats.

"May I suggest that you look into this," the telegram continued. "I can furnish you with a list of other substantial contributors whose gifts will be to the Democrats for the wet cause. The Republican Citizen's Committee Against National Prohibition has prevented other Republican contributors from expressing a like intent, pending the outcome of our determined efforts to bring the party into line with public conviction before it is too late.

Wets' Strength Growing.

"A year ago last November, 80 per cent of the members of the Union League club of Philadelphia voted for the Democratic candidate for governor for the simple reason that the voters against prohibition in Pennsylvania held the balance of power. The electorate is much wetter today.

"We have been strongly urged to heed the will of several Republican senators who are pursuaded that our work will do more harm than good. They are worried and, Senator, they have good reason for alarm. Nothing could be more silly than attempts to dissuade the committee from carrying out the will of the majority of the Republican electorate.

"What you political gentlemen need to do is organize to carry out that will and do it quickly. The electorate demands that the ship of state steer for the haven of repeal where lies liberty, law and eventual prosperity. The course of party leadership is now towards prohibition, corruption and bankruptcy. There is mutiny among the crew and passengers. See the nation's peril. Act before we founder."

Arthur Curtiss James was a supporter of Alfred E. Smith in the presidential campaign of 1928 and was listed as one of the largest contributors to the Smith campaign fund. He indorsed Smith's stand on prohibition. He also served as chairman of a citizens' committee organized to conduct Franklin D. Roosevelt's governorship campaingn in 1928.

In 1930 Mr. James was ranked with the larger contributors to the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment. Last year his donation to the association was reported as $25,000.

VETS OF HAVANA RECALL SINKING OF MAINE TODAY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Feb. 14.—In commemoration of the 34th anniversary of the sinking of the battleship Maine, Havana camp, No. 1, of the United Spanish War Veterans, will conduct memorial services at the Maine Memorial park tomorrow. It will be the first time in several years that regular military forces of the United States will not participate in the event.

In the past either United States marines or military planes from Key West came here to represent the United States. Plans this year, however, are devoid of any such participation.

BLIZZARD KEEPS AL SMITH OUT OF DAKOTA PRIMARY

Petition Snowed Under on the Road.

Bismarck, N. D., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Because heavy snows blocked prairie roads, former Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York will not be entered as a Democratic presidential candidate in North Dakota's primary.

When the time for filing of candidates expired at midnight Saturday, petitions for Smith had not arrived at the secretary of state's office here. Vincent Ferguson had left Minot, 120 miles away, earlier in the day with the petitions, but drifted roads prevented his arrival on time.

Can Still Get Delegates.

Although Smith's name will not appear with two other Democrats and two Republicans on the preferential ballot March 15, it will still be possible for his supporters to enter a pledged slate of candidates for delegates to the national convention. The convention delegations also are elected at the primary, but candidates can file until March 1.

With the weather blocking the first efforts of the self-appointed Smith sponsors in North Dakota, the Democratic ticket will be limited to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York and Gov. William H. Murray of Oklahoma. Petitions for Murray were entered Saturday by his brother, C. T. Murray of Berthold, N. D.

Two Republican Candidates.

Republican indorsement is sought by former Senator J. I. France of Maryland and "Gen." Jacob S. Coxey, mayor of Massillon, O.

President Hoover was not entered in North Dakota, but administration supporters are expected to enter the delegation fight.

Republican petitions for Representative L. T. McFadden of Pennsylvania were not filed. His backers decided at the last minute to join the "progressive" faction in supporting France.

Although its results are not binding upon the delegations, the North Dakota primary is designed to give the voters a chance to express their wishes on presidential candidates.

NEW CITY HOME FOR TUBERCULAR TO OPEN TODAY

Mayor Cermak will preside this morning at the opening of the first unit of the new municipal home for open cases of tuberculosis, which will utilize the buildings at 7501 West 22d street formerly occupied by the Chicago and Cook County School for Boys. Approximately 400 patients can be accommodated in the institution, although only fifty will be housed in the first unit.

Such segregation of patients who have been found to carry the germs of the disease is required by a state law, although many so afflicted are now either homeless or living in boarding houses and hotels, physicians pointed out. Under the law they may not remain in a home where there are children because of the danger of infection. The new municipal home is intended to solve the residence problem for many of these persons, of whom there are said to be 3,524 in the city at present.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

A FORMULA FOR THE SCHOOL BOARD.

Prof. Henry C. Morrison of the University of Chicago says that the public schools are, or rather should be, institutions for the training of citizens and nothing more. Prof. Morrison's formula is a valuable contribution to the solution of Chicago's present problems not only for the ideal which it sets forth but more especially because it is a formula. Until his or some other statement of what the schools are intended to accomplish is adopted it is unlikely that any progress will be made toward ending either the financial or the curricular confusion in the school system.

If the Chicago school authorities have any objective in view it is to duplicate as nearly as possible the educational advantages and facilities which the wealthiest of parents can afford to provide for their children. As that is an ideal which is unattainable, it is worse than no ideal at all.

To illustrate: Mr. D. F. Kelly and his committee have come to the conclusion that the board of education in its budget as presently agreed upon is proposing to spend $30,000,000 more than the board can conceivably obtain from the taxpayers for the support of public education. Therefore, if that $30,000,000 is appropriated, the appropriation can only serve to pile more debt upon a system already insolvent. Those debts must be either repudiated or paid. They cannot be repudiated and if they are paid the school system must pay them. If more is spent this year than the school system will receive there will be less next year to spend in educating the city's children. There is no escaping that conclusion. Even the members of the present incompetent school board concede it.

Having conceded the point, they take no action adequate to meet the crisis partly because they wish to exploit the schools for political advantage, but also because their minds are muddled. When a proposal is made to eliminate some course of instruction, those who will be inconvenienced or dispossessed arise and howl. The school board, having no other basis of judgment, would like to proceed on the theory that the louder the howl the greater the reason animating it. Even that method might work after a fashion if the mental processes of the trustees were not generally known throughout the school system. But they are, and in consequence every group of school employés and every purveyor of supplies to the schools has learned to wail as loud as all the others with the result that confusion is worse confounded. Their last resource gone, the school trustees fold their hands and invite bankruptcy.

A school board which was less interested in political opportunites would be a vast improvement in the emergency, but, as has been indicated, even that would not be enough. What is needed, in addition, is a board that knows what it wants to accomplish with the resources at its disposal. Chicago needs a school authority which, knowing its grand objectives, can say that no price is too great to pay for certain courses and no price is too small to justify expenditure on others.

BOMBING IN WAR.

The favorite theory of armchair strategists in this country is that the battleship is obsolete and money spent upon any surface naval vessel is thrown away because they can all be easily and inexpensively destroyed by dropping a few bombs from airplanes. This ranks with the late Andrew Carnegie's famous plan for dealing with an invading army and saving the expense of maintaining an army of our own. This scheme was to "lure the invading army into the interior and surround it with a hundred thousand riflemen." The riflemen were to be gathered from among the squirrel hunters of Kentucky and Tennessee, among the farmers who are expert at knocking down crows, and from such ardent civilian huntsmen who are death on the mallard and the teal.

The operations around Shanghai might suggest to the advocates of exclusive air defense that the aerial bomb is not producing the results relied upon by civilian tacticians. Both sides have military airplanes. The Japanese bombers have been dropping explosives for days on the Woosung forts without destroying them. The Chinese also have bombers, but they haven't yet sunk even a Japanese gunboat.

If our theorists troubled to look up the records of aerial attack upon armored ships, in the late war or in subsequent peace experiment, their enthusiasm might not be chilled, for we doubt it is based on a respect for actualities. But the efficiency of aerial attack on ships is not high and naval architects assert that the battleship, provided as it now is with heavy upper protection, cannot be sunk by airplane attack, at least as thus far developed. It is also difficult to sink it by gunfire or by torpedo, a more formidable weapon than the bomb. That is an expert opinion that would better be considered by our delegation at Geneva when the abolition of battleships is proposed by the delegations of nations that would increase their relative naval power if this were done. As it is not likely to be given consideration by our present representation, it ought not to be ignored by our people or by the senate when it is asked to ratify.

SOCIALISM AND CENTRALIZATION.

Senator Reed's attack upon the scheme to raise an enormous sum for federal relief of unemployment will have the support of intelligent citizens throughout the country. He put the federal relief fallacy in a nutshell when he said: "I see no advantage in taking money away from the states to give it back to them." The only advantage will go to federal politicians. "A local relief committee," he said, "would certainly administer any relief funds more promptly and more intelligently than any Washington bureaucrat." If there is anything left of the American people's sound instinct for home rule they will not indorse the half baked socialism of Norris, La Follette, Borah, and the group that is bent upon piling up the national debt and pouring hundreds of millions of the people's money into the lap of federal politicians, jobholders and their other beneficiaries.

The attempt of the senate radicals is foolishly paralleled by the Democrats, who in so doing are repudiating their own party principle of local self-government, and taking the cue from men whose whole policy is a contradiction of the theories of American government which the Democratic party in its great days of national service cherished and championed.

Democracy trailing the nondescript minority of self-styled progressives is a sad sight, and the people will wonder why it is willing to barter its political birthright for a mess of socialist pottage. The people will also wonder if the senate radicals are really merely wild and reckless or are deliberately trying to bankrupt the country to clear the road for the communist régime with which one of their members, Mr. Borah, is in friendly communication and which undoubtedly has an equal sympathy from Mr. Norris, Mr. Cutting, and other members of the socialist tail now wagging the Democratic donkey.

A MALODOROUS RECORD.

Four months ago a grand jury of the District of Columbia brought an indictment against Bishop Cannon and Miss Ada Burroughs, former treasurer of the Virginia anti-Smith committee. The indictment charged conspiracy under the federal corrupt practices act requiring statements by every political committee of both receipts and disbursements. The offense alleged in the bill was failure to report receipt of $65,000 from E. C. Jameson of New York City, disclosed in a senate investigation.

Justice Proctor of the District Supreme court now upholds a demurrer to the indictment on the ground that it does not allege as a fact that the Jameson contribution was known to Miss Burroughs. The decision, the assistant district attorney in charge announces, will be taken up to the District Court of Appeals. The prospect of a reversal does not seem bright on the face of the news report, and it is said that if the indictment is held faulty on final review the prosecution will be dropped because of the statute of limitations.

There is an odor about this proceeding, a very fishy odor, not the odor of sanctity. The bishop gets sixty-five thousand dollars, quite a whacking sum, from Jameson to help elect Mr. Hoover. He alleged before the senate committee that he had made a proper accounting of $18,000 and was not bound to report on the rest because it was spent to elect Hoover electors, who are state officers not within the federal corrupt practices act. But the case seems now on the way out by the very suspicious exit of a faulty indictment, a consequent delay of trial, and the final curtain dropped by the statute of limitations.

Editorial of the Day

[New York Herald Tribune.]

Captain B. H. Liddell Hart, a fascinating if somewhat unorthodox military critic, has long been insisting upon the great power of the defensive with modern weapons and modern prepared positions. His new biography of Foch is built around this idea; he believes that the great Frenchman, though incomparable in the will to victory, was deficient as a strategist because he did not realize the limitations which the development of armaments had placed upon the gospel of attack. The lesson, indeed, seems a difficult one for military men everywhere to learn. Trained as they are in the moral value of offense, they have again and again underrated their enemy's power of resistance, and it is curious to see the Japanese naval officers at Shanghai repeating on a smaller scale the old mistakes.

The Woosung forts were first bombarded by Japanese destroyers on Feb. 3. Their ancient guns were quickly silenced, their weak defenses looked unimpressive, and their garrison was small. The Japanese announced that they would immediately occupy the area. This was a week ago last Wednesday. At dusk on Monday the Chinese defenders were still in position and still shooting. The Japanese in the meanwhile brought up first cruisers, then bombing planes, and finally an army expeditionary force. They had announced two or three times over that the forts had been totally destroyed. No doubt it looked so. Bursting bombs and shells throw a terrific amount of dirt and smoke into the air, but, as commanders and their devoted troops were to learn over and over in the world war, one can spread tremendous havoc without reaching men hidden in well constructed dugouts or trenches and without smashing their deadly machine guns, which immediately reappear when the assault is attempted.

The whole story of Chapei seems to lie in the Japanese failure to appreciate the power of the defense. The initial mistake, of course, was in underrating the determination of the Cantonese. That was a faulty appreciation of the moral factors involved. To it the Japanese added a faulty appreciation of the material factors at their disposal. They neglected the well established fact that without adequate artillery support it is almost physically impossible to do anything about a well placed machine gun, and when the lesson was forcibly impressed upon them they overrated the military effectiveness of the bombs and artillery which they had available. The result has been two weeks of false starts and failures, an enormous amount of needless destruction, and a serious compromising of their nation.

It is the consequence of a too uncritical faith in "offense as the truest form of defense." In this particular case the Chinese, who simply sat down in well prepared defensive positions and let the Japanese attack, have won no technical "victory." But they have done far more to advance the national purpose than have the Japenese and, since the achievement of a national object is the only possible end for any military action, it is the Chinese who so far are the real victors. By defending themselves they have advanced the true object of war; the Japanese, by attacking, have thrown it away.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the quips fall where they may.

IT WAS A TRULY HEARTBREAKING STORY that appeared in Saturday's Trib. The Anti-Saloon league, like the rest of us, is squirming under the ruthless heel of Old Man Depression. The league's national headquarters owes money to the town bank that's closed down, it's had to dispense with a lot of its faithful clerks and earnest reformers, and its mail has decreased so much in volume that Westerville has sunk from its haughty first class postoffice rating to the second class. It's a great shock. We are not surprised when ordinary commercial and industrial outfits report being a trifle cramped financially, but when a heaven born and directed organization like the Anti-Saloon league reports being shy of cash we stand dazed and bewildered. Something's got to be done about this. Boy! page the ravens who brought manna to the Prophet Elijah. Tell the ravens to get busy and fly right down to Westerville, O.

BABYLON, MY BABYLON.

Babylon, my Babylon,
For all thy towers of gray,
For all thy horns of scarlet
And women soft and gay,

For all thy flaunting banners,
And merchants in the streets,
For all thy shard-like brightness
And all thy vanished fleets.

Of men in pomp and glory,
Of men in power and sin,
Thy paths were as a haven
To her who entered in,

And unseen in the crowded mart
Did her great pain abide,
Did lay with fingers grown too tired
Her weariness aside.

For Babylon was planet's end,
O City spent and strange,
That now is lost within the sea
Of Earth and time and change.

Ah, you were all things to all men
Beneath your towers of gray,
Babylon, my Babylon,
Before you passed away.

RICHARD DUFFEY.

ADD FREE AND SOVEREIGN VOTERS of This Great Commonwealth: Gov. Schaefer of North Dakota believes November wheat prices will be a big factor in the presidential race in that state. He said if the wheat crops sells for 75 cents a bushel farmers would favor a Republican. At 50 cents they likely would seek a change and approve a Democrat. But suppose wheat sold at 62½ cents next November? That would just about drive every free and sovereign voter in North Dakota into a padded cell.

THE FATE of the congressional lame ducks is to be decided in the house tomorrow. Strange to say, the Democrats as well as the Republicans are rather lukewarm on the proposition of chasing the lame ducks out when they are repudiated by their constituencies. What, what, Democrats, in spite of your proud boasts that you could elect the w. k. yellow dog if you wanted to run him next year, are ou just a little dubious on the proposition and somewhat afraid that many of your statesmen now in congress may become lame ducks after the November election? Oh, Democrats, tut, tut, you've got the majority in the house. All right, what are you going to do about it tomorrow?

THE SENSATIONAL MEETINGS in Washington of the senate committee and Secretary Hurley over the proposition of independence for the Filipinos ought to have a good effect on the country anyhow. So many of us, owners as we are of the Philippines, will learn:

1. That the Philippines are islands off the Asiatic coast.
2. That we bought the islands from Spain.
3. That Spain didn't own them when she sold them.
4. That what we bought was a revolution.
5. Since we own the revolution we ought to sell it to some South American country that's always looking around for those things.
6. And that the U. S. A. shouldn't buy any more second hand revolutions. They get shelf worn and spoil on our hands and we never know how to get rid of 'em.

AND, ANYHOW, WE WON'T hear any more about Ann Rutledge for another year. Not but that we have had our moments when we, too, shed tears about poor little Ann and how Abe laid down on her grave after her death and wouldn't even go to his own wedding. But we much fear that if Abe had married little, simple, backwoods Ann he would never have been President. A lot of people would have bobbed up and said: "Sure, Lincoln's all right, but think of a farm girl like that being the first lady of the land? Good heavens, she'd have chickens roosting on the front porch and maybe a common everyday hen that didn't have any more sense would lay an egg right in the hat of some foreign ambassador. And you know how touchy foreign diplomats are! Why, it might lead to a war or something. No, sirree, we couldn't ever have a person like Ann Rutledge in the White House. It wouldn't do." And lots of the very people who would be the first to say something like that probably cried all over the place on Lincoln's birthday Friday whenever anybody said anything about poor little Ann Rutledge.

SOME CHIN!

Lord, have mercy on the man
With a flexible chin.
For six days he holds it out,
On the Sabbath he slides it in!

A MOTTLED TOOTH STORY.

DR. B. A. WILCOX tells the following story about the prevalence of mottled teeth in Minonk, Ill.:

"In 1893 the city dug a well 1,800 feet deep, striking a vein of water which at first rose almost to the surface of the ground, but which later receded, so that it was necessary to pump. The water had a peculiar, salty taste, but was generally liked when one became accustomed to it. For some years the people continued to use water from private wells, but gradually they switched to the public supply, finally boasting it was the finest supply in the world.

"In 1907 we first began noticing peculiar markings on the teeth of children. In 1928 a city-wide survey showed that more than one-third of the children had mottled teeth.

"The mottling seems to be of different varieties, some with too much pigment and others with too little. In the back part of the mouth some of the teeth are rather pretty; they have different shades of gray mixed with spots of pure white. These white spots, to one not familiar with the condition, are liable to be diagnosed as chalky spots, or areas in which the enamel is beginning to break down. In other areas the mottlings are liable to be mistaken for something else.

"The pigment that discolors some of the teeth is always found on the outer surfaces of the teeth, and never on the tongue surface. In doing dental work on mottled teeth I find the pigment extends entirely through the enamel, but never into the dentine.

"These teeth do not decay. The proportion of decay in mottled teeth is somewhat less than the average. There is singular freedom from pyorrhea. In a recent checkup of some of the oldest persons with mottled teeth, some as old as 27 years, I found no indications of pyorrhea.

"The condition is limited to those who live in town and who drink this water. But we do not know why some who drink the water escape while others develop the abnormality. My sister has a daughter and I have a son of about the same age. They both drink this water. They live about the same way, and eat about the same diet. My niece has mottled teeth and my son has not.

"This water has a peculiar effect on some metals, such as aluminum. Aluminum cooking ware is guaranteed all over the world, except in our town."

REPLY.

Exactly your experience was duplicated in a mining village where the aluminum company mined its metal. The company made a sweeping examination and found the trouble was caused by drinking water from an unusually pure supply, so far as organic pollution was concerned. They found fluorine in the water to be the cause of the trouble. The remedy lies in getting a new water supply or in removing the excess fluorine from the old one.

DUE TO OCCUPATION.

L. M. G. writes: During the last year I have had, at intervals, red spots on the palms of my hands and in between the fingers. These eventually form into tiny blisters which break and afterwards the skin comes off. These spots come chiefly on my left hand, and it seems that they become more noticeable and irritate more after eating. Can you tell me the cause of this?

Do you think it is caused by something which I eat—possibly meat?

REPLY.

The behavior of this eruption suggests that it is caused by your occupation. Apparently whatever you do exposes your left hand to the cause more than it does the right.

JAUNDICE IS A SYMPTOM.

Mrs. W. writes: Kindly let me know what causes yellow jaundice, and if it is curable, and how long it takes to cure it. Is it contagious?

REPLY.

Jaundice is merely a symptom. The answers to your questions depend on the cause of the symptom. In jaundice there is an excess of bile in the blood and the tissues. Among the causes are cancer, other tumors, cirrhosis, gallstones, malaria, yellow fever, infection of the bile passages. A few of these diseases are contagious; most of them are not.

PROBABLY IS A POSE.

An Anxious Mother writes: If at the age of 14 years a boy acquires the habit of blinking his eyes continually, is this a sign of nervousness, and could it develop into a mental disorder of a serious nature?

REPLY.

It is probably a pose and is for the purpose of attracting attention. In some cases blinking has other causes.

MILK AND ITS EFFECT.

S. M. M. writes: Is not milk considered to have a strong tendency toward making a person constipated?

REPLY.

I think it is so considered. However, this reputation is often not deserved. In fact, with many, it has the opposite effect. People who try the milk diet are sometimes troubled by diarrhea.

ASHES WILL HELP.

Chicago, Feb. 7.—[Friend of the People.]—The alley in back of my home is used by a number of automobile owners as a drive to their garages. Near the 105th street end some one has filled a deep hole in the alley with soft and slippery clay, which makes the alley almost impassable and then only with a good deal of harmful straining on one's automobile. A few loads of cinders would fill this bad spot and alleviate the condition.

M. R.

Report is made that this alley is an unimproved clay alley. The Ninth ward bureau of streets forces will cover clay with ashes in the near future. The ashes when packed will provide a passable roadway until such time as the alley can be improved by paving.

CHINA-JAPAN WAR, 1894

TIENTSIN, July 28.—The gravity of the situation is fully realized here, now that hostilities between China and Japan have commenced. While no formal declaration of war, according to the usual diplomatic forms, has been made either at Tokio or at Peking the governments of both countries recognize that an actual state of war exists and more collisions between the forces of the two countries are expected hourly. Considerable anxiety is expressed here as to the result of the war. The general opinion seems to be that while Japan may be looked upon as likely to score the first victories, the Chinese troops will eventually drive the Japanese out of Corea, even if millions of men have to be sent to the front to do so. The first overt act of war occurred on July 24 when the Japanese fired on and sank the steamship Kow-shung which had been chartered by the Chinese government to convey troops to Corea. The number of people drowned is not known, but it is believed there must have been 1,000 Chinese soldiers on board.

28 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 15, 1904.

LONDON.—Japan's campaign to invest Port Arthur by land and sea which began on Feb. 10 has resulted in apparent defeat with heavy losses. Japanese troops attempted to land at Talienwan and Pigeon Bay on the east and west side of the Liao-Tung peninsula. Of 600 men landed near the former place, 410 were sabered by Cossacks. The Japanese also were repulsed at Pigeon Bay. A Chefoo dispatch dated Feb. 12 says that during the second bombardment of Port Arthur on Feb. 9, while the Japanese fleet engaged the Russian ships, the Japanese partly landed four transports of soldiers, 3,500 in all, at Diduguo. The Russians allowed them to land, then made a grand charge with artillery, infantry, and Cossack cavalry and almost annihilated the Japanese, who were unprepared for the attack.

TOKIO.—It is reported, but not confirmed by official advices, that three of the four ships comprising the Russian Vladivostok squadron were blown up while attempting to pass through Tsugaru straits separating the islands of Hondo and Yezo. The cruisers were destroyed after they had sunk a Japanese merchant vessel and had bombarded the town of Fukuyama at the southwestern extremity of the island of Yezo.

NAGASAKI.—It is rumored that 1,800 Japanese soldiers have been killed, presumably by the sinking of a transport. The Japanese have captured six Norwegian steamers which had been chartered by a Russian naval contractor.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Senator M. A. Hanna was still alive at 3 o'clock this morning and resting easily. All hope had vanished. It is deemed only a matter of a brief time until death comes. The senator had two sinking spells during the day and he is kept alive only by the use of drugs.

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

FEBRUARY 15, 1916.

CHICAGO.—An anarchistic plot that proposed a veritable holocaust among churches, public institutions, and the clergy of the United States was disclosed by the Chicago police. Among the effects of John Allegrini, anarchist confidant of Jean Crones, alleged poisoner of Archbishop Mundelein's banquet soup, were found letters that planned crimes that rival the wildest dreams of a Borgia and make the poisoning of a hundred banquet guests a mere detail. Already, according to Deputy Chief Schuettler, incendiary fires, some destructive and some less successful, have attacked more than fifty churches in Chicago alone. The existence of an anti-clerical organization of "destroyers" is regarded as certain by Chief Healey, Capt. Nicholas Hunt of the detective bureau, and Deputy Chief Schuettler, who completed the study of translations of Allegrini's letters.

LONDON.—German troops in the last few days have made the most successful drive against the French lines since their defeat at the battle of the Marne early in the war, the Berlin war office claims. In forty-eight hours of fighting, Berlin reported, the Teutons have captured nearly a mile of French positions in the Champagne region, as well as 400 yards by an unexpected smash in the Vosges. No greater German gain since the battle of the Marne has been reported on the western front excepting the defeat administered to the British at Ypres last May.

PARIS.—Three hundred and seventy-four lives were lost when the French cruiser Admiral Charner was sunk off the Syrian coast. Dispatches confirming the loss of the cruiser said that only one man of 375 aboard was saved.

LONDON.—Belief that Rumania is drifting into the war on the side of the allies was strengthened by official dispatches from Paris reporting the Rumanian mobilization completed. Paris also reported that the construction of Rumanian works along the Danube and on the Hungarian frontier to guard against possible invasions by the Bulgars or Austro-Hungarians has been finished.

LONDON.—A Reuter dispatch from Milan says six persons were killed and several injured by bombs dropped from Austrian airplanes.

BRUNDAGE AND MALONE.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—A recent contributor raises the inquiry why Edward J. Brundage does not support the Cook county candidacy of William H. Malone. I am not, of course, familiar with Mr. Brundage's reasons, but they may be these: During the campaign of 1924 I attended several political meetings and heard Mr. Malone eulogize Gov. Small and denounce Brundage for his efforts to make Small restore the interest on the public funds which he had taken unlawfully. Malone was the star orator in denouncing Brundage. If Small is the excellent man that Malone told the voters he was in 1924, Malone should be supporting Small today. He evidently sees no moral rectitude in Small's conduct. The records since that time show that Small has made restitution of $650,000, but not, however, until the litigation instituted by Brundage compelled him to.

J. H. TILDEN.

AGAINST CUSTER.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—"Custer for Governor" spells defeat for the Republican party in Illinois. No political boss ever was or is more absolute than is Mr. Custer in his city, county and senatorial district. No Republican in that section dares or dreams of seeking office without the permission of Custer. And every Republican office holder in that district must jump through the hoop at the command of Custer. "Bossism" is in the Custer blood, and in case of his election as chief executive we would have nothing but a whole army of jumping Republicans in Illinois.

FRANK L. MATHER.

A DISGRUNTLED REPUBLICAN.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—The Republicans are in hard luck. Hoover arouses no interest and the candidates for governor less. Small of the odious record, Carlstrom who compromised Small's indebtedness to the state by 50 per cent, Custer who has no record and no reason for a candidacy except Gov. Emmerson's wish to name his successor, and Malone, a Small appointee, whose inopportune reassessment is directly responsible for all the tax confusion.

We Republicans are expected to make a selection from this timber. Is the party worth saving if this is all it has to offer?

HERBERT C. MILLIGAN.

FREIGHT SOLICITORS.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—I was interested in reading Scrutator's remarks on the railroads, in which he solves all the railroads' problems. Of course, this is no trouble for an editor, as an editor can solve anything. I also note with interest his opinion that "the freight solicitors merely pass out cigars and beg for business going to a competing railroad." I am very sorry that he has such a low opinion of our profession.

The writer has been a freight solicitor for many years. He receives his pay for getting business for his railroad and not for telling the people he calls on how to run their business. I really feel that there is just as much salesmanship involved in soliciting freight as in selling any other standard commodity. In this day in which even vice presidents are freight solicitors, we certainly must number in our business a great many intelligent men, and I would suggest that Scrutator get acquainted with some freight solicitors.

ELEVATED FARES.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—It is about time that the elevated lines of Chicago realized that there has been a depression on for the last two years. They had constantly raised their fares during the period of prosperity, but now that the situation has been reversed they fail to heed the march of time and cut their fares in line with the reduction in pay that has been suffered by the general class of workers. If the service and class of equipment had been improved the complaint of high fares would be minimized.

CHARLES PRIBISH.

THE FURNITURE BOOKLET.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Have you ever wondered how to tell a well constructed piece of furniture from an inferior piece? How to manipulate the budget so that money spent on the living room furniture is not used at the expense of bedroom or dining room furnishings? I think all of us, at one time or another, wish we knew a few simple facts about furniture. Uncle Sam now comes to our rescue with a most efficient little handbook called "Furniture, Its Selection and Use." It's conveniently thin and flexible. Not only are period styles and decorative combinations discussed but the homemaker is given a workable buying and budgeting plan on which to base purchases. From the buying plan and budgets, the book goes into the fine points of utility and comfort in the selection of furniture—even the conditioning, the repair and care of furniture are covered. Every housewife knows what it is to have the top of her favorite table scarred by the thoughtless placing of a hot dish. How to remove such blemishes is the problem. The new book tells how.

"Furniture, Its Selection and Use" may be obtained from the superintendent of documents, Washington, D. C., for 20 cents a copy.

The above is an excellent résumé of a much maligned little booklet, but to avoid plagiarism I must state that it is taken verbatim from an interesting article written by Edith Weigle, entitled "How to Know Furniture," which appeared in THE CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE some months ago. Evidently before THE TRIBUNE discovered that printing 100,000 copies of these booklets and selling same for 20 cents each created a national catastrophe.

GAS.

Chicago, Feb. 9.—Every time I see a sign "31 per cent discount on heating gas" while driving along the street it gets my goat. Why wouldn't it? I have been burning gas for house heat for several years. I paid $28 for November and $48 for December, 1930, heating bills, and these months included some cold spells, and I paid $30 in November and $50 in December, 1931, during which time the average temperature was not less than 40 degrees above zero.

WHERE JOBSEEKERS DON'T APPLY.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—I was recently in the Chicago Isolation hospital at 3026 California avenue, where I was confined with scarlet fever. I should like to take this opportunity of expressing through your column my appreciation of the wonderful care and attention accorded me while there.

Contrary to my previous belief of public institutions, political influence, etc., there was absolutely no partiality shown.

MRS. CHARLES WOOD.

THE TIGHT SHOE.

Buffalo, Wyo., Feb. 4.—The Rev. Dr. John Hawk, now in Shanghai, seems to have taken an attitude rather more militant than the temper of the religious body which he represents might warrant, judging from its program of pacifism as consistently carried out for a number of years. This program has included the pledging of its young people against participation in any and all wars whatsoever.

It is apparent that a great deal depends on what foot is pinched by the shoe.

We rise to ask if Dr. Hawk would quickly enlist for service in the event of a declaration of war to avenge the raiding of his mission building.

RESERVE OFFICER.

PROBABLY.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Did any one ever stop to think this terrible depression may be the hand of God in punishment for the terrible display of religious intolerance during the last campaign for President?

VOTE SEEKERS SPURN BACKING OF DRY LEAGUE

Ohio Candidates Deem It a Liability.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Columbus, O., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—The Anti-Saloon League of Ohio, with headquarters in Columbus, has suffered a political decline paralleling in some respects the financial adversity visited upon its parent, the Anti-Saloon League of America, at Westerville.

While the state league has avoided any such situation as the national body faced when the Bank of Westerville failed while holding $25,000 of unsecured league notes, it has not escaped a loss of prestige. This year its political influence has been reduced to a point where the politicians regard its indorsement of any candidate, wet or dry, as a liability rather than an asset.

League's Oracles Absent.

With the primaries less than three months away, the Democratic and Republican leaders are rallying party workers to nightly meetings in hotels here and through the state to whip up enthusiasm before adjourning to the back rooms to mark up the slates. The oracles of the league, formerly courted as the most potent vote getters in the state, are getting no invitations to the inner councils and at the public rallies are being shunned.

Looming largest in importance is the contest for United States senator, in which the Democratic incumbent, Senator Robert J. Bulkley, who defeated a bone dry Republican for an unexpired term in 1928, will probably be opposed for reëlection by Gilbert Bettman, Cincinnati Republican, now serving his second term as attorney general. Neither candidate expects much opposition at the primaries.

Plans Liberal Stand.

Until now Mr. Bettman has never had occasion to declare himself on the prohibition question and the forecasters were gauging him as the likely choice of the league's favor if he maintained a straddling position until the primaries. Within the last few weeks, however, the attorney general has let it be known that he will flout the league's indorsement by declaring himself for liberalizing the liquor laws.

In the race for governor the incumbent, Gov. George White, although he is the choice of the Ohio Democracy for President, is expected to run for reëlection to the state office. In the campaign of 1928 Gov. White, a dry, shared the blessing of the Anti-Saloon league with his Republican opponent, former Gov. Myers Y. Cooper, also dry.

When the ballots were counted the diagnosticians agreed that the Anti-Saloon league had counted for naught in the campaign and that it was the strength of the liberal Mr. Bulkley at the head of the Democratic ticket that swept Mr. White into office. It is understood that Gov. White is hoping the feat may be repeated in the forthcoming contest.

The situation in the enemy camp may defeat his hopes, however. Three Republican candidates to oppose Gov. White are in the field: David S. Ingalls of Cleveland, assistant secretary of commerce, a wet; Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, noncommittal, and former Gov. Cooper, who is silent this time on prohibition but demands tax reforms.

Denounces Prohibition.

Mr. Ingalls, a vigorous young man and a member of a wealthy Cleveland family, has been campaigning strenuously through the state, defending the Hoover administration but denouncing prohibition as strenuously as Senator Bulkley did in 1928. The observers say that if he wins the nomination and business conditions improve he might compel Gov. White to doff the prohibition mantle or else take a licking.

That the league indorsement will prove a liability to any candidate is the view of Charles C. Crabbe, Republican, of Columbus, former attorney general and author of the Ohio prohibition code.

Mr. Crabbe was once the league's favorite son in the Ohio legislature, but fell from grace a year ago when he appeared before the house of representatives advocating modification of his own handiwork on the plea that "modification was preferable to nullification." He has a brother who is superintendent of the Maryland Anti-Saloon league.

"There is no question that the power of the league has been waning in the last four or five years," he said. "This year its indorsement will be a liability to any candidate. The people have grown disgusted with the hypocrisy of prohibition. They want a change and are going to manifest disapproval of any organization blocking that change or of any candidate bearing the stamp of that organization."

Another reason advanced for the wane of league influence is the attitude of the clergy, who have shown a growing reluctance to admit league lecturers to the pulpits during campaigns. For many years past it was the custom, particularly in the rural districts, to hold an old style revival in the church on the Sunday before the primary, with a league exhorter thundering anathemas against the "liquor interests" and begging votes for the candidates of righteousness.

With the rise of such organizations as the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, Crusaders, and others having some of the pillars of the churches on their membership lists, the practice of flaying all supporters of the liberal cause went into disfavor, first in the cities and lately in the smaller towns.

Even in the 1928 campaign, torn as it was with religious strife, few of the league's pulpiteers were permitted to go into action in the churches, observers say here. It is predicted that the number will be still less in the next campaign.

DANCING DOCTOR SKIPS AWAY WITH AMERICAN WOMAN'S VALUABLES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 14.—Psychiatric ministrations of a dancing doctor whom she met in a Paris cabaret cost Mrs. Daisy Baretton, an American tourist, $60 in cash and a costly platinum and diamond watch, she has reported to police.

The Mephistophelian medico, police today revealed, called himself Auguste de Guercy. He has been treating rich women tourists for several years, but this is the first time he has backed up his prescriptions with the authority of a fake diploma. He was arrested last night in a cabaret where he was hired to entertain unescorted women, but was provisionally released when it was not clearly established that he had not received the watch and cash in return for professional services.

According to the police Guercy became acquainted with Mrs. Baretton when she accepted his invitation to dance. He insisted she was on the verge of a nervous breakdown. Mrs. Baretton decided to place herself under his care. After one of his daily visits the $60 and the watch disappeared.

LISTS POLITICAL, POPULAR GAINS MADE BY WETS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Wet gains, political and popular, were described today in the annual report submitted by Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, to the organization's 506,100 members. Among the developments of the last year listed by Mr. Curran were the following:

According to the association's claims, the number of house members and senators favoring submission of the repeal of the 18th amendment to the people increased respectively from 160 to 190 and from 18 to 34.

Leaders Agree to Roll Calls.

Party leaders in congress agreed to roll calls in house and senate on a resolution to submit the question of repeal to a referendum vote.

Further, formerly dry districts, in special elections, sent wet members to the house.

Demands were made by more than 100 organizations, including the American Legion, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the American Bar association, and Junior league, for an opportunity to vote on repealing the 18th amendment.

Points to Finland Victory.

The people of Finland voted overwhelmingly to repeal their dry law, thus making the United States the only country with national prohibition.

"Distress and unemployment during 1931," the association's report asserted, "threw the light of publicity as never before upon the enormous waste of revenue in an experiment which has been a scandalous failure for twelve unbroken years. When we published pamphlets in 1929-'30 showing that prohibition involved a loss of more than 900 million dollars a year, the drys were vociferous in their claims that Volsteadism saved billions annually and was the father of prosperity. Today, they have perforce abandoned this prosperity myth."

KILLED AS CAR HITS TREE.

Brown, Ill., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Adam Conrady, 19, of Mount Carmel was killed west of Mount Carmel last night when a car driven by Harley Lynch crashed into a tree.

FIREMAN FALLS OFF HIS TRUCK AND IS KILLED

John Gart, 45 years old, Dunham road and Grand avenue, Gurnee, a volunteer fireman of the village, was fatally injured when he fell from the fire truck which was being driven to a fire in Milwaukee road at Grand avenue, Gurnee. The truck, driven by Gordon Dillon, also a volunteer fireman, skidded as it was being turned in Milwaukee road and Gart apparently lost his hold. Gart was taken to the St. Therese hospital in Waukegan, where he died shortly afterward of a fractured skull. The firemen proceeded to the fire, found it to be a prairie blaze, and extinguished it.

Deaths of two automobile victims yesterday raised the Cook county motor death toll for 1932 to 139. The victims:

John Smith, 39 years old, 6143 North California avenue. Fatally injured when his car collided with one driven by Joseph Regan, 8429 South Paulina street, at 83d street and Damen avenue. He died shortly afterward at the Auburn Park hospital. Police held Regan.

Delos Feighner, 936 East 80th street, died in St. Margaret's hospital, Hammond, of injuries received in a collision at Torrence avenue and 147th street, near Calumet City, between his car and one driven by Edward Stovogewski of Lemont. Stovogewski is in the same hospital with internal injuries.

FINDS MYSTERY VIAL.

A small vial containing a yellow liquid was found on the basement floor of a Salvation Army shelter at 308 South Green street yesterday. Detective John Adir found it to contain chlorine. The manager was unable to account for its presence.

DR. WILBUR HERE FOR SESSIONS ON CLINICAL ISSUE

National Medical Group Will Meet Today.

DR. HUMISTON.

The increasing number of clinics and low cost medical centers is occupying the attention of the American Medical association and the forms under which these centers have developed in various cities throughout the country are being investigated closely, according to Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, the secretary of the interior.

Dr. Wilbur arrived in Chicago yesterday to preside at the two day congress of the association's committee on medical education, medical licensure and hospitals, opening at the Palmer house this morning. He is chairman of the association's committee on the cost of medical care, which plans to make a report this year on the subject of low cost medical centers and on the corporate and contract practice of medicine generally.

"It is impossible for the association to pick out of the blue a set of rules to govern the various types of clinics and low cost medical centers that are springing up all over the nation," Dr. Wilbur said. "The great majority of them are experiments, and as such we shall have to observe them for a period of years. In the end the meritorious types will survive and the others will be eliminated."

A Cause of Contention.

Clinics and low cost medical centers have been a cause of strife for several years in the Chicago Medical society. Dr. Charles E. Humiston, who is a member of the national association's hospital committee, pointed out at the last meeting of the council of the Chicago Medical society that four papers to be delivered at the Palmer house sessions tomorrow will shed new light on the corporate and contract practice of medicine.

The council of the Chicago society has made use of the ethical rule forbidding advertising in its fight against medical centers. Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, noted physician and surgeon, was ousted by the society in 1929 for his connection with the Public Health institute, which advertises. The institute is incorporated, but not for profit.

Extend Fight on Centers.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, then coroner, resigned from the society in protest. In the past few months another bitter campaign has been instituted by the council against a group of small incorporated centers. Six physicians associated with the Wicker Park Medical center, incorporated for profit, were ousted because the center advertised. Among the six was Dr. Edward F. Dombrowski, a member of the new Chicago board of health, of which Dr. Bundesen is chairman. Dr. Schmidt is the other member.

In all, ten medical centers similar to the Wicker Park center are under investigation by the council. All were accused of unethical advertising methods.

Among the talks to be heard tomorrow morning at the congress in the Palmer house is one by Dr. Michael M. Davis, director for medical services of the Julius Rosenwald fund, of Chicago. The Rosenwald fund sponsors the Public Health institute.

HEAR PLEA TODAY FOR CUT IN BOND IN KEGEL POISON CASE

Attorney Leo A. O'Reilly, acting for Mrs. Marie Sahlin Kegel, indicted for the attempted murder by poison of her former maid, Mrs. Mary Ryan, will go before Judge John Prystalski in the Criminal court this morning in an endeavor to have his client's bonds reduced from $50,000 to a lower figure. The condition of Mrs. Ryan, who is in the John B. Murphy hospital, was reported unchanged yesterday.

Judge Prystalski on Saturday declared he would not hear the motion until he had received a report on the condition of the alleged poison victim. Should he accede to the plea and order a reduction of the bonds, it has already been indicated by Attorney O'Reilly that Mrs. Kegel will surrender immediately. She is said by him to be suffering from a nervous breakdown and to be a patient in a sanitarium on the outskirts of the city.

The poisoning of Mrs. Ryan is alleged to have occurred in a drug store on Irving Park boulevard where, according to a statement made to police, Mrs. Ryan had met Mrs. Kegal to talk over the approaching divorce suit brought by Dr. Arnold H. Kegel, former health commissioner. Mrs. Ryan, who was to have been a witness, was asked not to testify by Mrs. Kegel, she told prosecutors.

AGED MAN ENDS STOMACH PAIN

"I used ACIDINE and found it to do all you claim," says M. A. Funk of Riverton, N. J. "I am 60 years of age and had been bothered with acid, fermentation and gas in stomach. I had tried everything without results. ACIDINE relieved me at once."

Mr. Del Lacrosse of New York says, "I had suffered for several weeks from gas and sour stomach. Took almost everything. Then I tried ACIDINE. It has ended my gas and sour stomach. Now feel fine and have a sweet stomach all the time. I always keep ACIDINE in my medicine chest and advise any one with stomach trouble to try it."

Excess gas, sourness, heartburn, dizziness, sleeplessness, headache resulting from acidity. Maker guarantees ACIDINE ends your stomach trouble or money back. All druggists have ACIDINE.

REAL PAINLESS DENTISTRY NOW CALLED POSSIBLE

Improved Anæsthetic Is Hailed by Profession.

Chicago, already credited with having more good dentists to the square inch than any community in the world, is about to reap the benefit of a recent advance in anaesthetics that minimizes both the time spent in the dental chairs and the pain that engenders dread of its occupancy. Clinics for instruction in the use of the new agent are acquainting local dentists in large numbers with its efficiency.

Details of the improvement in technique made available by this development were the subject of a symposium given at the recent dental convention here by Dr. W. B. Amy of Toronto, since when the local professional men have adopted it enthusiastically. The anaesthetic used is the old familiar novocaine, but so perfected by laboratory experiments and changes that it now enables a dentist to achieve in one afternoon, what it formerly took up to fifteen calls by the patient, to accomplish.

Real Painless Dentistry.

"Painless dentistry, so long misused by quacks and misunderstood by the public, comes into its own with this step forward," one prominent dentist declared yesterday. "As it is now prepared and used, the novocaine solution has no ill effect on the blood pressure, can be taken by any patient who is able to walk up a flight of stairs, and except in about five percent of cases, can be given repeatedly, up to six successive injections, without the slightest harm. And I could hit you with a brick in the area treated, and you wouldn't feel it."

Novocaine was formerly prepared by the dentist himself for injection into his patient's mouth. Haste often resulted in unequal strength of the solutions, and left the operator dubious as to when the effects would wear off. Consequently he was compelled to work cautiously and with far from satisfactory results, since no serious operation could be handled except by slow stages of preparation, taking days and many calls.

Gives Repeated Injections.

Today the accurate solution of novocaine needed for one injection comes from the supply houses in exact small cartridges, sanitary and safe. The dentist knows with precision when the effect may be expected to wear off, and that the drug passes through the system in twenty minutes. He knows there will be no ill effects if he gauges his time and gives a second, third and fourth injection, meanwhile doing in one afternoon the work that once took many days.

Forty-five minutes, the time one anaesthetic lasted, was as long as it was possible to work on a patient previous to this development, unless the individual was exceptionally hearty. With the improvement of the solution, it is now possible to work continuously on one set of teeth for four or five hours, to prepare many teeth for treatment and to take casts.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of suicide while despondent over ill health was returned by a coroner's jury in its inquest yesterday into the death of Siegfried L. Mendel, 60 years old, 2929 North Neenah avenue, who swallowed poison in the Hotel La Salle on Thursday.

Kidney Acidity

Disturbs Sleep and Causes Stiffness and Loss of Energy, Backache, Nervousness.

Thousands of men and women past 40, and many far younger, often feel run-down and years older than they are by neglecting to use the right medicines for such conditions as Disturbed Sleep, Backache, Nervousness, Lumbago, Neuralgia, Sore Joints, Circles Under Eyes, Headaches, Smarting and Irritation caused by functional Kidney inactivity and Excess Acidity.

To combat these conditions when due to functional kidney inactivity, you really need two different kinds of medicine. First, you need a medicine to act as a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys to help them in their function of filtering and purifying the blood, thus reducing acidity. Second, you need another medicine to soothe and heal irritation and give nature a chance.

These two special kinds of medicine in one package, known as Cystex, now may be had from your druggist under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. They are in tasteless tablet form, easy to take, and pleasant to young and old, yet work so fast they start circulating through the system in 11 minutes. Sufferers say they begin to feel marked improvement in 24 hours.

Your own druggist—the man you know is reliable—can tell you that these are established facts, and that Cystex (pronounced Siss-tex) is a splendid medicine containing purest ingredients, which have proved a blessing to many of his customers.

This much is certain: If Cystex makes you feel years younger and stronger by combating these functional conditions, the small cost of 75c is a trifle, but if not completely satisfied, merely return the empty package and get your money back. Why suffer from delay and neglect? The Guarantee protects you. Get Cystex from your druggist today.

23 MOSLEMS AND HINDUS KILLED IN COMMUNAL WAR

Britain Arrests Congress Party President.

SRINIGAR, India, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Fifteen Hindus and three Moslems were killed and 75 houses were pillaged and burned in communal disturbances at Mirpur today.

At Dharmsi five Moslems were killed when a Moslem mob attacked a police party escorting Hindu refugees in the city to safety. The bed of the Whelum river was the scene of a fierce Moslem attack in another communal disturbance.

Situation Is Incendiary.

Although active rebellion has been suppressed in many districts by the presence of troops, the situation continues incendiary.

Rumors are current that the government may create a council of ministers in Kashmir state containing a majority of British officials, thus establishing a virtual regency for the present Hindu maharjah and giving the government control of the state, one of the richest in India.

Arrest Congress President.

LAHORE, India, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Sirdar Sardul Singh, president of the all-India national congress, was arrested at Shahdara station today while en route to Peshawar and brought back to Lahore as a move in the government's anti-nationalist campaign. The Bengal Moslem leader, Maulana Kalam Azad, was named as president to succeed him.

2 FRIENDS DROP DEAD ON MEXICAN SIGHTSEEING TRIP

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 14.—Anthony Doherty, 58, Louisiana state senator and hardware merchant, and William Phillips Connell, 50, president of the Louisiana National bank, both of Baton Rouge, died early this morning from heart attacks.

The two men, accompanied by a group of sightseers, went to the Montparnasse cabaret last night. There Mr. Connell, complaining of pain, suddenly collapsed. He was rushed to a Red Cross station but efforts to save him proved unavailing. Senator Doherty, upon being told of his friend's death, also collapsed and died a few minutes later.

The statement by doctors after an autopsy declared that both deaths were due to natural causes and had been brought about by weak hearts overduely affected by the high altitude of Mexico City and too much exertion on a strenuous sightseeing tour. The two men arrived here early yesterday morning with Charles R. Holcombe, also a Louisiana state senator. Both Senator Doherty and Mr. Connell suffered heart attacks on the train while passing over the lofty mountains en route.

Safety Record Is Broken by Pennsylvania Railroad

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—Employés of the Pennsylvania railroad last year achieved the best safety mark in the company's history, President W. W. Atterbury announced today. Accidents to employés were reduced more than 27 per cent as compared with 1930 and 76 per cent compared with five years ago. The motive power department in the middle division had a record of only six reportable accidents among 1,965 men who worked all the year.

4 SKATERS BREAK RIVER ICE; SAVED BY HUMAN CHAIN

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 14. — [Special.]—A human chain formed by skaters saved four youths late today when they broke through the thin ice on the Milwaukee river, 700 feet north of Lincoln park, and were plunged in seven feet of water.

They were among the 18 skaters listed on park board records as breaking through the ice over the weekend. Hundreds of skaters were on the river and rinks despite the park board's warning the ice is not safe.

The youths rescued are Bernard Reuter, 10, 3385 North 2d street; Peter Wendt, 13, 3623 North 12th street; Frank Fratrick, 17, 4262 North Port Washington road, and William Wenzel, 14, 4207 North 13th street.

At one time during the rescue the ice broke near the hole and Roy Effenheim, 4213 North 13th street, was thrown into the water. He maintained his hold on the rest of the chain and helped pull the others from the water. Reuter had gone under twice and was taken to the County Emergency hospital in a police ambulance.

GASOLINE BLAST ON TUG KILLS 5; 15 OTHERS HURT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HAVANA, Feb. 14. — Five Cuban sailors were killed and fifteen others seriously burned today when a gasoline explosion destroyed the tugboat Manueka in Havana harbor. The tug had drown alongside the tanker Walter H. Munson with 130,000 gallons of gasoline aboard when the explosion occurred.

The tug, assisting in unloading the gasoline cargo, became flooded with gasoline when a hose became disconnected. A spark ignited the gasoline, resulting in the explosion. The fire spread to the tanker, which arrived this morning from Baltimore and Norfolk.

Flames spreading through the steamer caused $65,000 damage and threatened to reach 600 tons of dynamite, gunpowder and shells deposited on the shore 200 yards away. Capt. Hubert L. Fluck of the Walter H. Munson rescued two boy stowaways from the flames. The youths had been handcuffed and chained to the doors of the captain's quarters.

COAST GUARDS HOME; TELL OF FLOOD RESCUES

Captain Reveals Fear of New Inundation.

Eighteen men from various stations of the United States coast guard in the great lakes division, including Capt. John O. Anderson and a crew from the central station at the mouth of the river, returned to their regular assignments yesterday after four weeks of emergency duty in the flood areas of Mississippi.

Although the waters have subsided, there is danger of a fresh flood, this one from the Mississippi river, Capt. Anderson said last night. According to the captain, the Mississippi is rising steadily and communities as far as forty miles away are apprehensive of a recurrence of the innundation of 1927.

Work Over Wide Area.

The great lakes coast guards worked in the flooded zones along the Yazoo and Sunflower rivers and between Yazoo City and Greenwood, a distance of 207 miles. Working with them was a coastal contingent from Galveston. The entire complement was forty-five men. There were eight boats, four of them from the great lakes region, or one each from the central, Jackson park, South Chicago, and Wilmette stations. Capt. S. B. Johnson of Green Bay commanded the great lakes group.

Experiences of the coast guards were related last night by Capt. Anderson. They moved hundreds of families from marooned homes to the highlands. Some of the people were stubborn, however, and refused to abandon their homes until the waters threatened the upper floors, where they had taken refuge. In one instance, the coast guards transported twelve babies, some colored, while the parents remained behind.

Taken from Tree Tops.

"In several cases we rescued entire families from tree tops," recounted the captain. "The water rose so fast for them they resorted to atavistic methods of safety. The worst flood zone was at Belzoni, where the water rose ten and twelve feet. Engineers there are bolstering up the levees with sandbags and piles."

The flood victims were grateful for the help of the coast guard, Capt. Anderson said, and gave them a dance at Yazoo City.

According to Capt. Anderson the great lakes coast guardsmen went to Mississippi and returned to Chicago in day coaches to save the Red Cross the expense of Pullman berths.

WIFE REFUSES TO RIDE IN CAR; MATE KILLS SELF

Stanley Bayer, 35 years old, 543 South Wesley avenue, Oak Park, shot and killed himself early yesterday in his automobile in 33d street at Oak Park avenue, Berwyn. The shooting took place after a misunderstanding with his wife, the police learned, in which she refused to ride with him in his car.

Mrs. Bayer had spent the evening at the Berwyn club with Mr. and Mrs. George W. Morris, 3444 Home avenue, Berwyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Burket, 3022 Clinton avenue, Berwyn, and with them met her husband at the club entrance. Morris told the police that when Mrs. Bayer would not enter the automobile Bayer drove a few feet, then stopped and fired four shots.

Neither Morris nor Burket was able to account for Bayer's action and the police could learn no motive. Bayer carried a revolver in his car for protection, it was said.

The Bayers have two children, Curtis, 6 years old, and Lora Mae, 4, who were at home at the time in care of a maid. Bayer was an assistant manager of an Oak Park clothing store.

GREECE PROPOSES THREE MEATLESS DAYS A WEEK

ATHENS, Greece, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Measures proposed by the government for maintenance of the drachma, Greek monetary unit, were today revealed as including a regulation prescribing three meatless days weekly in order to restrict the importation of meat.

Under the plan permission to exchange moneys abroad would be refused except to students holding scholarships and further export of currency would not be allowed except in payment for prime necessities such as food and raw materials.

JAMES SHOCKS FOLKS, BUT HE GETS HIS BED

James O'Connell, 35 years old, knew that he had a bed somewhere, but his indecision as to its location caused excitement early yesterday morning among tenants of the apartment building at 4001 Kenmore avenue.

Several of them called police in frightened tones. A man, dazed and apparently bleeding to death, was staggering about the lobby of the building ringing doorbells for aid, they said. Sergt. Frank Weimer and a detective squad investigated.

They found O'Connell. He was systematically punching doorbells. But his weakness had overcome him in some speakeasy, and not as the result of bloodshed, the police said. He had a cut on one hand and had doused the hand, as well as his face, hair, and clothing, with a scarlet antiseptic.

The policemen got his address, 1338 Eddy street, and deposited him there.

POLITICAL GROUP WORKER BEATEN, ROBBED OF CASH

Sam Rosenthal, 64 years old, 1429 Berwyn avenue, was severely beaten on the head and robbed of $30 and his watch early yesterday as he stepped from a taxicab in front of his home. He had left the chambers of Judge Michael Feinberg in the county building at 2 a. m. after an evening spent in political work in behalf of Judge Feinberg's candidacy for the Republican nomination for state's attorney.

Rosenthal is in the coal business and is an editor of the Elks Club News. He is one of Judge Feinberg's campaign managers. He could not remember whether he had paid his cab bill before being assaulted. He was unconscious in a hallway for some time until his sister heard some one moaning and called the Summerdale police.

NEPHEW LED BY UNCLE FOR COSTA RICAN PRESIDENT

Lack of Majority to Cause Second Election.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, Feb. 14.—The presidential and congressional elections ended today without a single reported irregularity. Meager results from outlying districts indicate that none of the three candidates will have a majority, in which case a second election will be held on April 10.

Ricardo Jimenez, who was president twice before, 1910 to 1914 and 1924 to 1928, is leading, with Manuel Castro Quesada second, although the decisive province of San José is still to be heard from. Carlos Maria Jimenez, a nephew of Ricardo, is the third candidate.

Claim Jimenez Too Old.

The elder Jimenez is 74 and is the only man in Costa Rica who has served as head of all three branches of the government—executive, legislative, and judicial. Opponents assert that he is too old to serve as president again. He has shown sprightliness in this campaign, however, and is supported by the older politicians, coffee planters, and business men.

Quesada resigned as minister to Washington to enter the campaign. Usually he has preferred to make presidents and to serve under them. He was supported by the younger element of the country and the present administration. The younger Jimenez polled 33,000 out of approximately 70,000 votes in 1928 in opposition to the incumbent president, Cleto Gonzalez Viquez. He has been supported by Catholic clergy and laymen in this campaign.

Infer Force to Be Used.

Voting in Costa Rica is by secret ballot. One overseer of each party is permitted in each election precinct and it is customary for the government in power to observe absolute neutrality at the polls. Some complaints that the government supported Quesada were investigated and in some cases officials found to be partial were discharged.

There have been inferences that Quesada will take the presidency with the help of the army and police if he is not elected.

Attorney Hannan to Enter State Treasurership Race

Mark Hannan, attorney with offices at 7 South Dearborn street, announced yesterday that he will file his petition with Secretary of State Stratton today seeking the Republican nomination for state treasurer. Mr. Hannan graduated from De Paul university in 1922 and has been practicing law in Illinois since that time. He served with the infantry in the world war and is a member of North Shore post, No. 21, American Legion.

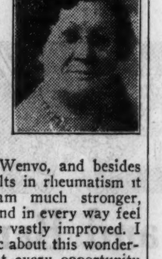
Rheumatism Wrecked Health

So Badly Crippled Could Hardly Get Around—Now Well and Strong, Sleeps Fine, Thanks to New Master Medicine.

To do our best at work, to enjoy thoroughly every pleasure, our minds and bodies must be constantly alert. When the system is run-down and blood is sluggish, filled with impurities, pain and suffering is sure to result . . . suffering that may rob you of a chance to take advantage of some big opportunity in the business world—that will certainly take all the pleasure out of living—and make days and nights a monotonous series of pain.

Already thousands have found renewed strength and glorious health through this wonderful body-building medicine, and are now enjoying every pleasure they had been forced to give up because of some ailment that had been tearing down their systems.

Read how one of these, Mrs. Nellie Lloyd, 913 Minnesota Ave., Kansas City, Kan., banished rheumatism caused by a general run-down condition: "I had heard of Wenvo being so splendid for rheumatism that I decided it would be a real test in my case, and it more than made good. There is not a trace of rheumatism in my body today, and to think, I was so badly crippled I could not get around. I did manage to go from room to room by pushing a chair in front of me and holding onto it, and it was weeks that I could not leave the house. My knees and hips were so painful and swollen, I feared they would never again be well.



"I had faith in Wenvo, and besides the wonderful results in rheumatism it built me up—I am much stronger, sleep much better, and in every way feel my whole system is vastly improved. I am very enthusiastic about this wonderful medicine and at every opportunity tell of how thoroughly it corrected my health."

If, however, for any reason you are not completely satisfied, merely return the empty bottle and we will be glad to refund your money. Don't put it off. Begin taking Wenvo—today! Laundry Owner Is Stabbed to Death; Killer Caught

Hoey Jung, 35 years old, Chinese, was stabbed to death yesterday afternoon in his laundry at 3422 West North avenue. Four Chinese who fled from the laundry were pursued by Charles Streichirsch, whose living quarters are above Jung's place. One of them, Hong Lee Moy, 25 years old, was captured by Streichirsch and confessed the stabbing. He said that he and his companions, Fong How, Wong Pong, and Hing Lee, tried to rob Hoey Junge and killed him when he resisted. The police suspected, however, that some motive of personal revenge was involved, as $40 in the till of the slain man was untouched.

Social Disease

This information concerning a serious disease problem is sponsored by the Public Health Institute as a public health measure.

EXPERIENCED MEDICAL CARE IS IMPORTANT

It takes years of training in medical school and in hospitals under expert supervision, as well as modern laboratory facilities to enable physicians to make a correct diagnosis of either syphilis or gonorrhea. Without this expert advice patients cannot know definitely whether they are infected or not. It is easy to mistake syphilis and gonorrhea for other diseases. This is particularly true of syphilis. It is often called the "Great Imitator" since it appears so frequently in the guise of other ailments. Because of this aspect of the disease an incorrect diagnosis may prove a disaster to a patient who has acquired it. Not only his own health, but that of his family is threatened. At the same time it is almost as great a misfortune to mistake other conditions for one of these diseases. In such cases the patient suffers severe mental strain, believing he has contracted a serious, perhaps fatal, disease and is a danger to his family and friends.

AVOID THESE DANGERS.

Individuals can avoid these dangers, by seeking reliable and experienced medical care. In this community adequate medical service is available to all. Those who cannot afford the services of a private physician can find good medical care at several low cost clinics, including the leading medical schools and other recognized health agencies. Free treatment is available to those without funds.

The Public Health Institute is incorporated for public service, not for profit, under the laws of the State of Illinois. It is an institution dedicated to the object of combating venereal diseases in this community—through organized effort of all social agencies dealing with this problem. Its main clinic for men is located at 159 North Dearborn Street, between Randolph and Lake Streets, a branch clinic at 129 East 31st Street, and the women's and children's clinic, at 72 East Randolph Street.

Technique discovered that quickly removes stain and off-color—with absolute safety.

LIKE millions of others she has been fooled! Fooled into thinking that dull, offensive-looking teeth are an affliction she must endure simply because ordinary brushing has failed to make them white and attractive. Don't you make this mistake.

You can have teeth that others will admire. Just use a half-inch of antiseptic Kolynos on a dry brush twice a day. And much sooner than you expected your teeth will look like you want them to.

When it enters the mouth Kolynos instantly foams into every tiny crevice. It washes away stain and discoloration. It erases tartar. Then it does what no ordinary toothpaste can do . . . It kills millions of germs that pour into the mouth and cause tooth and gum troubles and bad breath.

This double action actually cleans teeth as they should be cleaned—right down to the beautiful, natural white enamel without injury. It stimulates and invigorates the gums and purifies the mouth.

Now don't let your teeth look uncared-for another day. A half-inch of antiseptic KOLYNOS DENTAL CREAM on a dry brush morning and night will quickly make them flashing white and keep them sound. Try it.

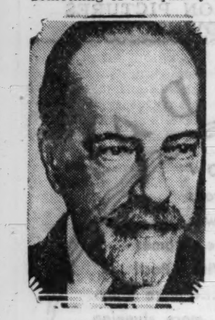
"Once a Grand Duke," by the Grand Duke Alexander of Russia. [Farrar & Rinehart.] Published today.

THERE have been, it sometimes seems, as many books of reminiscences about pre-war Russia as hailstones on a strip of pavement on a sleety day. They all have something of the quality of hailstones, too, sharply clattering, stinging as they strike you, always a little extraordinary—the kind of thing that children pick up in wonder, and grown ups discuss as minor phenomena. Some of the books have had intense human appeal. Others have had the appeal of historical record, oddly contemporaneous. Only a very few have had any primary historic value, however, except as the records of eyewitnesses of phenomena which the official documents have failed to make permanent.



ALEXANDER.

"Once a Grand Duke" is one of the rare volumes of historic import to come from pens of émigrés of an unfortunate régime. The author was a close personal friend of the late czar as well as his brother-in-law, and Grand Duke Alexander had a head upon his shoulders (unless, as they used to say in the rural wastes of the United States, his "hindsight is better than his foresight").

Gives Reasons for Russian Debacle.

Without going into the intricacies of Russian political history, Alexander shows, as few popular writers have shown, why the debacle of Russia came as it did. That debacle was hastened by twenty-five years, he feels, by the death of the old czar and the accession to the throne of "Nicky," who was in no sense either trained to rule or a natural ruler. His own warnings were not heeded in crises, and the czar's advisers were not to be trusted.

The revolution was inevitable, he felt. He wrote the czar: "I do not know whether you will take my advice or not, but I do want you to understand that the coming Russian revolution of 1917 is a pure product of the efforts of your government. For the first time in modern history a revolution is being engineered not from below but from above, not by the people against the government but by the government against the welfare of the people."

Gives Three "Vital" Facts of War.

The grand duke is frank in his diagnosis of the causes of the world war. He had predicted the war years before. "The information possessed by me and gathered both before and during the war (in which he was commander in chief of the Russian air forces) leads me to believe in the conclusiveness of three facts only:

1. The conflict was caused by the Anglo-German rivalry for the economic supremacy of the world and by the combined efforts of the military cliques of Berlin, Vienna, Paris, London, and St. Petersburg. Had it not been for the assassination of the Archduke Franz-Ferdinand another pretext of equally abysmal cynicism would have been chosen by the international champions of war. Kaiser Wilhelm naturally wanted to "have it over with" before the completion of the Russian military program in 1917.

2. Nicholas II. did all in his power to prevent the outbreak of hostilities, finding but little, if any, support from his conciliatory efforts among his advisers of the Russian foreign office and the Russian general staff.

3. Up to the stroke of midnight, July 31, 1914, the British government could have averted the catastrophe had it declared its readiness to stand by France and Russia. . . . The British empire went to war not because of its holy respect for the inviolability of international treaties but on account of its bitter feelings toward Germany. Were Herbert Asquith less of a lawyer and more of an outspoken humanitarian no war would have been declared by Germany on Aug. 1, 1914. All other "ifs" exploited by historians of 1914 are fanciful and meaningless.

Records Human Side of Russia.

The autobiography is not in any sense a mere political memoir. It records the human and social pre-war Russia as vividly as any of the books published thus far, although that record is made without any obvious sentiment. The author was a soldier from the age of 7 and it is not the part of a soldier to be flowery. The story of the lonely, rigidly supervised youth trained to the strictest discipline, plain living, and high (militaristic) thinking is moving by its very lack of sentimentality. Only once in his childhood and youth did he have any normal affection bestowed upon him and that was one summer when scarlet fever confined him to the country and his nurses and doctors humored him. The lowliest peasant could have loving care and friendship to make his poverty more endurable. At the age of 20 the grand duke came into his fortune (a mere $110,000 a year) and he didn't know what to do with it except to buy old books! Such preparation for luxury had his "iron discipline" given him.

One "d" was good enough for God...

But the Todds had to have two, said Lincoln in explanation of Mary Todd's spelling of her name.

That proud and ambitious girl married Lincoln and made his life a torment for a quarter-century. She became the prey of obsessions in her later life, was confined in an asylum, and died in the house where forty years before Lincoln had put a ring on her finger bearing the words: "Love is eternal"

Read the amazing story of Lincoln in this new book, which Dixon Ryan Fox says is as "fascinating as a romantic novel."

Maude Adams to Play Portia in Chicago for One Week

BY CHARLES COLLINS.

Maude Adams, now celebrating her return to the stage after thirteen years of retirement by playing the rôle of Portia in "The Merchant of Venice," will make her Chicago appearances at the Studebaker theater, beginning Monday night, Feb. 29. The engagement will be for only one week—absolutely and positively—Manager George Kingsbury of the Studebaker announces. The other bookings of her tour, which will take her to the Pacific coast, will prevent any extension of the Chicago engagement, no matter how great the box office demand.

Miss Adams was to the playgoing generation of twenty-five and thirty years ago what Mary Pickford was to the devotees of the so-called "silver screen." She was never given the sobriquet of "America's Sweetheart," for her legend was exploited under the dignified, almost austere, auspices of Charles Frohman; but that phrase might have been used to describe the affection in which she was held. Her greatest successes were achieved in the plays of J. M. Barrie, among them "The Little Minister," "Peter Pan," and "What Every Woman Knows."

She emerged from retirement last fall, after a year's promises, in a revival of "The Merchant of Venice," with Otis Skinner as her co-star in the rôle of Shylock. Since then they have been on tour, visiting the cities known as one-week, half-week, and one-night "stands." Miss Adams has avoided New York, although she grazed the fringe of the New York metropolitan area by acting in Newark, N. J.

"As Husbands Go" moved from the Blackstone to the Adelphi theater last night to continue its successful Chicago engagement for another fortnight. It will be followed at the Adelphi on Feb. 29 by "The Sandy Hooker," a comedy with Edna Hibbard in its leading rôle.

This play was staged last season as a vehicle for Lenore Ulric, but was put aside as not suitable for her personality. It was revived last week for the uses of Miss Hibbard. Others in the cast are James Spottswood, Lyster Chambers, William Morris, Clara Palmer, James Seeley, and Charles Hanna.

The management of the Adelphi hopes that "The Sandy Hooker" will run until early in May, by which time the theater will be ready to offer "When the Bough Breaks," a play recently staged in New York with Pauline Frederick as its star. The latter piece deals with the theme of abnormal maternal jealousy, along the lines of Sidney Howard's "The Silver Cord."

The engagement of "Rhapsody in Black" at the Garrick theater will end Feb. 27. The company of Negro musicians and entertainers will go to Paris for a spring run at the Theatre Pigalle, owned by the Baron Rothschild.

Eugene O'Neill's trilogy, "Mourning Becomes Electra," will begin its Chicago engagement this afternoon at the Blackstone theater under the management of the Theater Guild. Today's performance will start at 4:30 p. m.; all subsequent performances will begin at 5:30. The dinner interval tonight will be from 6 to 7 p. m.; afterward it will be between 7 and 8 p. m.

The leading members of this company, specially organized for a tour of the Theater Guild's subscription cities, are Judith Anderson, Florence Reed, Walter Abel, Crane Wilbur, and Thurston Hall. "Mourning Becomes Electra" will remain at the Blackstone for three weeks.

Book Publishers Propose a Cut of 20% in Wages

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Declaring that the present level of wages for workers in local book and job printing plants "is not only uneconomic, but impossible of maintenance," the National Association of Book Publishers announced today it has joined the group of employers demanding a 20 per cent wage cut.

The association assured the New York Employing Printers' association of its support in the event employers decide to "have open shop" conditions.

Good morning.

"The Passionate Plumber"—there's a title for you!—is a sort of Keystone comedy de luxe—without the cops.

People chase each other, ladies [?] smash crockery, French gentlemen [?] pull noses and fight farcical duels, and a snaky gigolo, posing as an unhappily married man, eases from femme to femme craving understanding, and, in the end, getting plenty. To my notion, HERE is the picture's BIG MOMENT! There is that about Mr. Gilbert Roland which inspires one with the desire to do for him just what Mona Maris and Irene Purcell perform with such gusto and effect. Excellent actresses, both of these young women! Certainly, they give a remarkably convincing imitation of really enjoying their job of reducing Roland to a rag and a tag.

Buster Keaton and Jimmy "Schnozzle" Durante come to repair the shower in Miss Purcell's bathroom. Polly Moran, the maid, and Jimmy are seen as "that way."

The mistress of the house is discovered in dire distress because she cannot escape Mr. Roland, who pursues her and whom she loves madly even though she believes him to be a benedict.

After a series of remarkable adventures Mr. Keaton signs a contract to protect the lady from making a fool of herself, even—or particularly—when she least desires such protection. "Use force if necessary," says she.

The war is on.

If you liked the old Sennett comedies, you'll probably go for "The Passionate Plumber." It is acted with abandon and some of the lines are funny.

Here you have a skit built about the adventures of three middle-aged girls who once shook hips in burlesque.

One of them marries a wealthy suburbanite. After years of hard climbing she is gradually easing into the social life of the town—where nobody knows what she used to be—WHEN her old college chums turn up.

They arrive at a time when she is sponsoring a benefit in the interests of homeless dogs and cats.

Lizzie's downright glad to see these pals of other days, and, at first she hobnobs with them as did the Lizzie of old. Then—she remembers as how she's milk trying to be crème de la crème and goes back on the shelf with her nose in the air. She becomes so terrifyingly ritzy that the simple soul whose name she bears, and whose chief interests in life are getting what he wants to eat and being comfortable in his own home, seriously contemplates divorce.

Go on and guess as to what happens at the party and to Lizzie's matrimonial status. Suffice to say that Rosie and Queenie—the latter traveling under the terrible titular handicap of Lady Chetworth-Linde—have fingers in both pies.

This farce is only funny because of the acting. Louise Dresser, Jobyna Howland and Minna Gombel could put anything over. And don't forget, our dear old friend, William Collier Sr., is also there. Barbara Weeks is sweet as Mrs. Ramsey's wholesome daughter who hates bluff as much as does her father, and Mary Forbes is amusing as the snobbish Mrs. Tremaine whose snuffy approbation is so dear to the heart of Mrs. Ramsey.

See you tomorrow.

Ishbel Mac Donald Knows Nothing of Her 'Engagement'

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Feb. 14.—"I am very much surprised at the announcement. I know nothing about it." Ishbel MacDonald, eldest daughter of Premier Ramsay MacDonald made this comment today concerning the report from New York that she is about to become engaged to Kenneth Lindsay.

Lindsay interviewed today also denied the report, declaring, "There is no truth in it whatever. I know Ishbel MacDonald and other members of her family, but this rumor is without foundation. My mother has been on a visit to Canada and the United States and presently will be on her way home. The rumor appears to have been manufactured in New York."

Cleveland Museum Buys Only Robbia Marble in U.S.

This latest addition to the section of rennaisance art in the museum is a Carrara marble plaque in high relief, representing the profile of a singing boy's head, and was until recently in the collection of Gustave Dreyfus in Paris.

Chicago's Shops Offer Paris Smartness Within Easy Reach

Be It a New Gown or Treasure of Art the Shopper May Find It in Stores Here.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

EVERY woman should know that Chicago shops are as fascinating and every bit as smart as any shop in Paris, with the added interest of being infinitely more usable because they are so accessible.

You can arrive in Chicago at nine in the morning and at noon be gowned by Chanel, perfumed by Houbigant, wear a hat whose every dip and swirl whispers Alphonsine, wear gloves by Alexandrine, and under it all wear hand made French lingerie direct from the shops on the Rue de la Paix—all this in a few short hours, and not leave either State street or Michigan boulevard.

Do you know that you can enter a shop on the boulevard and behave just as you would in any of the great couture salons in Paris? You can choose a dress from a large collection of new models, newly unpacked, choose your color, choose your fabric and have it made to your own measurements right in their own workrooms by skilled needlewomen, many of whom have come direct from famous shops in Paris.

Do you know that new fabrics as designed by Rodier and Chanel are available in Chicago as soon as two weeks after their premier showing in Paris? That one of the "famous first" Eugenie hats walked off the gang plank in New York, took the Century and was seen on Michigan boulevard almost simultaneously with the original showings in Paris?

Originals Reproduced by American Designers.

And for every original that is unpacked in Chicago, clever American designers plan copies or adaptations that defy detection by even the most knowing—and price them to meet the demands of the most modest budget.

There are hat shops in Chicago that boast that no shopper can find a completed model in their store, but they will receive madame, arrange her comfortably before a mirror, use a piece of felt or straw or silk, and cut and snip and cut again. While she waits it is completed and she sallies forth with a perfect inspiration atop her curls.

Any feminine desire for shoes is easily satisfied. Shoe manufacturers are fairly deluging Chicago with models of every kind and sort of fabric, skin and leather. One shop in particular uses its entire mezzanine floor for evening sandals and boudoir mules and slippers. Girls dressed in colorful lounging pajamas help you to select and fit your shoe wardrobe. This shop packs your purchases in specially designed boxes that have a double partition to hold the matching hosiery selected at the same time as the shoes.

Are you planning a large wedding with many attendants or just a small but picturesque affair that will linger long in the memories of your neighbors? Chicago has a shop where the entire bridal party can be outfitted and where the usual confusion can be reduced to a minimum. In fact, this shop will take complete charge of the entire wedding party, plan the color effects, design the costume, and even send maid and fitters almost to the very altar.

Store Has a Fashion Bureau for Patrons.

One store has a fashion bureau, where original models are presented for both the debutante and her mother. Here you will consult with specialists for any kind of a wardrobe, for any occasion from a debut tea to a formal presentation at court. Watch mannequins model them in either daylight or the more trying electric lights for evening. Have them made just for your own particular individuality and then have them delivered to you, either the same model or the copy, on the day you may request.

Did you know that the finest furs in all the world are to be found in Chicago shops? The finest sables that ever left Russia were sold this winter in one of Chicago's fur salons. This shop also presented evening wraps of unbelievably lovely white caracul, wraps so soft and supple that they resembled heavy lustrous moire silk instead of fur.

Are you among those who scoff at the many tales concerning the jewels now available from the imperial Russian court collections? Go into a well known shop and see them for yourself, in glorious reality. Do you have a special predilection for star sapphires or pigeon blood rubies? In this same shop is a remarkable collection of both, with a startling array of jeweled snuff boxes, each box with its own authentic bit of history.

Jade collectors find rare and unusual pieces here, too, while those of you who admire modern angles and art will find the only authentic examples of modern jewelry as designed by the master creator and made only for Cartier in Paris and this shop in Chicago.

Chicago Holds Treasures for the Collector.

Do you collect old silver, rare antique rugs, crystal, Lalique glass, tooled leather, and tapestries? You find the finest examples, the most unusual additions for your treasure chests right here in Chicago. Lovely things that were old when Chicago was just a tiny wooden fort, antiques that have been brought to Chicago because appreciative connoisseurs know that Chicago is the Mecca for shoppers.

And so, whether you shop for a frock, hat, coat or accessories or spend your money for art treasures and bibelots for your home or collection, why travel long distances to London, Rome, Paris or even New York? Shop in Chicago.

Vatican City Is One State Without Jobless Problem

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 14.—Vatican City can rightly claim to be the state where the proportion of employed workers to the total population is the highest in the world. When the pope received today a large delegation of workmen employed by the holy see it was revealed that these workers numbered considerably over 5,000 while the total population of the tiny state is hardly one-tenth of that. It may be assumed, therefore, that unemployment is not one of the Vatican City's problems.

Be Interesting; It Helps You Be Attractive

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

The men may have a number of complaints about our sex these days—and I understand they have—but one thing they can't accuse women of is monotony of appearance. Every fashion season, spring, summer, winter, and fall, practically sees a new girl emerge. What if she did appear in her last evolutionary stage a comical little Eugénie caricature? At least she was different.

Now she is in for a colonial doing over. From shoe buckles to tricorn headpiece she's going revolutionary with a vengeance. So say the fashion authorities, and what they say we listen to, for a part of a season, anyway.

What adds appreciably to the modern femm's charm is her total disregard of the call to act the part of the period in which she dresses herself. She may look for all the world like a demure little colonial miss, but watch her [or you watch her, officer] take that corner on three wheels. Or look at her going over her plane before she sets off alone for Timbuctoo. She is pure 1932 stuff inside her fancy dress costume. That's what makes the darling interesting—and keeps her so.

And speaking of "interesting" and its relation to beauty, we have surely arrived at a period in beauty history when beauty has to be interesting and interesting looking. To be just pretty and nothing more is to be a washout, that's all. The way interesting looking women are being nominated to high office these days is nothing short of impressive.

I'm thinking right now of one young woman acclaimed a beauty in circles she moves in. Judging on physical points alone, you could set this person down behind a counter, plant her in a subway car, and she would be surpassed by dozens of girls around her. But she is INTERESTING. She is interesting because she has made herself the finished product she is today.

She is interesting chiefly because she is interested in everything that is happening in the world today. Not profoundly interested, I'll admit. Nevertheless, interested. She is interested in people, and this is reflected in her character and in her actions. She is vitally interested in clothes and every new trick of beauty. She not only is interested—but looks it.

And that's the thing that gives her face—yeah, and her lithe young body—that vital spark which just pretty creatures lack.

Art Treasures of Czars to Be Put on Exhibit Tomorrow

A collection of objets d'art, rare porcelains, tapestries and gold and silver plate which belonged to the Russian czar, valued at $500,000, will go on exhibition tomorrow at Marshall Field & Co. The exhibition will last a week.

The objects were collected in Russia in the years immediately following the revolution by Dr. Armand Hammer and his brother, Victor J. Hammer. Only recently they obtained permission from soviet authorities to take their treasures out of the country.

One of the objects is a gold and enamel Easter egg, presented by Czar Nicholas II. in 1895 to his mother, the dowager Czarina Marie Feodorovna. It was six years in the making, is set with diamonds, emeralds and a large star sapphire, and in a pocket within it are ten miniatures, painted on mother of pearl by the famous Russian miniaturist, Krijitski, depicting the homes and palaces of the czar's mother in Denmark, her native land.

Chinese Pupils Present Concert at Exposition

Those attending the International Children's exhibit at the Michigan Square building, 540 Michigan avenue, yesterday afternoon were diverted by the performance of a group of Chinese kindergarten pupils, producing American and Chinese music on instruments of their own making. The group was from the Haines school. Another orchestra of twenty-five children was made up from among north shore schools. These pupils also had constructed their own instruments. David Dushkin directed. Miss Olga Hunke of the Hines school trained the kindergartners.

The Charming Cheat

By Clara Sharpe Hough

SYNOPSIS.

Ricardo Dane visits New York in search of his aunt, Miss Filomena Stanley, his mother's half sister. Ricardo's mother had recently died and left him heir to the ranch and mountain land in Romeu valley, California, where he had spent most of his life. He intended to find his sole remaining near relative and bring her back to Romeu valley. He had understood this to be his mother's dying wish. His aunt, an actress, had been out of favor with the family.

Ricardo locates a Filomena Stanley, but instead of an aged aunt he finds a beautiful young aunt. She is living in a Bohemian studio with a Follies girl named Frances. Ricardo readily believes this lovely creature, who acknowledges the relationship. His arrival was fortunate for Filomena, who had been out of work for weeks and was in a sad state financially. Ricardo showers her with gifts and moves her into a better apartment. He moves into the same building on another floor. Webster Sutton, a college friend of Ricardo's, visits New York. He and Eunice Greenway, a girl from home, who is studying in New York, are entertained by Ricardo and his aunt. Eunice is a friend of Ricardo's fiancée, Rachel Beatty. She heartily disapproves of Filomena. Web believes his friend is being trimmed, and before he leaves tells him so. Ricardo learns that Web was right when Filomena is called home due to the illness of her father. After another search Ricardo finds his real aunt. She is acting in a Broadway play. Ricardo takes Filomena to the city hall, where they obtain a marriage license. His plan is to have her prepare for the wedding and leave her waiting at the church, but before he can carry it out Rachel arrives in New York with her father, who has been called there on business.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

VEILED SUSPICION.

Seeing Rachel in the actual flesh was like suddenly breathing the air of Romeu Valley: Rachel, slim and tall and very smart in a brown hat and a trim belted brown suit, her eyes wide with delight at the double adventure of seeing New York and of being with him again. It was great to see her face light up at sight of him, it was gratifying to have her offer him an unabashed embrace in the middle of the Grand Central, with her father and two attendant porters as audience.

He went to the hotel with them, and waited downstairs the brief time that it took them to be ready for an early dinner. Rachel assured him she had wasted no time in unpacking. That could wait until later. She wanted her first glimpse of New York while it was still new. She had already quite definite ideas about the things she wanted to see and do in New York.

"If you hadn't been here, Dick," said Mr. Beatty, "Ray wouldn't have had this trip. She'd have had to wait for you to give it to her. But I thought as long as you're here to trot her around, I won't worry about leaving her alone. And you two won't want me along anyway."

"Of course we want you, Daddy," said Rachel, glancing at Ricardo and flushing a little. "Of course we want you. Whenever you can come, of course. But you'll be busy daytimes——"

"That's the idea exactly. You picked a good show for us this evening, Dick?"

He had picked a satisfactory show, and sat between Rachel and her father all evening. Rachel's hand slipped quite naturally into his when the lights were lowered. One would almost think that time had been translated and they were back at the movies in Palo Alto. All the glamour of having Rachel near him in those days hovered nearby, almost but not quite descending over him again.

They went to a supper room after the theater, reserving the excitement of a real night club until Rachel had her evening frock out.

"You'll want a new one, I expect," said her father, in a burst of generosity, "pick a good one, Ray, and call it a Christmas present. Too bad Dick doesn't know enough about the shops to help you out."

Ricardo felt himself reddening. He knew entirely too much about the shops, after superintending the refurnishment of Filomena's wardrobe.

"I can give you an idea, maybe," he offered diffidently. "Anyway, we can look along the Avenue in the windows, Ray, tomorrow."

"O, I can manage," said Rachel.

"We'll be here a week, you know," offered Mr. Beatty now. "Thought you might like to know just how long you'll have, and you can make your own plans then."

"I think I'd like a black dress," said Rachel, "chiffon, or maybe black lace."

Ricardo looked at her in horror.

"Don't you like black?" she inquired in concern. "Really, Dick, they do make all the smart evening dresses of black this year. It isn't at all like mourning, for they put something shiny on them, mostly, rhinestones or sequins or something."

"Well, I might get rose color," she conceded, aware that he was not pleased.

"I'd like that a lot better," he said fervently.

"I never supposed you knew that much about girls' clothes," said Rachel.

Since they had been up so late it was agreed that Rachel must sleep late next morning. Ricardo promised to call for her at luncheon.

Could he have foreseen that Rachel would waken at seven so briskly wide awake she could not possibly stay in bed, he would have stayed beside his telephone so that he could be summoned at her pleasure.

Not being gifted with foresight, he arose early and went riding alone. He could not see Filomena. She would be practising all the morning anyway. But if she were not, he was not going to see her. Perhaps he would never see her again. At any rate, he certainly was not going to see her this morning. He was going to take Rachel to lunch at some very expensive hotel, and he would later taken her walking past the shop windows on the Avenue, where she could exclaim to her heart's content over the display of gowns and furs and hats. In view of this program, he could not possibly see Filomena.

Cantering around the park in melancholy reflection, he had no idea that Rachel, after ringing his telephone futilely, finally looked up Eunice Greenway's address and succeeded in reaching that young woman on the telephone without delay. Rachel could not be expected to go out alone in New York, and anyway, her father had expressly told her not to. But Eunice obligingly came to the hotel, and they had two thrilling hours in the Avenue shops. Then Eunice took the bus to get to her music lesson, and Rachel went back to the hotel to wait for Ricardo.

He arrived promptly at 12:30, and commented that the extra sleep had done Rachel lots of good. She had better color than usual and her eyes were brighter than last night.

She seemed to have little preference about lunch, so he selected a suitably palatial dining room and ordered a suitably extravagant meal.

"You haven't told me a thing about your aunt, Dick," said Rachel, when the crabmeat cocktail had arrived.

"There's not much more than I've written you," he replied. "You know, I told you she—well, I found her all right, and she—well, she doesn't care about coming west. So she—well, she's going to stay on here."

"She'll stay on where she was living when you found her, I suppose," said Rachel thoughtfully.

"I suppose so. You know, she's an actress, and she has her own ideas." What had he told her about where his aunt lived? Had he said that she had a new apartment, or anything like that? He could not remember for the life of him.

"She's not so old as you thought she'd be, is she?"

"O, did I tell you that?" He bent his attention to salvaging the last morsels of crabmeat. What the devil was the girl getting at?

The waiter removed the plates and placed broiled squab before them. Ricardo asked her if she remembered the pigeon pies they used to have at Nick's Place. Her mind reverted to San Francisco with great difficulty. And almost immediately she said, "You must take me to see your aunt, Dick. I wouldn't feel as if it was right for me not to go see her, when I'm here."

Inwardly thanking God for the real Aunt Filomena, he agreed that they would call later in the afternoon, and the subject was dismissed.

The chances were that his face looked terribly guilty, he thought, when she had first mentioned Aunt Filomena. But if she had thought he was acting queerly then, she would forget it when the impeccable and valid aunt appeared before her eyes. Besides, why should she be suspicious that everything was not just exactly what it ought to be? Unless Web—— He had a momentary qualm as he reflected that Web might by some chance have seen Rachel and said something to her. But he dismissed this idea. Web couldn't have. And besides, Web wouldn't, anyway. Nothing but his own guilty conscience, he decided, made him feel for a moment that anything could have been in Rachel's unsuspicious and generous heart.

At about four-thirty they climbed the steps to the old fashioned brownstone house where Aunt Filomena lived.

Is this where your aunt lives?" asked Rachel.

"Of course it is." He pressed the bell. "Why not?"

"It doesn't look like an apartment house," said Rachel. "I just wondered——" Her wondering became inaudible as she followed him through the almost dark hall to the room where Aunt Filomena had received him before.

"Dear boy," said Aunt Filomena, strolling in and giving him her hand, "you're too good, coming to see me again so soon. And how awfully sweet of you to bring——" She offered her hand to Rachel with an air of gracious friendliness that would have disarmed any veiled suspicion, even if Rachel conceivably could have harbored such an unworthy thing.

"Rachel Beatty," he explained, "from Romeu Valley."

"No!" cried Aunt Filomena in apparent awe. "Well, isn't that simply marvelous! When did you get here?"

"Only yesterday," replied Rachel. "My father was coming on a business trip, so I——"

"You came with him, of course," finished Aunt Filomena. "Well, you two youngsters might as well come up to my sitting room. We can be more comfortable and private there. I'll make some tea."

Practice Paper Offered.

"We have about two thousand sheets of bond paper which are order blanks on one side and plain on the other. They could be used by some student taking a course in typewriting for practice sheets. If you know of any one who could make use of this lot of paper let us know. J. B."

The expense of typewriting paper is quite an item for the student in business college, and more than one will welcome this opportunity to secure a quantity of practice sheets. Write me if you can make use of them; please do not telephone.

New Consul Is Welcomed at Musicale

Weillers Are Guests at Bright Party.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THOSE persons who consider Chicago society a bit lax in the matter of courtesy toward foreign representatives should be glad that the Charles S. Deweys are once more settled in our midst. The Deweys' years of residence in Washington and Warsaw, their friendship with many prominent Europeans, and their own gift of charming hospitality all contribute to the cosmopolitan touch which distinguishes any entertainment they give or help to sponsor.

The musical and tea that the Alliance Francaise gave yesterday in the Fine Arts building to welcome the new French consul, Jean Jacques Weiller, and Mrs. Weiller to Chicago, was typical of the affairs that Mrs. Dewey manages with grace and ease. As vice president of the alliance, Mrs. Dewey headed the reception committee. With Mrs. Ralph Winston as her principal assistant she found time during the half hour or so when guests were arriving, to greet every one, to do a lot of introducing, and to converse rapidly in French, Polish, German, and English.

Grace Nelson Plays French Compositions.

French, by the way, was so generally spoken before and after the musical as to make the English Speaking union jealous. All of the foreign representatives speak English, of course, but many of them are far more familiar with the French and German tongues.

Miss Grace Nelson, the pianist who played with the Chicago Symphony two years ago, and who, we believe, is a winner of the Stock award, gave a program of Debussy and other French composers which seemed much to the audience's liking. Afterwards tea was served at a round table decorated with spring flowers.

M. Weiller and his wife, who was attractively gowned in black crêpe with a shoulder corsage of orchids, were surrounded before the program by a constantly changing group of guests introduced by Edward H. Bennett.

Among the foreign representatives present were Dr. Hugo Simon, the German consul general, and Mrs. Simon; Godfrey Haggard, the British consul general, and Mrs. Haggard; Guiseppe Castruccio, Italian consul general; M. Bougearel, French vice consul; M. Binovski, newly appointed to the Polish consulate; Dr. George Kolombatovich, consul general for Jugo-Slavia; Ante Parvelidi, Jugo-Slavian vice consul, who received a cable yesterday informing him that his father, for whom he is named, has been made president of his country's senate, and C. H. Dimitriu, Rumanian consul.

Mr. and Mrs. Haggard gave a luncheon for M. and Mme. Weiller yesterday before the musical.

Serious Events on Society Program.

Although society no longer dons sackcloth and ashes for the six weeks between Ash Wednesday and Easter, it does, nevertheless, find time to attend affairs of an appropriately serious nature. Today's calendar is marked by several meetings of the sort which are anything but frivolous.

The Arts club will make use of all its little gold chairs this morning for the members who'll want to hear Dr. Phyllis Ackerman's illustrated lecture on "The Riddle of the Gothic Tapestry Designers." Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed will give a luncheon for Dr. Ackerman following the lecture.

Mrs. Edward T. Jeffery will open her residence this morning at a quarter of eleven for a talk by Julie R. Adams on "The Disarmament Conference." Mrs. Hill Blackett, at whose residence Miss Adams has been giving her Winnetka series this winter, has gone abroad, so tomorrow morning's talk will be at the residence of Mrs. Hobard P. Young. The subject will be "Our New Congress."

Nursing Education Luncheon Today.

Mrs. Paul Walker, Mrs. Stanley Zaring, Mrs. John Dern, Mrs. Orville Taylor, Mrs. Charles H. Conrad, Mrs. Leslie B. Olmsted, Mrs. Nathaniel Owings, and Miss Katrina Mauff will act as hostesses at a luncheon to be given today by the central council for nursing education in connection with the third annual institute for lay boards of hospitals and public health nursing organizations. The luncheon is to be at 12:30 o'clock in the grand ballroom of the Palmer house.

The lecture that is to be given by Thomas Craven after the Drama league's breakfast at noon today in the ballroom of the Blackstone is free to members who do not care to attend the breakfast and just want to hear Mr. Craven's talk on "Art in the Theater." Mrs. Clarence Hough, acting president, will preside, and among those who will have guests are Mrs. Edward C. Kohlsaat, Mrs. John M. Zane, and Mrs. Frank Loesch.

The Winnetka branch of the Infant Welfare society will meet this morning at 11 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Willoughby Walling, 1094 Crescent lane.

Margery Maxwell Program Tomorrow.

Mrs. Charles H. Swift sends word that Margery Maxwell, accompanied by Miss Violet Martens, will give the program at the annual meeting of the Friends of Opera tomorrow afternoon at the Casino. Mrs. Arthur Meeker will preside at the business session, which will include the election of officers and members of the executive committee. Tea will be served after the program.

The Highland Park board of the Northwestern university settlement has sent out invitations to a supper and bridge party to be held on Saturday evening at the residence of Mrs. Louis Leverone. The hostess will be assisted by a group of board members, including Mrs. Walter Rutledge, Mrs. Charles French, Mrs. Robert Walker, and Mrs. Edward Roach.

Miss Paula Uihlein has returned from her father's ranch in Wyoming for the wedding today in Milwaukee of her cousin, Miss Beatrice Trostel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert O. Trostel, to Frederick E. Welcker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Welcker of New York. The bride's sister, Mrs. John K. Notz of Chicago, will be matron of honor and Miss Uihlein will be one of the bridesmaids.

Winter Activities and Travel Notes.

The Hubbard Carpenters, who are at the Ambassador this winter, have kept open the garage of their Lake Geneva residence and they go up very often for week-ends in the country. They have their iceboat all ready for use, but so far the lake hasn't had enough ice to make anything like ice boating possible, but they haven't given up hope yet. The Carpenters do not plan to go to California this winter nor do they expect a visit from their daughter, Mrs. Armistead B. Carter, who lives in San Diego.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ward Amberg of 1311 North State street left yesterday for a visit of several weeks with Mrs. Amberg's sister, Mrs. Thomas C. Dennehy, and Mr. Dennehy in Pasadena.

Mr. and Mrs. John V. Farwell have decided not to take their usual trip to California this winter, but they do hope to get away for a brief vacation in March.

Mr. and Mrs. John C. Pitcher, who have been visiting Mrs. Pitcher's mother, Mrs. William F. Burrows, at her Arizona-Biltmore cottage in Phoenix since before the holidays, are back at their apartment at 220 East Walton place.

Mr. and Mrs. Oren E. Taft left on Thursday night for Tucson, Ariz., where they hope Mr. Taft will recover speedily from his recent illness.

Although Mrs. Martin A. Ryerson has quite recovered from her illness of last fall, she and Mr. Ryerson are not making any definite plans about a winter holiday. They have been at their Drexel avenue residence since they came in from their Lake Geneva estate in the late fall.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Lehmann of 3662 Sheridan road are planning their customary mid-March sojourn at Gulf Hills, Miss. The junior Lehmanns, who have an apartment at 3000 Sheridan road, are not planning a trip this winter on account of the two months old baby who is engrossing their attention just now.

The Charles A. Munroes of 1234 Lake Shore drive are expected to return from abroad the last of next month.

Puffs on Gowns Held Smart for Slender Figures

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS. — [Special.] — The evening frock illustrated is one as Parisian as anything that the great dressmakers of France have made this season. It's the puffs of white velvet ribbon set all around the hipline that make this dress so smart and so very French. They emphasize and advertise a beautiful slender figure, and those elegantes in Paris who dare are wearing frocks with such puffs.

However, they're not for every woman. Little fat girls and big ones, too, please abstain. It would break the heart of Lucien Lelong, who designed this dress, to see it on any one with a hipline more generous than thirty-six inches. More than that, it would be a crime against herself for any lady of ample girth to appear in it.

The dress without the puffs is for general consumption, for it is a simple stream line frock of white marocain that flatters the figure, and its slight, pointed train adds height and grace. The tricky back décolletage is a sign of chic. Most evening dresses have something like this. The front of the bodice mounts right up to the base of the throat in the smartest manner.

The skirt of this model is made ample by circular pieces set on in a curve at each side below the hipline, but there is no flare. The puffs of white at the hipline make all the flare that any frock in good taste can support.

Garner Sings to Full House; Given Praise

Negro Tenor Back from Concerts Abroad.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

For the first time since the opera company went away, the Civic Opera house was filled to the doors yesterday afternoon when George Garner, Negro tenor, gave a song recital under the auspices of the South Side Civic groups of the Federated Women's clubs. It was his first appearance in the downtown district since his return from Europe, where he had been making a series of important engagements. He was a good artist when he went away; he is a better one now. His voice is of fine, smooth quality and generally under good control. His program was made up of old Italian, classical lieder, modern songs, and at the end a group of spirituals. He was assisted by Netta Paullyn Garner, pianist, who played a group of Spanish works brilliantly and well.

The joint recital of Leo Podolsky, pianist, and Herman Felber, violinist, at the Playhouse was interesting both in matter and manner. Mr. Podolsky is a remarkably able technician who uses technic as a means of forceful expression rather than for its own sake, consequently the Brahms numbers in which he was heard were enlivening and vital. Mr. Felber played a Caprice by Guiraud, unremembered in past violin programs, of pleasant melody and brilliant development, and, like the music of his co-artist, was played with great ability and charm.

Transferred at short notice from the Civic theater, Hilda Edwards, pianist, gave a recital at Kimball hall. She is a remarkably fluent player, with excellently developed hands and an entirely agreeable manner of expression. Her program contained two Brahms Rhapsodies, the Beethoven Sonata in F minor, a group by Arne Oldberg, Rachmaninoff, and Chopin, and Schumann's Etudes Symphoniques.

Among others of the many music events yesterday were a concert by Ruth Breytspraak, Martha A. Westbrook, Barbara Sieben, John Rankel, and Arthur C. Becker at the De Paul university school of music; a costume song recital by Ida Mae Cameron, soprano, at Medinah Athletic club; a program by Elsa Chandler, Lulu Butler, Emma Freericks, and the Misses Dangremond at Diana Court salon in the afternoon, and in the evening a program of chamber music by the Joseffer String quartet at the Cordon club, and "An Evening of Jewish Music," by Jacob H. Sonenklar at Kimball hall.

Irons will be chairman, will comprise a symposium on public health nursing, and the afternoon program a symposium on supply and demand in nursing, with Miss Dora C. Saunby presiding. Official Contract

By Charles True Adams

(International bridge authority; author of "Official Contract at Sight.")

Most people would prefer a palace to a cottage. Yet almost all of those people would choose a nice, strong, well heated, tight roofed small cottage to a palace in the last stages of decay and without modern conveniences. All of this means that while majors are generally to be preferred to minors, a minor, when long enough and strong enough, and obviously far better than any major holding between the two hands, is certainly to be preferred to either a major suit or to no-trumps. Unquestionably with equal holdings a major is a shade better than a no-trump, and a no-trump is a shade better than a minor. But there are only shades of difference.

Yesterday's play-a-problem was a minor triumph. Here is the hand:

NORTH
♠—J,10,4,3
♥—K,Q,6,4,2
♦—None
♣—K,9,8,6

WEST (Dealer)	EAST
♠—A,Q,9	♠—K,8,7,5,3
♥—9,5	♥—J,10,8,3
♦—A,K,9,8,6,5,2	♦—J,10,7,3

SOUTH
♣—A,Q,J,10,7,5,3,2

West dealt and bid a diamond. North bid a heart. East made at least a semi-psychic spade bid and South bid three clubs. I should have preferred a four club bid on the part of South, since South's hand partakes far more of the preëmptive type than of the jump-shift. I should prefer in the South position to show my partner that my hand was very strong for clubs, and practically worthless for any other declaration. The original player, however, bid three clubs on this hand.

West now bid three spades and North bid four diamonds. While an overcall of the opponent's suit in the same suit is ordinarily a game demand bid, showing the ability to take the first trick in that suit, North, having opened with only one, rather conclusively showed to his partner that he did not hold as much as 3½ high card tricks and therefore is at perfect liberty at this point to show his partner that he cannot only support the clubs, but that he can take the first trick in opponent's diamond suit. East, still bidding on hopes rather than holdings, went to four spades and South five clubs. West overcalled again—with five diamonds. North and East passed.

South has now a perfect picture of the situation. South cannot help but believe that West has the top diamonds when he was willing to overcall with as strong a bid as five. He therefore figured that North's overcall in diamonds showed no diamonds in the hand. This, since North is unlikely to have top spades, almost definitely places North with the ♣ K, as well as the ♥ K, Q. With this information South is perfectly willing to go to six clubs, which not only overcalls West, but brings in the small slam bid.

There is nothing of interest in the play. If the ♦ K is originally opened thirteen tricks will be made by North and South. If, on the other hand, West opens the spade, North and South will only make twelve tricks, but these can be made without difficulty.

NORTH
♥—A,Q,9,3
♦—4,3,2
♣—A,9

WEST (Dealer)	EAST
♠—K,3	♠—4
♥—J,6,5	♥—10,8,7,4
♦—K,9,5	♦—J,10,7,6

SOUTH
♠—J,10,8,7,6,5
♥—K,2
♦—A,Q,8
♣—8,2

Bid and play the hand and then compare your result with the one printed.

Nearly three weeks ago we discussed timbales and timbale irons. Today we are going to discuss another type of timbale which is decidedly different from those made and dipped into hot fat. In fact, this timbale really belongs in the custard family, except that it is not sweet, nor flavored as custards are. These timbales make a nice course for a luncheon or dinner whether it's the family or guests you are serving. They are not hard to make, and there's a novel list of vegetable, fish, meat and poultry timbales from which to choose. I have a number of other timbale recipes that you may have for the asking.

Spinach timbales were given on Saturday as a suggestion for tonight's dinner, so we will begin with them. B. the way, always bake your timbales, as you do your custards, in a pan of boiling water, though the heat of the oven should be such that the water does not boil during the baking. A moderately slow oven of 325 degrees Fahrenheit is generally the heat for timbales. It ranges from that to 350 degrees Fahrenheit.

SPINACH TIMBALES.
2 eggs.
4 tablespoons of milk.
2 tablespoons of melted butter.
½ teaspoon of salt.

Chop the spinach and add the slightly beaten eggs, milk, butter, salt, and pepper. Mix thoroughly. Bake in a well buttered mold, set in a pan of water in a moderate oven [350 degrees Fahrenheit] until the centers are firm. This will take about twenty minutes. Serve with a white or cheese sauce.

TIMBALES OF LIVER.
1 cup of bread crumbs.
1 cup of stock or milk.
2 tablespoons of butter.
2 eggs.
Salt, pepper, onion juice and parsley.

Chop the liver fine; soften the bread crumbs in the milk or stock. Mix the two together and add the butter, salt, pepper, a little onion juice and some chopped parsley. The amount of seasonings is a matter of individual taste. Add the beaten eggs last. Fill well buttered timbale molds [you may use muffin tins], set in a pan of water and bake in a moderate oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit] for about twenty-five minutes. Turn out on a hot platter and serve with a brown mushroom sauce.

EGG TIMBALES.
1 cup of milk.
Pinch of white pepper.
1 teaspoon of chopped parsley.
⅛ teaspoon of salt.
Cream sauce.

Beat the whole eggs until they are lemon colored, and then add the rest of the ingredients. Butter the timbale molds and fill with the mixture. Place the molds in a pan of hot water and bake in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit] for about fifteen minutes. Serve immediately with a cream sauce.

SWEETBREAD TIMBALES.
1 pound of mushrooms.
Mushroom sauce.

Boil and chop the sweetbreads. Peel and cup up the mushrooms. Soak the bread and mash through a sieve. Mix the sweetbreads, mushrooms, bread, onion, salt, pepper, butter, and the yolks of the eggs. Then add the stiffly beaten whites. Pack the timbale molds [greased] firmly about half full and place them in a pan of hot water. Cover the pan and bake thirty to forty minutes in a moderately slow oven [325 degrees Fahrenheit]. Serve with a hot mushroom sauce.

This is a large timbale recipe and especially good for a party luncheon. It will serve ten people generously.

Kreutzberg Still Magnificent, but Georgi Is Missed

BY HAZEL MOORE.

Kreutzberg is still magnificently Kreutzberg, though one missed yesterday afternoon at Orchestra hall, in the program of Harald Kreutzberg and his Dancing Group, both the more familiar trademark of Kreutzberg and Georgi, and the brainy and lissome Georgi herself, the earlier partner of his American fame. One missed, too, some of the lovely duos which linger in the mind as those two danced them.

In compensation, yesterday's program exhibited more of the personal work of Kreutzberg. If he had done nothing else yesterday than his superb study of "Gloria in Excelsis Deo," to music by Bach, his program would have been justified. In addition he repeated his fine "Angel of Annunciation," to Wilckens' music, and added a new "Rag-Mazurka" by Poulenc, which was repeated, and indulged his predilection for the bizarre in "The Hangman's Dance" [on the grave of his victim], also to Wilckens' music, at which the encore bargain hunters were vociferous.

Of the dances done with the group, the "Lamentation of Orpheus," to music by Roger-Ducasse, was particularly lovely, offering a good opportunity to judge somewhat the general trend of the Kreutzberg-Wigman ideas of group arrangement. Aside from this, the "Habanera at Midnight," with music by Debussy, was the most interesting, being a rather macabre masked version of the erstwhile gay dance of Spain.

The last number, called "The Envious Girls," was arranged to music by Wilckens as a dance comedy in the Breughel style, cleverly mimed to the mood of the old Dutch painter. It proved that Kreutzberg's new plan is obviously an effort to popularize his program. It had, however, somewhat the effect of reducing his former high plane of art to the more common form of dance entertainment. His group of four girls is admirable, but not unusual. The original combination was hard to match. Kreutzberg himself is still incomparably the best male dancer of today. Had he chosen to confine himself to the classic ballet, with the superb elevation, lightness, and fluid muscular control, he must surely have ranked with a Nijinsky.

One change on his present program was immensely for the better. Under the musical direction of the composer-pianist, Frederick Wilckens, the music took on an importance too rarely found in a dance program.

Inter-Racial Group Is Urged at Good Will Massmeeting

Resolutions were unanimously passed last night at an inter-racial good will massmeeting at the New England Congregational church asking for the creation in Chicago of a nonsectarian inter-racial commission. The massmeeting was sponsored by the race relations committee of the Chicago Church federation. The principal resolutions were presented by Rabbi George J. Fox, spiritual leader of the South Shore temple.

The resolution calls the attention of the religious press of the nation to "serious violation of church principles by the antagonistic actions of these so-called Christian groups actuated by prejudices that have no place at this time." Rabbi Fox spoke of

Goes with One, Loves Another; Doris Explains

BY DORIS BLAKE.

Can a man be in love with one girl and escort another around at the same time? It was answered in this column awhile ago that a man could be in love with a girl and be seen in another's company, too.

"John" writes to inform us we are all wrong and that a man could not possibly be in love on that double crossing program. Furthermore, "John" insists that any man who has been in love will disagree with our verdict.

"When a man is in love with a girl," he argues, "he is with her every chance he has. No other girl can possibly interest him. . . If a fellow goes out with two girls it means he is merely interested in both of them but is not in love with either."

Lucky the girl who draws our John!

But all men are not like that. Circumstances, too, contribute to the seeming two-mindedness of love. That is, the man might be desperately in love with a girl, the girl indifferent to him and so he seeks the company of another either to tell his girl-trouble to or to forget the first one momentarily.

Ask any woman of the confidence-inviting sort if men cannot be in love with one girl while squiring another about. They'll tell you plenty to convince you. One of the little ironies of life is that a man can be in love and fail of his own efforts to impress the loved one with the fact. She may go on blissfully ignorant of the depth of the affection that is hers for the asking. Or, she may suspect but not be fully convinced.

Too, as John says, a man may be weighing two girls in the balance. He may have matrimony in mind. He isn't sure which one of the two would be the better mate-prospect. Perhaps that's not love in the ultra-romantic manner, but it's good for a long matrimonial run.

Again, a man may be madly in love with a girl yet know in his head that she is not the girl for him to marry. He may try to fight off this unwise association with the help of another girl's company.

Anson's Agent Denies Actor Plans to Quit

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

HOLLWOOD, Cal., Feb. 14.—Slim Summerville and his wife have adopted a three months old baby boy and have named him Elliott. Few know that years ago Slim and Mrs. Slim lost a little fellow of their own.

The business agent representing A. E. Anson, veteran stage actor who nearly stole the show in "Arrowsmith" from Ronald Colman and Richard Bennett, telephoned all the way from San Francisco to deny that Anson is quitting the films as too arduous physically and returning to the stage. Anson was so played out on finishing "Arrowsmith" that he had to go to bed and he missed a fine rôle in "Silent Witness" offered him by Radio pictures.

Anson suffered several minor hemorrhages but has now almost recovered and will stay in films. Inquiry at his home brings the information that the veteran actor has been ill for five months, and that yesterday was his first day up in the sunshine in months. It was, in fact, about the first day that any one was in the sunshine in Hollywood, for the sun came out only last Friday after hiding away through about five weeks of frost, rain, fogs and chilly haze.

W. S. Van Dyke, director who just completed "Tarzan," which is wowing pre-view audiences even more than "Trader Horn," his former effort, is at all times the soul of hospitality. During the rains he gave a party and as his house is T'Ellangone up in the hills, at the end of a dirty road, he obligingly hired a tow car to patrol the road and help out the guests who might need it.

Thirty-six beauties are in training for the hula choruses of "Bird of Paradise" over at RKO. The company with Del Rio is on location in the islands for authentic shots, but the studio brand of sex appeal in Hula dancers is being used instead of the real Hulas.

Vivienne Osborne has bought a home in the Hollywood Hills; and Ivan Lebedeff still escorts her places.

Harold Lloyd is getting busy on a picture for the first time in 17 months. It's that long since he finished "Feet First," and by the time his next one is shown to the public it will be two years since Lloyd's last comedy was shown, which puts him in Chaplin's class. The whole Lloyd force has been busy packing up for the last week, as Lloyd moves to his new space in United Artists studio this week. The new plant will be used for the typically Hollywood background needed for his new film, which unfolds the story of an unsophisticated small town boy trying to crash the movies. Constance Cummings is Lloyd's leading woman.

Gardeners Start Work on Hotbed Plants This Week

BY PAUL POTTER.

While many Cnicagoland vegetable gardeners took advantage of favorable weather last week to get out storm sash and prepare the soil for the cold frame or hotbed, this week is generally recognized as the acceptable time for getting a head start on spring planting.

During the week hundreds of gardeners will be banking up dirt around and in the framework on which glass windowsash can be fastened. Back against a building or high board fence where the north winds can be broken, they will construct the shelter for the first seedlings of tomatoes, cabbage, lettuce, eggplant, cauliflower, beets or onions.

As a rule, six weeks will give the seedlings ample growth for transplanting into the open garden. Beginners frequently fail to realize that ventilation must be provided in hotbeds, more so than in coldframes, for considerable heat is generated by the sun's rays on the heaviy fertilized soil bed.

Whenever the surface soil appears dry a fine sprinkling of water must be applied, preferably in the early morning or forenoon. A guide to the ventilation needed is supplied by the gathering of moisture on the under side of the glass. As drops of water form, ventilation should be given, if the weather permits, at once.

Although gardeners should use care to avoid chilling the plants while the bed is open during the day, more frequent injury is done overheating. The overheating causes wilting of the plants. The plants should be thinned out, as crowding causes long weak plants. Weak plants also result if they are too far from the light.

Training Child Held Job for Both Parents

Co-operation Is Urged as Key to Success.

By GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS

"You bring up the children and I'll earn the living," has seemed to many fathers the logical division of the labor of rearing a family. I say "has seemed" because I'm afraid it's going to be a thing of the past.

You see, fathers have their part to play in rearing children. Also, they can't play it as a lone hand—mother using one method, father another. Parents have to get together to be successful with children. "Their father gives them everything they want and lets them do as they please, but I believe in a strict upbringing," one woman said. This is heading the family ship for stormy seas.

Fathers are being drawn into the great circle of study and discussion on child management that is going on all over the country. Some are going into it voluntarily. Others have been enticed in the first few times, and then have stayed. Why? Because they were fascinated by what they learned of childhood, its ways and its motives, and how to guide it.

That American fathers are taking the job seriously, that they are actually studying it as they would any trade or profession, is pointed out in a report of one of the committees of the White House conference on child health and protection.

This report describes "going on" that would amaze the average father who gives to the management of his children only a fraction of the thought he gives to his business. In tomorrow's article we'll run over a few of the proofs of how whole heartedly some men are trying to learn more about this important avocation of being a father—in more than name only.

BY CHARLES BARLETT.

The Chicago Shamrocks and St. Louis Fliers, the most rambunctious members of the American Hockey league, upheld the best traditions of their 1932 association before 6,000 customers at the Chicago Stadium last night with a presentation that included a 4 to 0 victory for the Shamrocks and at least one no decision bout.

The Shamrocks and the Fliers have been struggling for second place for some time and the Chicagoans' victory last night gave them a temporary lease on that position. They also have become distinguished as the most spirited rivals in the league aside from their hockey talents, but last night it looked as though they would disappoint the customers.

One Fight Develops.

The action was comparatively dull during the first two periods, and it did appear that the boys had made up. Ralph Rennie of the Fliers, and Pudge Mackenzie then undertook to sustain their respective teams' riotous renown. They exchanged hooks and jabs with two minutes of the game remaining, and even after their associates had disentangled them, they resumed the debate with greater fervor in the penalty box. Both were rewarded with major penalties. For a time it looked as though Bouncer Taylor and Bobby Kirk were going to conduct a battle of their own, but that, too, was frustrated by teammates.

Captain Gordie Brydson and Mike Karakas were the Shamrock heroes as far as hockey was concerned, Gordie scoring two goals, while Mike did noble in defending the green and white fort. Tony Prelesnik and Peewee Wiseman also distinguished themselves, each scoring a goal.

Referee Loses Way.

The start of the game was delayed ten minutes by the nonarrival of Dr. O'Leary, a referee, and the customers witnessed the strange phenomenon of two Shamrock players sharing the doctor's job. The athletes drafted were Bobby Burns, the speedy wing who hasn't been clicking of late, and Paddy Byrne, Mike Karakas' understudy at goal. Bobby appeared a bit self-conscious in this new role, but Byrne carried on with a skill that was almost professional. Meanwhile bulletins were issued every minute on the progress of Dr. O'Leary. It was finally announced that he might find the Stadium in time to appear for the second period.

The Shamrocks made up for the delay by scoring a goal in the first minute and 43 seconds of the game. Brydson, who was in the Chicagoans' opening forward line with McFadyen and Clayton, was its author. He coasted up to within ten feet of Goalie Rheaume after taking a pass from McFadyen and deposited the puck in the basket with no difficulty.

Dr. O'Leary was still snowbound or something at the start of the second period, but Russ Lavelle, another league official, had gained timely admittance and answered a summons over the loud speaker to do a little skating.

Shamrocks Score Again.

The action for the second twenty minutes was more spirited than the first and included, among other features, the Shamrocks' second goal. There was a measure of justice in this, for it was achieved while Burr Williams, the Fliers' defense star, was languishing in the penalty box. He had been sentenced there for

Cubs Unveil a Musician On Way West

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 14.—All the boys were eating especially well after a hard winter and telling the usual number of spring lies as the Cubs' advance squad rolled along today in the direction of their Catalina island training reservation.

LON WARNEKE.

As per schedule, today there were five additions to the original rookie party which steamed from the North Western terminal in Chicago last night. Secretary Bob Lewis was up early this morning and succeeded in digging Pitchers Lon Warneke, Johnny Welch, Abe Miller, and Ed Baecht out of the snow at Omaha. Shortly afterward Lyle Tinning, another thrower of consequence, was knocked loose from the icicles at Fremont, Neb., and dragged aboard. That made 14 athletes as subjects for Manager Rogers Hornsby's informal, intimate talks about the purpose of the journey. The troupe will remain at that size until it reaches Los Angeles Tuesday morning.

Warneke, who when he goes out into the world, gets astride the family mule and rides down to the depot at Hot Springs, Ark., came aboard with a glowing account of himself as a cattle magnate. He has been buying up feeders until he now has 203 of them parked on his dad's 200 acre farm, where feed is plentiful. The lad had the rookies awed by his story of big business until one of them inadvertently asked whether he had made any money.

"That's the only hitch in the thing," explained Warneke. "I haven't been able to sell any, but I can feed 'em for a year on $35 and at that rate I can keep 'em for pets."

Having unfolded his story about his business affairs, Warneke turned to his hobby. It is sleeping; he's the only athlete ever known to be able to suspend his body between two car seats, much like a bridge, and slumber peacefully. He confidently expects to remain awake long enough this summer to win about a half dozen games, which would be pretty good for a man of his few years.

Part of the personal baggage being carried westward is one of those elaborate accordions from which its owner, Fred Bergmann, a catcher, is able to extract entrancing tunes. Bergmann, a Northwestern university engineering student, is to be delivered to the Los Angeles club. He plays five instruments, but will reach his destination safely unless his traveling companions catch him at work on a saxophone. The last time the Cubs had such a thing in their midst they finished in last place.

Tinning, purchased from Des Moines, where he won 24 while losing only two games last season, has kept himself primed by playing basketball all winter, so it shouldn't take him long to prove whether he is as good as his record indicates. Practically all the others also show the result of attention to their waist line during the loafing season.

Johnny Welch, who has been under Cub influence for three years now, is the only one actually boasting a slight accumulation of flesh, but that was intentional. He hopes he can keep it.

POLISH OLYMPIC HOCKEY SQUAD ARRIVES TODAY

Chicago's Polish-American citizens will send a committee to the La Salle Street station today to welcome Poland's Olympic hockey team.

The team, which plays Marquette university at the Stadium tomorrow night, is the first group of athletes to come to this city from Poland. Its appearance is in connection with a nationalistic celebration by Chicago's 500,000 residents of Polish descent.

FALCONS DEFEAT BLACKHAWKS IN LAST PERIOD, 3-1

Score Two Goals to Break 1-1 Deadlock.

Detroit, Mich., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Detroit's Falcons defeated the Chicago Blackhawks, 3 to 1, tonight in a ragged National league match in which fist fights and excessive body checking precluded better hockey.

Holding a one goal lead for more than a period, the Hawks lost the game when the Falcons came to life late in the second period, tied the count with a goal, and then went on to score twice in the final period.

Vic Ripley, Hawk forward, and Danny Cox, Falcon center, came to blows in the closing minutes of the game, climaxing an evening's slashing, bumping, and fisticuffs that flared up in every period.

Ripley easily outclassed Cox in the encounter and refused to quit even when Referee Cooper Smeaton, assisted by six players, lifted him bodily into the penalty box. As he left the arena Ripley got into a fight with spectators and a police escort was necessary to get him into the locker room.

Hawks Take Lead.

Action started immediately when Herbie Lewis eluded the Hawk defense and got to Gardiner all alone.

After standing off Thompson and Couture on repeated assaults the Falcon defense sagged midway in the period, letting Couture through. He sent the puck to Ripley, and as the Falcon wingmen started down Ripley passed to Gottselig, who beat Connell for the first goal in 12:31.

A few minutes before the end of the period the Hawks piled up in front of the Falcon net, four Falcons and three Hawks settling on the ice. All came up swinging fists. Referee Cleghorn called a truce and sent Danny Cox and Tommy Cook to the penalty box.

Fans Throw Bottles.

Doug Young was penalized for crashing Boucher and play was held up several minutes while the rink was cleared of broken glass from a bottle tossed out of the gallery by a disapproving fan.

Late in the period the Falcons broke loose with a five man drive to get the goal that tied the score. Emms passed out from a scramble behind the net to Sorrell, who jabbed the puck past Gardiner in 17:02.

Fight Breaks Out Again.

The Hawks opened the third period offense and kept up a steady fire nearly half the period. Then Doug Young, Falcon defense man, picked up the puck in center, cracked the Hawks' defense line, and rode through to beat Gardiner in 9:10.

The Hawks tried several four-man rushes, Graham showing the best around the Detroit net, but Connell turned back all drives. With six minutes to go, Aurie got away and slipped a pass to Kilrea near the right boards. Kilrea feinted Gardiner out of position and scored the clinching counter with a slanting shot that eluded Gardiner.

FIGHTING DENTIST

Stewart, Maroon Forward, Breaks His Hand in Fight

TORONTO, Feb. 14.—(AP)—Nelson Stewart, captain and star forward of the Montreal Maroons, suffered a broken hand in the free-for-all fight that climaxed last night's National Hockey league battle between the Maroons and the Toronto Maple Leafs. He is expected to be out of the lineup for a month. During the mêlée, a skate came down on Stewart's right hand, breaking a bone near the base of the thumb and lacerating the flesh.

Sarazen's 290 Wins $5,000 Open Tourney

New Orleans, La., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Gene Sarazen stuck close to par on the final 36 holes of the Metairie Golf club's $5,000 open today, and claimed first money of $1,000 with a 72 hole total of 290.

Harry Cooper, Chicago, who finished second with 291, came to the final green needing a four to tie, but overshot his approach and failed to sink a chip from a back bunker by 18 inches. He collected $750.

Denny Shute, Cleveland, who played in the upper 70s yesterday and the day before, came back in today's morning round to climb up among the leaders with a 67, five under par, the best round of the tournament, which tied the course record. His afternoon's 74 gave him a 292 for third place and $600.

Walter Hagen, Detroit, also found a charmed putter to break through par in the final 18 with a 69 after three unspectacular rounds and finished with 297 along with Johnny Golden, Norton, Conn. They divided fourth and fifth money, drawing $450 each.

WALKER TO FACE LONDOS IN MAT, BOXING MATCH

Mickey Walker, contender for the heavyweight boxing championship, and Jim Londos, who claims the heavyweight wrestling title, will meet in a mixed match at St. Louis the latter part of April or early in May, Jack Kearns, Walker's manager, announced yesterday.

The match will be held under the rules and regulations of the athletic commission of Missouri, which is a member of the National Boxing association. Walker will use regulation eight ounce gloves and Londos will be barehanded, since he will do the wrestling and Mickey the fighting.

BOB RACERS BALK AT SLUSHY SLIDE AFTER 2 TRIALS

Hill Too Slow; Continue Meet Today.

Lake Placid, N. Y., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Seven teams of disgusted bobsled riders, led by Billy Fiske and Hank Homburger, battled a sluggish Olympic slide today, turned in embarrassingly slow times for two heats, and then openly rebelled at the idea of humiliating both themselves and the bob run further before a crowd of 25,000 in the final two heats of the deferred four man Olympic championships.

"If you insist on making us race under these conditions," Paul Stevens, giant pivotman on the world record holding Homburger sled, told Erwin Hachmann, one of the two Europeans in charge of the course, "you'll go on without us. We're through for today. It's a travesty on bob racing."

Big Crowd Agrees.

The major part of an immense crowd, lining the mile and a half chute down Mount Van Hoevenberg, thought so, too, as Billy Fiske, defending the Olympic championship for the United States, turned in ambling runs of 2 minutes 52-100 seconds and 1:59:16, to lead the sledders of five nations after the first two heats.

Homburger, pilot of the Lake Placid "Red Devils," favorites to win the last of the championships in the winter Olympics that closed officially yesterday, could push his sled down the usually lightning slope in only 2:01.77 and 2:01.09 to trail Fiske's crew by 3.18 seconds in total time.

Hans Kilian, German pilot, who has seen two sets of his countrymen rocket down the chute and crash through the awesome curves, sending six to the hospital, two still in plaster casts, led the five foreign teams with runs of 2:03.11 and 2:01.34, and put him 159 seconds behind Homburger in total time.

Slush Retards Sleds.

Hubert Stevens, winning the two man championship with his brother Curtis, twice came down on the final day in 1:59 and 1:57—and the bobsleds are considered between 15 and 20 seconds slower than the heavier, more powerful four man crews.

Originally the drivers had agreed to race all four heats of the championship today, but their wholesale protests when ordered to take the track for the start of their third heat forced the judges to postpone the third and final heats until tomorrow morning.

Ruts in Slide.

Water seeping through the ledges under the upper part of the slide left a 60 foot patch of slush above Eyrie, first big curve, and the snow on the straightaways forced all the drivers to keep in the rut made by the first sled. Down near the finish the snow was so deep that the Homburger sled, running 2 2-5 seconds faster than the best previous time through Zigzag, bogged down so badly that it not only lost the advantage but also dropped an additional second in the run to the finish line, quarter of a mile away.

The fastest heat of the day was turned in by Fiske in his second run down the dangerous course. He was caught in 1:59,16, more than seven seconds behind the world's record.

Team. Driver.	1st heat.	2d heat.	Total.
U. S., Billy Fiske	2:00.52	1:59.16	3:59.68
U. S., H. H'burger	2:01.77	2:01.09	4:02.86

Peterson, Ribas Resume Fancy Shot Meet Tonight

Charley Peterson of St. Louis, outstanding fancy shot billiard player, and Isidro Ribas of Spain, European champion, will meet tonight at Mussey's, 131 South Wabash avenue, in the opening game of the second match of their series for the world's fancy shot championship.

TALKING IT OVER.

BY ARCH WARD.

Another Golden Gloves tournament gets under way tonight at Ashland Boulevard auditorium. I have written that line before, but somehow or other it is always good. To me, at least, there always is a new thrill in THE TRIBUNE'S amateur boxing tournament.

DON GONZALES.

I like to think about the excitement the meet is certain to develop, and about the adventures and romance of the boys who are starting a three weeks grind that culminates at Chicago Stadium March 9 when Chicagoland's fighting heroes will be crowned.

Golden Gloves bouts always present new situations, new happenings, new evidence of the sportsmanship prevailing among the youth of the land. Remember the boy at the Coliseum last February who refused to take advantage of a cut over his opponent's eye? His name is Don Gonzales. He hit Joey Kleko everywhere between the belt and the head, but never touched the wound over Joey's eye.

And perhaps you recall how Walter Cappell of Milwaukee knocked out Marion Youngstafel of Vincennes and then cried because he had done so. They were boyhood chums but hadn't seen each other for years until they squared off for Golden Gloves.

Most of the drama is packed into the early rounds. The 23,000 fans who will sit in at the finals March 9 know little about the disappointments, the courage that has been displayed, the heartaches undergone by hundreds of young men who didn't have the good fortune to reach the championship flight.

There is no greater bargain in boxing than the Chicago qualifying rounds of the Golden Gloves tournament. Starting with the card on the west side tonight and tomorrow night and continuing through the north side trials at Loyola gymnasium Thursday and Friday and the south side preliminaries at White City next Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, there is an average of about 50 bouts a night. The price is 75 cents. Every penny above expenses will go to feed hungry school children.

There are no delays between bouts no matter how long the program lasts. THE TRIBUNE Officials association, made up of A. A. U. representatives, Illinois athletic commission judges and referees and two score other unselfish volunteers is a model of promotional efficiency.

Unnoticed behind the scenes is a staff of physicians who work for hours checking the physical fitness of every entrant. Nearby are clerks and handlers of various detail, some of whom never see a bout during the entire tournament.

Their coöperation, along with the interest of the boys and the support of the public has enabled THE TRIBUNE to develop a tournament that started out as a local championship into a national institution.

All right, Mr. Lipp, ring the bell. Those west side battlers are waiting for it. It at last will release them from nervousness and tension. It is a great moment for every one, particularly boys getting their first test in tournament competition. A last warning from the corner: "Don't forget to jab with the left and keep your eyes open to land with the right."

Later come the rewards, Golden Gloves, emblematic of the amateur boxing championship of Chicagoland. Victory also means a place on the Chicago team which goes to Madison Square garden to give New York's toughest their third straight whipping on March 28.

Football Rules Group Finishes 3 Day Session

Hanover, N. H., Feb. 14.—(AP)—The football rules committee ended three days of deliberation tonight and issued the report of its decisions for release tomorrow.

271 NAMED FOR FIRST CHICAGO DUELS TONIGHT

Boxers, Attention!

ALL boxers entered in the west side tournament must report between 4 and 6 o'clock this afternoon at the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium, Ashland boulevard and Van Buren street, for physical examinations and to be weighed.

Pairings will be made by lot in all eight weights at 6 o'clock; entrants forfeit their right to compete after that hour.

Ticket sale starts at 6 o'clock.

BY WILFRID SMITH.

The fight is on! Chicago's west side boys who seek Golden Gloves, emblematic of amateur boxing's highest honor, will start throwing punches tonight at 7 o'clock in the Ashland Boulevard auditorium.

The west side trials, tonight and tomorrow, inaugurate Chicago's three tournaments which will qualify 48 boys for the Tournament of Champions at the Chicago Stadium. The west side will contribute 16 boxers, two in each weight division, to the 48 who will defend Chicago's boxing honors against 21 championship teams from five states.

For these positions, 271 amateurs, a record number which eclipses last year's mark by 25 per cent, have entered. And if one-half of these boys report for their ring tests, there will be more than 40 bouts tonight.

First Come, First Served.

Tickets tonight are 75 cents. None is reserved. First arrivals may sit in the front rows or choose any of the 3,000 locations in the Ashland auditorium.

What a bargain in boxing! Of course, thousands want to see the Tournament of Champions. Eight thousand tickets already have been sold for the final night on March 9 and the remaining tickets go on sale this morning at the Tribune Public Service office, 1 South Dearborn street and at the two branch offices, 1101 East 63d street and 4152 West Madison street. But for a bargain in boxing, for complete entertainment, the sectional tournaments have no superior.

Bouts of Every Variety.

At the Ashland Boulevard auditorium tonight undoubtedly many of the bouts will be between lads of slight experience. But there are others, some of whom may be champions three weeks from now. Skill, courage, endurance are qualities which do not need a stadium setting. You'll find them tonight on the west side.

Tickets for tonight's show can be bought only at the Ashland Boulevard auditorium ticket office. They will go on sale at 6 o'clock, one hour before the first bout.

All contestants must report this afternoon between 4 and 6 o'clock for physical examinations and to weigh in. A corps of physicians, in charge of Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, will examine all boxers. Every precaution will be taken to safeguard the health of the boys and none will be permitted to enter the ring unless he is in top condition.

Many Precautions Taken.

Once in the ring, the boys also will be watched carefully by the referees. These men, ten in number, who have offered their services to Golden Gloves, will stop any bout in which a boy is outclassed. They also have been instructed to stop all contests when, in their opinion, one of the boys should not continue. Because of these adequate preparations THE TRIBUNE does not assume responsibility for any accidents in the ring.

Dr. Lewis K. Eastman, Dr. William Rothman, Dr. Harold Marsh, Dr. Clarence T. Plaut, Dr. R. M. McCulley, and Dr. K. G. Weller.

Berz Makes Drawings.

Harry Berz, member of the Central A. A. U. and National A. A. U. boxing committee, will be in charge of the weights and drawings. He has held this position since the inception of Golden Gloves five years ago and last week had similar authority in the first unlimited entry tournament ever held in Wisconsin.

The list of clerks who will run the tournament tonight follow:

Capable "Wrecking Crew."

These men will report between 4 o'clock and 6 o'clock. They form the "wrecking crew" of THE TRIBUNE Athletic association and their unstinted efforts contribute largely to the success of Golden Gloves, the annual swimming meet, ski meet, Silver

WILDCATS DEFEAT TIGHTENS BIG TEN BASKETBALLRACE

WEEK'S SCHEDULE.

TONIGHT.

Minnesota at Illinois.
Wisconsin at Indiana.
Iowa at Michigan.

SATURDAY.

Northwestern at Purdue.
Michigan at Illinois.
Ohio State at Chicago.
Wisconsin at Minnesota.
Indiana at Iowa.

The Big Ten basketball race now shows renewed complications, with a very good chance that no team will have a clear claim to the championship when hostilities have been concluded on March 7. Right now, of course, Purdue and Northwestern virtually are tied, since each has lost one game, but there is a long road ahead for each, especially since the two teams meet twice.

In matter of time Northwestern has an advantage in that it doesn't play tonight, and only has four games remaining, while Purdue must play seven games. But Northwestern must travel to Michigan, Ohio State, and Purdue for three of its contests. Not only are these opponents a most serious threat, but the matter of home playing conditions must be considered.

Two teams—Minnesota and Michigan—to all practical purposes are tied for third place in that each has lost two games. And, with the leaders fighting each other, either Michigan or Minnesota or both might finish with a share of the title.

Four Games Tonight.

This week's schedule, opening with four games tonight and concluding Saturday with five games, is the heaviest so far this year. All the leaders, except Northwestern, which is not scheduled tonight, will have plenty of action if they wish to maintain a championship pace. Including tonight's games the schedule for the first four teams follows:

NORTHWESTERN—At Purdue; at Michigan; at Ohio State; Purdue at home.

Michigan's best test comes tonight against Iowa, and the strengthened Hawkeye team may win. However, if the Wolverines play near the form they demonstrated in beating Ohio State recently, 38 to 25, Iowa will be outclassed. Iowa scored 11 free throws in 12 attempts against Northwestern Saturday night as one factor in its victory, and this will be difficult to duplicate. The Wildcats will vouch for that, for they had a record of similar proportion against Wisconsin this year while against Iowa they only made seven points in 19 tries.

Purdue Meets Ohio.

Purdue also may have its time fully occupied tonight. The Boilermakers required an overtime period to lick Ohio at Columbus, 38 to 33, a week ago. Ohio may reverse the score tonight at Lafayette. Minnesota plays at Illinois tonight, and a defeat will practically squelch its title aspirations. The game seems about an even proposition.

The other contest tonight, Wisconsin at Indiana, has no bearing on the championship. It is the first game of the series. The Badgers should win and must if they are to avoid their worst Big Ten season.

Northwestern and Purdue, of course, hold the spot Saturday at Lafayette. The result will go far to give final form to the 1932 race, and Northwestern must win to keep in the race. Failure may break the team's morale completely. Iowa will have opportunity Saturday to even up with Indiana at Iowa City. Michigan probably can dispose of Illinois, and certainly Ohio should whip Chicago. Wisconsin and Minnesota probably will be a very close game, but the Gophers will have a home floor advantage.

Promoter Mique Malloy has secured in Horner the most dangerous opponent Stuhley has been asked to face. Horner has boxed Jackie Fields, Bucky Lawless, Ben Jeby, Johnny Indrisano, and others. His best achievement was the flooring of King Tut in Detroit last year.

Part of tonight's proceeds are to go to the South Shore Infant Welfare, Russell station. Mrs. Henry W. Kennedy is chairman of the directorate.

Johnny Baima of Lawndale and Freddie Eller of Louisville meet in the other half of the double windup. This pair boxed before and Eller knocked out Baima. The Louisville boy also holds a decision over Bud Saltis. Baima has recovered from his recent illness.

MILWAUKEE STAR ROLLS THREE 700 TOURNEY SERIES

Frank Benkovic rolled what is believed to be a world record for nine games yesterday in leading the Plankinton Arcade five of Milwaukee into the lead in the Greater Chicago handicap bowling tournament at the Gold Coast alleys.

Benkovic rolled 774 in the five man event in which his team collected 3,274 pins; scored 729 in the doubles, in which he and C. Gordon totaled 1,420 and in the singles piled up a 756 score. His all-events total was 2,259 for a grand average of 251. Other members of the Milwaukee team were F. Lorenz, F. Pfeifer and A. Rogahn Jr.

New Bedford Triumphs, 1-0, Over Hakoah Soccer Team

New York, Feb. 14.—[Special.]—With the score tied up to within two minutes of the end, New Bedford scored as the direct result of a free kick on a foul to defeat the Hakoah All-Stars, 1 to 0, today in the eastern semi-final of the annual United States Football association cup play.

Jim Corbett Improves; Gets Release from Hospital

Shamrocks Triumph, 4-0; Take 2d Place

charging the diminutive Wiseman, and it was Peewee who conducted the foray which made the score 2 to 0. He passed to Preslinik after the Shamrocks had harried Rheaume for about five minutes with almost no recess, and Tony drove it home. The deed was done in 8:28.

Two More for Shamrocks.

The first twelve minutes of the third period saw only a small amount of hockey, both teams seeming to remember that they had overlooked their joint reputation for belligerence. There was a deal of slashing, tripping and charging which resulted in eight penalties during these 12 minutes.

The Shamrocks decided their previous bouts with the Fliers were sufficient for one season, and got down to the business of scoring and in almost no time at all had counted twice. Brydson delivered the first with a lift from McFadyen in 13:55, and Riley passed to Wiseman to make the score 4 to 0, less than two minutes after.

The Fliers, however, evidently thought there hadn't been enough battling for one evening and Rennie and Mackenzie began the argument which brought the evening to a successful Shamrock-Flier conclusion.

NOVOTNY WINS FLORIDA TOURNEY FROM LEE CHASE

Novotny, four up after the first nine holes of the 36 hole match, barely clung to his advantage in the final holes as his long game cracked and he put five consecutive tee shots into the rough. Once Chase cut the westerner's lead to one up, but his own game became ragged and he lost the 33d and 34th holes to Novotny's pars.

Vines Loses to Stoefen in Los Angeles Tourney

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Ellsworth Vines, national men's singles tennis champion, suffered his first tournament defeat of the 1932 season here today. He lost to Lester Stoefen of Los Angeles, ranked No. 15 nationally, in four sets in the men's singles final of the annual city championships, 6-4, 5-7, 6-2, 6-4.

Katherine Pawls Breaks 440 Swimming Record

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Feb. 14.—(AP)—Katherine Pawls, Fort Lauderdale swimming star, clipped 43 2-5 seconds off the national women's 440 yard breast stroke record at the Casino here today. Her time was 6:46 2-5. The old record was set in 1925 by Agnes Geraghty.

C. Y. O. RESULTS

St. Ita's 22 to 20 overtime victory over the heretofore unbeaten St. Gertrude's lightweights proved to be the big upset of yesterday's battles in the Catholic Youth Basketball league. While St. Gertrude still leads in the north shore division, yesterday's defeat may seriously impede its title march as the loss whittled its margin over second and third place quintets considerably.

The feature contest of the central division, St. Joseph's heavyweights annexed their seventy-first consecutive triumph by beating Holy Name cathedral, 23 to 16. Victories by St. Rose and St. Elizabeth in the south section threw both quintets into a deadlock for the lead. Scores yesterday:

Owl's Winter Food Habits Are Found

BY BOB BECKER.

Could one of the long eared owls in Illinois catch a bat on the wing? A. R. Cahn of the University of Illinois raises this interesting question as a result of finding the remains of five bats [two species] in the pellets under a long eared owl roost.

In investigating the winter food habits of this species, Cahn and his associate, Jack T. Kemp, found a roosting colony of seven of these long eared hunters. They were living just a short distance from the university, having picked on an evergreen in which to hide during the daytime.

Cahn made weekly trips to this roost to collect the regurgitated pellets which would yield information on what the birds were eating from November to April. In all, 1,201 of these pellets were brought into the laboratory to be examined.

Five Bats Are Eaten.

Then came the discovery that these feathered nocturnal prowlers had caught and eaten five bats, and the question was: Did they catch them on the wing? Cahn doubts if they did, as he believes that a long eared owl can't turn the trick.

Another interesting observation which this investigator made in the course of examining more than 1,200 pellets was this: Whenever he found skulls which had not been disarticulated it was noticeable that the skull had been crushed at its widest point. In other words, it looks as if the long eared owl makes short work of his mouse or other victim by quickly crushing the skull and thus killing almost instantly.

Feeding Habits Are Mystery.

Inasmuch as owls are nocturnal hunters, but comparatively little information based on observations has been secured on their feeding habits. This examination of pellets gave some pretty good clews. In the case of the long eared owl it was found that this species apparently had picked up a few prairie mice from the open country. On the other hand there was evidence that this species had eaten 621 wood mice.

Therefore, by using a little of Sherlock Holmes' system, it was easy to figure this point: Whereas the long eared owls had caught such a large ration of white footed mice that live in the woods, it is apparent that this species prefers the woods for its hunting ground in contrast to the short eared species, which chooses to hunt the open fields where a different species of white footed mouse is found.

GILDAY FACES TRIAL TODAY IN SHOOTING CASE

Daniel L. Gilday, dry reformer, who while intoxicated, according to the prosecution, shot and severely wounded Herman Knol, 17 years old, 6938 South May street, will appear for trial today before Chief Justice Harry Fisher of the Criminal court. The case is on the chief justice's call and unless the defense asks for a continuance indications are that the trial will start immediately.

DANIEL GILDAY.

Assistant State's Attorney Mal Coghlan, who is in charge of the prosecution, said that he is ready for immediate trial. Knol has recovered from his wound and is expected to be in court today. However, unless Gilday waives a jury, the case may have to be continued because Judge Fisher hears only nonjury cases.

The shooting occurred on Nov. 29. Knol and Herman Alkema, 7210 South Sangamon street, were on their way to the Open Door mission at 7014 South Halsted street. They say they saw Gilday staggering and attempted to help him. Gilday jerked away from them, they say, and shot Knol in the abdomen. Gilday denied that he was intoxicated.

FATHER KILLS 3 OF 7 CHILDREN, WOUNDS 3, DIES

Charleston, W. Va., Feb. 14.—[Special.]—In a fit of despondency which police say was caused by financial difficulties, B. E. White, 40, early today killed three of his seven children and perhaps fatally injured three others, and then committed suicide.

The bodies were found by R. E. Milam, his brother-in-law, at whose home Mrs. White is confined with a new born baby.

As the tragedy was reconstructed by police, White had killed two of the children with a hatched and had beaten the others with an iron poker. Then, in the same room, and with the bodies of his children lying at his feet, he killed himself with a shotgun.

Grace, 14, and John, 4, were killed instantly by blows from the hatchet. Hilda, 2, died after being taken to a hospital, where James, 10; Katherine, 8, and Malcolm, 9, are being treated for fractured skulls.

Coroner William F. Work said White had left a note which indicated that he had contemplated the killings during a fit of insanity caused by financial worries.

INTELLIGENCE TEST WEEDS OUT REALTY BROKERS

New Law Gives Public More Protection.

BY AL CHASE.

Prior to last September any person who could convince the state real estate brokerage license committee that he was honest, even though he didn't know the difference between a subdivision and a rent receipt, was given a license. And when we see the number of fraudulent free lot subdivision firms and other unscrupulous realty organizations operating in and around Chicago one assumes that there is no lack of integrity wasn't looked into very carefully by the state committee at that time.

D. AVERY KIMBARK [Walinger Photo.]

Now, according to D. Avery Kimbark, a new member of the state committee, the revised state law provides that applicants must pass an intelligence test and prove their competency to operate as realty brokers. Thus a new protection is being given the real estate buying public, he points out.

Probably a greater number of applications for brokerage licenses have been denied since Sept. 1 or have been withdrawn to be filed again at a later date after the applicants have acquired greater competency than ever in the history of the real estate business in Illinois, Mr. Kimbark states.

Applications for brokerage licenses totaling 205 have been passed on by the real estate examining committee of the state department of registration and education since the amended brokerage license law went into effect. Twenty-five of these have been either denied by the committee or withdrawn by the applicants at the suggestion of the committee.

Provide Four Rules.

A set of rules providing for examination of applicants comprises these four points:

1. The applicant should be familiar with the duties imposed on brokers and salesmen by the real estate brokers' license act of Illinois.

2. He should have the usual knowledge of the customary methods and practices of carrying on the real estate business in the general locality where in the applicant intends to operate.

3. He should be familiar with the code of ethics or rules governing the real estate business, including the broker in his relation to his clients and customers, to other brokers and to the general public and to his employés.

4. He should have practical knowledge of the general duties and responsibilities of a real estate broker or agent in listing, leasing, managing, selling and exchanging real estate.

Mr. Kimbark stated that applicants who have proved their integrity have been denied a license because they knew practically nothing about the intricacies of the realty business; others because they knew little or nothing about the area they were planning to do business in.

1928	14,124
1929	13,701
1930	12,442
1931	10,942

Between January 1 and last Thursday 8,005 renewal licenses for real estate brokers were issued by the state department. Sixty-eight new licenses were issued during the same period.

The license committee, in addition to Mr. Kimbark, comprises Ralph V. Field, executive director of the Illinois Association of Real Estate Boards, and Charles Wanless, realty operator in Springfield. Mr. Kimbark is a director and former first vice president of the Chicago Real Estate board.

Mr. Field worked actively in behalf of revision of the law by the legislature. A year and a half of effort went into the task of getting our Springfield solons to see the necesisty of stiffening the requirements. One of Mr. Field's principal arguments that convinced the legislature was the fact of the anticipated activity in real estate during the next few years.

SHARP ADVANCE NOTED IN CHICAGO GENERAL TRADE

A cut in the building trades wage scales in Chicago, following the national spurt prompted by the currency inflation activity at Washington, brought a sharp upturn in general trade to Chicago during the latter half of the past week, according to trade observers of the Chicago Association of Commerce. During the first half of the week, business in both the wholesale and retail fields had shown marked conservatism, with the average buyer marking time.

Taken as a whole, distribution and sales of seasonal merchandise for the week in both the wholesale and retail fields averaged about up to a year ago. Bargain sales appeared to be the big feature with the average consumer. Smaller shops still reported, however, that they are handling stocks on a small turnover basis.

The steel industry reports better placement of tonnages on the part of railroads, particularly in the line of track accessories and rails. One large railroad has already purchased several thousand tons of rails, and other fair sized orders were placed.

Royal Baking Powder Co. 6 Months' Net Is $725,671

Royal Baking Powder company reports net income of $725,671 for the six months ended Dec. 31, compared with $834,095 for the same period of 1930.

Profits of the M. H. Fishman Co. in 1931 were $153,723, or $1.67 a share, compared with $73,011 in 1930, or 60 cents a share.

INSULL TRUST ASSETS SHRINK 333 MILLIONS

Two Concerns Report Data for 1931.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Staggering losses and depreciation have been the fate of the great investment trusts formed during the later days of the bull stock market which ended in the latter part of 1929. And the two big companies formed by the Insull interests, which were Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and the Corporation Securities company of Chicago, have proved no exception to the rule.

These two interlocking companies made public their annual reports last night. Together they show an aggregate possible depreciation of around 333 million dollars, based on Saturday's market prices for their investment portfolios and including realized losses and reserves set up for possible future losses. Whether and to what extent this depreciation may be recovered depends, of course, on the future action of the stock market.

Discusses Merger.

In connection with these reports, Samuel Insull Jr., vice chairman of both companies, stated that a merger of the two organizations is being considered. This is the first time the reports have been signed by the younger Mr. Insull. Previously they were signed by his father who is chairman of both companies.

Mr. Insull wrote in the Corporation Securities report:

"The management of the company realizes that as a result of the decline in market value of the securities in its portfolio a reorganization of the company must be effected as soon as market conditions show sufficient improvement to warrant such an undertaking. Any such action might involve a consolidation with Insull Utility Investments, Inc., as the two companies were organized for practically the same purposes. They have always been closely affiliated and have a substantial ownership each in the other. It might be found desirable to make other plans for merger or consolidation with some other company under the same general management."

Investment Values Decline.

At the end of 1931, Insull Utility Investments held securities for investment worth $77,975,461 at market prices, although they had cost $252,378,626. Thus, the shrinkage in value was $174,403,165 on Dec. 31. Since then there has been an additional depreciation of around $7,000,000. In addition to last year's depreciation in its investment portfolio, the company had a realized loss of $713,766 on transactions in its own securities, a write-down of $5,702,841 on its own securities still held and it set up reserves aggregating $22,000,000 against advances to affiliated companies and investment securities loaned to them.

At the end of 1931, the Corporation Securities company held securities for investment worth $33,970,252 at market prices, although they had cost $145,455,705. Thus, the shrinkage in value was $111,485,453 on Dec. 31. Since then there has been an additional depreciation of around $4,500,000. In addition to last year's depreciation in the investment portfolio, the company had a realized loss of $150,966 in dealings in its own securities, a write-down of $4,467,437 in its own securities still held and reserves totaling $1,112,406 for possible future losses.

Huge Depreciation.

Thus, the two companies together had a depreciation of nearly 286 million dollars in their investments at the end of 1931, their write-offs and reserves aggregated around 36 million dollars and depreciation since Dec. 31 has totaled about 11½ million dollars.

How this vast depreciation has taken place is indicated in the lists of securities held by both companies. For example, Insull Utility investments at the end of 1931 held 181,639 shares of Commonwealth Edison bought at an average of $384 a share and quoted at $112 on Saturday; 144,137 shares of Peoples Gas bought at an average of $296 and now at $110; 2,895,096 shares of Middle West Utilities bought at 21 and now at 5; 675,278 shares of Corporation Securities bought at 21 and now at 1¼ and 371,755 preferred shares brought at 48 and now at 3; 151,050 shares of Midland United bought at 23 and now at 5¼; 61,607 shares of North American Light & Power bought at 61 and now at 17½; 53,195 shares of Public Service of Northern Illinois bought at 282 and now 115; and 539,564 shares of Central & South West Utilities at 17 and now at 6.

List of Holdings.

Furthermore, the portfolio of Corporation Securities shows 63,834 shares of Commonwealth Edison bought at an average of $218 a share; 949,464 shares of Insull Utilities common bought at 50 and now at 4¼ and 95,626 preferred shares bought at 87 and now at 7; 646,517 shares of Middle West Utilities bought at 23 and 40,220 preferred shares at 98 and now at 37; 34,807 shares of Peoples Gas at 293; 13,782 shares of Public Service at 293; 30,718 shares of Central and South West Utilities at 18.

At the end of 1931 the aggregate market value of the two companies' investment holdings was $111,945,713, while their bank loans and current borrowings totaled $83,498,647. Insull Utilities had borrowings of $53,257,145 and Corporation Securities, $30,241,502. Around 80 or 90 per cent of the companies' securities was pledged as collateral to secure their loans. On Dec. 31, the two companies had only $2,772,610 in cash, of which Insull Utilities had $1,679,893 and Corporation Securities, $1,092,717.

$81,758,000 Funded Debt.

The two companies have a combined funded debt of $81,758,000, of which Insull Utilities has $57,725,000 and Corporation Securities, $24,033,000. In-

U. S. GYPSUM REPORTS $3,563,142 NET INCOME FOR 1931 OPERATIONS

Earnings of the United States Gypsum company were adversely affected last year by the drastic decline in consumption of building products. However, this was offset to some extent by manufacturing and distribution economies and by marketing new products, according to the annual report issued last night by President Sewell L. Avery.

Net income for 1931 was $3,563,142 after depreciation, depletion and federal income taxes but before some extraordinary charges which where taken from surplus. The stated income was equivalent, after preferred dividends to $2.48 a share on 1,217,472 common shares. Net income for 1930 was $5,408,685, or $4.01 a share on 1,212,598 shares. Cash dividends paid last year totaled $2,454,884, compared with $3,013,653 in 1930.

The company charged from surplus $551,450 for abandoned plants and $116,619 for depreciation in Canadian exchange. It credited surplus with $29,750 as the result of issuing stock at prices higher than the $20 par value. The final result was that total surplus increased $569,939 to $35,133,750. The balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1931, shows current assets at $18,157,433; current liabilities, $1,176,286; and total assets, $69,887,396.

SEEK TO PREVENT MONON CONTROL PASSING TO EAST

Washington, D. C., Feb. 14.—(AP)—The demands of eastern railroads that they be permitted to consolidated all roads in that region into four systems instead of five are to meet new opposition tomorrow before the interstate commerce commission.

Hardly mentioned at earlier hearings on the question, the fight of southern trade organizations, the Southern railway, and the Louisville and Nashville railroad against the proposed allocation of the Chicago, Indianapolis, and Louisville railway (Monon) is ready for presentation.

The Monon would go to the Baltimore and Ohio under the plan of the carriers for four systems, instead of jointly to the Southern and Atlantic Coast Line systems. At present the Southern and the Louisville and Nashville, the latter controlled by the Coast Line, own the Monon jointly.

There also is objection in some quarters to changing the allocation of the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, another middle western north and south artery. Southern trade organizations view the Monon and the Chicago and Eastern Illinois as very useful arteries of trade between the south and Chicago.

CAUTION RULES IN WHEAT MART DESPITE GAINS

U. S. Grain Holdings Seen as Threat.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Speculative psychology has changed materially during the last week, and with the first real constructive effort on the part of congress to bring about a revival in confidence wheat prices have advanced to around the levels which prevailed late in November. There have been several bulges recently which failed to hold, with the result that the trade is not inclined to abandon its desire to proceed with caution until the situation becomes more clearly defined.

However, as many operators see it, the foundation is being laid for much better conditions than have prevailed for many months and the era of steady price deflation is regarded as having passed. Few, however, expect a runaway market at the present time, as the weight of the cash grain has not been lifted from the pits to any great extent. Canada alone, it is estimated, has sufficient wheat to dispose of to permit sales of 1,000,000 bu per day from now until July 1 and still leave a liberal carryover.

Want Farm Board Out of Way.

The best posted interests in the trade claim that about all the theoretical bullish ideas that can be brought forward came to light during the last week, as far as efforts to improve financial conditions are concerned, and it now remains to be seen whether congress will do the one thing that might go far toward restoring world-wide confidence in the wheat market.

For several years, as the trade sees it, the holdings of wheat by the farm board have been hanging over the domestic and foreign markets, and if this threat can be removed nothing will prevent an advance to a figure more in line with the actual cost of production.

According to recent statistics there was about 30 per cent of the total population of the United States engaged in agricultural pursuits or living in rural areas. So far the legislation passed by congress has been mainly of a kind that would affect the farmer only indirectly. It is pointed out that if congress will appropriate around $75,000,000 more that the domestic as well as the world's wheat situation can be made much more favorable.

Estimate Holdings.

It is estimated that the Stabilization corporation owns between 150,000,000 and 175,000,000 bu cash wheat. This grain, it has been asserted, by the admixture of a simple red or green dye could be rendered unfit, or rather uninviting, for human consumption and instantly removing it as a factor in the world's wheat situation, although it would still remain available for animal food.

Those who have given this idea considerable thought claim Germany rendered sufficient rye uninviting for human consumption from the 1930 crop by the dye method to practically dispose of its surplus to live stock feeders. It is pointed out that there would be considerable money coming back to the government if the idea was followed out, as the grain could be sold to live stock feeders and others in this country and abroad.

According to official estimates the average carryover of wheat—the so-called world's total—has been around 410,000,000 bu, compared with 659,000,000 bu on July 1, 1931, there being an excess of 249,000,000 bu as compared with the eight year average. The effect of this sudden removal of the farm board holdings of, say, 175,000,000 bu by dyeing or some similar method would cut down the world's supply to much more normal proportions, and it is claimed that the low price would more than discount the excess in the stock as compared with normal.

Await Crop Scare Period.

The wheat trade is not overlooking the possibility of a major crop scare developing in the next few weeks, and cables during the past week suggested that all was not well with the European crop, with dry weather talk coming from Italy, India and Australia. According to recent figures there were around 6,500,000 acres of wheat in the American southwest which went into the winter with a condition far below normal, due to drought. It is expected that if a crop scare starts in March or April it will be in this section of the country.

Lower prices were made for wheat early the past week, but the market executed one of its famous right about face movements and more than recovered the loss, closing 2⅝@3c higher as compared with the previous week. March finished Saturday at 58¼c; May, 61½c; July, 61¾@61⅞c, and September, 63¼@63⅝c. Range of prices follows:

Illinois Mines Produce 3,851,249 Tons in January

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 14.—(AP)—With 40,998 men averaging 13.6 days at work, 3,851,249 tons of coal were produced in Illinois mines during January, the state department of mines and minerals announced today. Production was 2,678,068 tons less than the five year average for January, the monthly report said. There were 144 shipping mines in operation last month, compared with 221 in 1927 and 186.4 as the January average since then.

Marquette Cement Given 2,500,000 Barrel Order

A single order totaling 2,500,000 barrels of cement, the largest ever awarded in the middle west for delivery in 12 months, has been received by the Marquette Cement Manufacturing company from the Illinois department of public works and buildings. This announcement was made by Mr. Theodore G. Dickinson, president, who also stated that it is the largest order ever received by his organization or probably any other in the cement industry.

New York Bankers Discover Shortcomings in Credit Bill

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 14.—The enthusiasm of bankers here for the Glass-Steagall bill was tempered somewhat today by the belief that the three amendments to the measure proposed by the senate banking and currency committee will, if included in the final draft, detract from the effectiveness of the bill.

The amendment with respect to loans to groups of five or more member banks requiring that such banks must first exhaust their eligible and acceptance assets before being permitted to borrow on their secured promissory notes, while apparently reasonable and fair, will in practice create great difficulties, bankers said.

In cases where such groups of banks seek loans, it will be, bankers said, not because all members of the group are in need but because one or two of their number are. These needy banks will, of course, have exhausted their supplies of eligible paper long before they ask their neighbor banks to support them, and will have only ineligible assets to pledge to the group. But under the amendment the remaining members of the group, if they have eligible paper left, will be forced either to share their eligibles with the distressed bank or to abstain from rendering assistance to it through group borrowing from the reserve.

Hard to Persuade.

It will be difficult, it was suggested, to persuade bankers in a community where one or two institutions are in trouble and the rest are strong that the strong bankers should share their eligibles with the weaker. On the other hand, under the bill as it was originally framed, the weaker banks would have been able to pledge their sound, but ineligible, assets with the group and the group in turn to borrow from the federal to assist these weak members, without the necessity for every member of the association to reduce itself to the level of its neediest members.

The restriction making individual Lombard loans available only to banks with capital of $500,000 or less means that the larger banks which have exhausted their supplies of eligible paper would have to seek assistance through the group method.

Struggle for Liquidity.

This provision will mean that the larger city banks will have to continue to hoard their eligibles with the same frantic struggle to maintain liquidity as has recently proved so damaging. If, as was originally set forth in the bill, the larger banks could be assured of the ability to borrow from the federal reserve in an emergency on assets not now eligible, they would no longer be under the necessity of restricting their investments so largely to eligible paper and would be in a position to take a more liberal attitude toward the requirements of their customers. It is doubtful whether any of the very large banks would have to take advantage of the Lombard loan privilege, but the knowledge that, if pressed, they had this to fall back on would greatly reassure them.

Another criticism of the bill made by bankers is directed against the one year limitation that has been placed upon the provision allowing federal reserve banks to make use of United States government securities for the 60 per cent collateral backing behind federal reserve notes.

SUDDEN STOCK UPTURN MAKES WALL ST. THINK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Feb. 14.—Last week's abrupt advance in the markets may itself have meant much or little; the event will prove which. It has had the usual result of reviving cheerfulness which such reversals of the trend are apt to produce.

Possibly the effect was no greater, even in such unexpectedly emphatic recoveries like those of last October or of the middle of last month, than to set the financial community thinking whether there might not be another side to things. They resemble in that respect the occasional "sharp reactions" which at such times as November, 1928, and March, 1929, varied the upward sweep of stock exchange prices from one extravagant valuation to another.

In 1929, as nowadays, the pressure of the investing and speculating public was altogether in one direction. No prices could be too high in that other episode and none could be too low in the public mind of 1931. Nevertheless the market continued to be

This "shrinkage" can often be cut down 30% to 50% under estate plans of The Northern Trust Company

It comes to them "shrunken"... by expenses during probate that may be necessary and justifiable. Thus the first transfer occurs.

But usually, in the course of years, a large part of this same estate suffers a second and equally drastic shrinkage, caused by the transfer of property, let us say, from the mother to her children.

This is the costly second transfer!

What charges will accrue to your estate at both its first and its second transfers The Northern Trust Company offers to outline for you today.

Out of the rich experience of more than 42 years, it stands ready to assist you and your attorney to prepare an individual estate plan.

For many, such Northern Trust Plans have cut down estate transfer costs 30% to 50%. Each is drawn particularly for a specific family and a specific group of holdings.

To men and women with estates of more than $100,000, Northern Trust Estate Plans prove interesting, valuable. Their advantages are outlined in the booklet, "A Northern Trust Plan." Every person of means is invited to write for it, or to come in for all the facts.

It is perfectly true that the intermittent reactions of three or four years ago are recognized now to have been preliminary warning of what was eventually to happen with the general market. When the end came there were plenty of mournful investors and speculators who wondered why they had not taken the market's own fairly broad hints of six or nine months before. But the question remained, how much of prophetic power had been shown by the market? Its general trend at any rate was unmistakable up to the very last.

We have been making tradition for a future Wall Street as rapidly in these days as it was made in 1928 and 1929. Its character has been equally remarkable. It is as possible to say of what has lately been presented on the market as it was of the climax of the speculation for the rise, that nobody, two years before, could have dreamed either of such prices or of such inferences from them as the public was drawing.

All things being what they were and what they are, the question is bound occasionally to come up whether at such times the markets foreshadow developments of the future or merely reflect the mood of the moment. There is no dispute nowadays as to which was the market's character three years ago; it was a measure of that day's mental vagaries and unsound ideas. Nowadays we cannot imagine how any one could have fallen victim to them. But nobody in the middle of 1929 took any such view of it, and apparently nobody believes it to be true of the present situation.

Prices Out of Line.

This is the more curious because the extravagances of 1931 and 1932 have been as completely out of line with human experience as those of 1929 and 1928. The picture presented in those other years—stocks rising 5 or 10 points a day when their net investment yield was already barely 1½ or 2 per cent, prices adjusted to "thirty times earnings" instead of the traditional "ten times," shares paying a 5 per cent dividend quoted at 200 or 300—nowadays stands in its proper place in the Wall street gallery. In 1950, possibly in 1940, it will be hard to make even the Wall street of that day believe that such things ever happened. It is not easy, even now, to convince the new generation that the events on the American markets of 1920 and the German markets of 1923 were what they were.

Perhaps, in a less imaginative future, it will be equally hard to make a new generation believe that high grade railway bonds were quoted in 1931, in a 3 per cent money market, at prices to yield 7 and 8 per cent, that 4 and 5 per cent bonds of entirely solvent railways sold on the stock exchange at 40 or 50 cents on the dollar, or that securities of important European governments and cities, regularly paying interest, would return to the investor, if bought at the market's low, an income of 15 to 35 per cent. But that kind of market has been taken for granted in this present period.

As True Indicator.

It is entirely probable that the markets will some day return to the kind of sober equilibrium which made them, in such years as 1926 and 1924 and 1922, and in most of the pre-war period, a trustworthy indicator of the real course of finance, trade, and industry. Even then they will probably be driven into occasional very deceptive forecasts by the efforts of imaginative speculators.

On those earlier occasions, however, it was always said that the cool and judicious attitude of the general public applied a useful restraint to the experiments of speculative Wall street. There are quite as many sober and sensible minds in the practical outside public as there ever were, but the psychology to which even they yielded in the two years beginning with 1928 and the as yet undetermined period beginning with 1930 will always provide a topic for study and theory by future historical investigators.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET FINISHES CLOSE TO STOCKS

New York, Feb. 14.—(AP)—The bond market moved to substantially higher levels last week and, although it could not keep abreast of the booming stock list, it finished Saturday's session not many laps behind.

While somewhat decrepit at the beginning of the week, it started upward on Thursday following announcement from Washington that a credit expansion policy was to be inaugurated by the government through passage of the Glass-Steagall bill.

Bankers and dealers were a little uncertain at first as to just how bonds would be affected by the new legislation. When, however, Washington authorities stressed the point that no undue inflation was contemplated and that only efforts would be made to overcome excessive deflation, listed mortgages at once came into demand.

Hold Bond Spotlight.

In the bond upturn, lower priced convertible issues of the railways held the spotlight. A number of these jumped from 1 to 3 or more points Thursday and, following Friday's holiday, they increased their gains from 1 to 6 points. Although there was not such a rush to buy the higher grade lines, most of those registered moderate advances.

United States government obligations also joined in the optimistic procession and all of them marked up their prices. Investors in this department have the belief that it is due for a further upward movement owing to the provision in the new Glass-Steagall bill that government bonds may be used as a basis for currency issues.

Note Strong Undertone.

The advance of utilities and industrials was not so conspicuous as in the rail section, but their undertone was strong. American Telephone convertible 4½s finished several points higher, as did Armour 5½s, Dodge 6s, Goodrich 6s, International Paper convertible 5s, International Telephone convertible 4½s and Sinclair 6½s.

Foreign obligations were steady during most of the week and advances were recorded on Saturday by various South American, German, British and French issues. Japanese loans were mixed, but Oriental Development 6s gained more than 2 points.

Continental Clay Products Finance Plan Announced

JUST A REAL GOOD JOB.

We haven't a salesman in our organization making $200 per week, but we do have a happy successful sales force earning a very comfortable living.

We are an old established concern, doing business all over Chicago for the past 50 years. The department this ad refers to is a new branch of this business. The next six months is our busiest season and we therefore wish to talk to salesmen who are sincerely seeking a permanent connection where a day's effort is rewarded with cash and not promises.

Men with direct to consumer sales experience or a desire to enter this field will be given preference, although our merchandise and plan of selling is distinctly new and nothing like anything you ever sold or heard of before.

If you believe in yourself and can tell the truth, call at the address below. You will be given a prompt, courteous interview of plain, unvarnished facts, and if we employ you, you will receive every assistance and co-operation.

MEN

In every large city, every few years something comes along where a lot of men make real money. The average man spends a lot of time looking for that deal. Well you can stop looking—this is it. We have a deal where a lot of men are making money in a big way, and did that right through 1931, and are still doing it. I am sure you will agree if we have a deal where men in 1931 could do that, we must have an unusual proposition. We have. The product offers real appeal and fills a big need. We have a lead system that eliminates the cold turkey that men hate to do so badly. If you possess a little experience and are self starter, can work for yourself without a boss and feel you have enough ingenuity to make good in a business where a lot of other men are making good, after you have been properly instructed by experienced men, then you are one of the men we are looking for. Come in and see the product and if it appeals to you then we will talk business. You don't have to invest or put up one cent. We finance the business. Call 9 to 12 and 1 to 4, 10th floor, Mather Tower Bldg., 75 E. Wacker-dr. Ask for employment manager.
